'Citizens' lobby' really a political party?

CAP alive and well despite Stavros, ready for action

by LYNN ASINOF
A news analysis

The Citizens Action Program (CAP) is alive and well and functioning in Wheeling, despite the fact that residents have not heard the name in several months.

The group was announced with great fanfare as a "citizens' lobby" last November, but has all the earmarks of a would-be political party. At that time the seven CAP leaders were linked to James Stavros, former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman who was recently indicted for extortion and conspiracy.

Stavros' indictment along with five other former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials coincided with the last time the CAP organization was mentioned at a public meeting.

On Jan. 31, the day the indictments were returned, Trustee William Hein and other CAP members presented the Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital with a map of potential sites for a satellite facility.

HEIN, HOWEVER, said the indictments have had no effect on CAP activities. He said the group is continuing to meet two or three times a month to develop new programs.

"If you will notice, some of the most outspoken men in the community are members of CAP," he said. Besides Hein, the CAP group includes plan commissioners Gil Monoson, Desere Smet and Jack Metzger, park commissioners Hugh Wilson and Frank Schnaitmann, and police and fire commissioner Mike Moran.

Hein said that individual CAP members who propose programs first discuss their ideas with the rest of the CAP organization.

According to Hein, the most recent example is Monoson's plan to file a class action suit against developer George Harhen to get two streets completed in the Hollywood Ridge subdivision. Hein said the matter was discussed among the CAP membership before being publicly announced last week.

"Everything that comes out on an individual basis has been discussed with the CAP organization," he said.

MONOSON AGREED that the indictments have had no effect on CAP's activities, although announcement of belonging to the CAP group ended about the same time the indictments were returned.

"It may be coincidental with the indictments," Monoson said, "but it isn't because of them. I would say that categorically."

Hein said the group's name has not been mentioned because members don't feel such "flag-waving" is necessary. The group, however, may be trying to avoid some of the speculation about their political aspirations by keeping the CAP name out of the public eye.

SEVERAL CAP members were upset that the group was classified as a would-be political party. Like other members, Hein said the group has not ruled out political involvement, but has also not decided to get involved at this point.

"Quite frankly, we have not discussed anything politically. It's not saying that we would not have aspirations," he said. "We're taking a wait and see attitude."

Wheeling politics are now in a state of flux. The recent indictments have created greater citizen interest in local government, and the village board members are undergoing significant changes in their attitudes towards local government.

While the trustees are changing long-standing board policies to encourage citizen participation, they are also debating among themselves whether to seek reelection. Most have agreed that any decision at this time is premature.

OTHER ISSUES also appear to have divided the CAP group. For example, many residents have attacked Hein for conflict of interest because he works for Wheeling Auto Parts, Inc., a firm that does business with the village.

The "citizens' lobby" was also dragged into a controversy over the location of the Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital's proposed satellite facility. Spokesmen for the group announced CAP support for the hospital, which planned to purchase the Childerley Retreat House property.

Two CAP members, Schnaitmann and Wilson, advocated development of a park site on the Childerly property as members of the park board.

Other CAP members on the plan commission, including Metzger and Monoson, voted against a park designation on the Childerley site, saying it would be a stumbling block to the hospital. The matter was finally resolved when Franklin Boulevard abandoned the Childerley site for another location.

Hein said he expected individual CAP members to continue to propose village programs and reforms as a sounding-board for the community. He also said the group may soon be expanded to nine members, but declined to mention names.

"This is what CAP is designed to be," he said. "This is what it was meant to be."

Schools set Gill salary at $37,000

Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill is the highest-paid elementary school administrator in the Northwest suburbs, having just received a new, three-year contract setting his annual salary at $37,000.

The contract, approved last week by the school board, reflects an 11 per cent increase over the $33,300 paid to the superintendent for the 1973-74 academic year. It goes into effect July 1.

Gill's contract also provides that he will receive four weeks' paid vacation and the usual benefits specified for all full-time employees of School Dist. 21, including life, health and accident insurance.

The $33,300 received by Gill for the current year is comparable to the salaries of other local elementary school superintendents. Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Supt. Donald Strong is making $36,000, Elk Grove Twp. Dist. 59 Supt. James Erviti receives $34,182 and Mount Prospect Dist. 26 Supt. John Fridlund's salary is $27,000. High School Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert is currently making $38,500.

LIKE SEVERAL other elementary school superintendents, Gill receives a car to use in addition to his regular salary and contract benefits. The car is replaced every two years and the vehicle Gill presently uses is to be traded next year.

Last year, Gill received a six per cent pay raise over his previous salary of $31,500. The superintendent's raise was comparable to a 6 per cent pay hike negotiated by Dist. 21 teachers.

Bargaining teams representing local teachers and the Dist. 21 school board are currently negotiating the 1974-75 teacher contract. There is no relationship between the salaries provided administrators and teacher salaries.

School election becomes a race

Carol Karzen, 430 Regent Dr., Buffalo Grove, has made it a race by filing to participate in the April 13 Dist. 21 school board election. The election was previously uncontested.

Mrs. Karzen is the only candidate who has the support of the Dist. 21 General Caucus.

Incumbent school board members Jeremiah Crise and Jack Lane, both of Arlington Heights, are running without caucus support.

Two three-year seats on the board are available.

THERE'S NO PAPER shortage behind the Wheeling Village hall as village employees Dean Aehlert, left, and Michael Weiner, right, add another bundle to the pile.

Residents can show their support for the Wheeling Instrumental League by dropping their bundled newspapers inside the collection bin.

Ownership probe delays street work

Plans to improve Wheeling streets in the industrial area east of Wheeling Road are being held up until more information is available on who owns the property.

The village has proposed vacating Railroad Avenue, and selling the property to nearby property owners. The money from this sale would be used to improve W. Pine Street.

Village Engineer Larry Oppenheimer, however, said it is not clear if the village or the Soo Line Railroad owns the Railroad Avenue property. He said that if the railroad owns the street, the village cannot vacate the property.

Trustee Ed Berger said the village would still be able to improve W. Pine Street by getting contributions from nearby property owners who would benefit from a better road into the area.

The cost of improving W. Pine Street is $27,000, including 30-foot pavement, sewers, and curbs and gutters.

TO RAISE THE necessary funds, the village is also investigating the possibility of vacating Pine Street, which runs off of W. Pine Street. The village is contacting property owners to find out if anyone would be landlocked by the vacation and if owners are willing to contribute to the project.

The project was proposed by Berger after representatives from Evanger Dog and Cat Food Co., Inc. complained about the condition of roads in the area. In realigning Wheeling Road, the village vacated a short stretch of roadway leading to the Evanger plant. The firm was then required to take a longer route to the property over the dirt and gravel roads.

Berger said the village was obligated to try to help Evanger, since the Wheeling Road project had led to a loss of customers for the company. The trustee said he had been told that several clients do not want to bring their heavy trucks to the plant anymore.

"We owe this man right here for a disservice we helped to create," Berger said. He added, however, that he does not want to spend taxpayers' money to finance the project.

M. O. HORCHER, administrative assistant, said property owners contacted on the matter have been interested in the project. He noted that property value in

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kusper said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

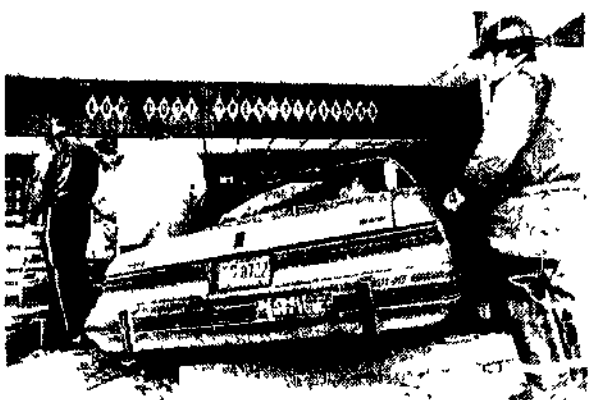

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kusper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kusper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Motorist invents drive-in pharmacy

Mrs. Nancy Popp of Arlington Heights was attempting to park her car when suddenly, well . . . things got out of hand. Mrs. Popp found herself — and her car — inside the Medicare Pharmacy in downtown Arlington Heights. No one was injured and the pharmacists carried on business as usual, as much as they could.

Hoffman Estates woman charged

Mrs. Penny Rouse, 24, of Hoffman Estates will be arraigned in court April 29 on charges placed against her last week of keeping a house of prostitution in her Barrington Lakes apartment. Police said after a raid on the apartment that they seized "meticulously kept" records naming hundreds of clients of the prostitution ring, including prominent Chicago-area figures. The apartment is thought to have been the headquarters of a suburban ring of $200-an-hour prostitutes.

Appeal on low-income housing

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. will try again and seek an appeal to a court ruling regarding low-and moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights. The MHDC will seek reversal of a ruling which upheld the village board's refusal to rezone property owned by the Clerics of St. Viator to allow a low-and moderate-income housing project to be built.

Youths charged for damage

Two local youths were charged Friday with arson and criminal damage in connection with explosions at Woodfield Theatre. A Hoffman Estates youth and a Schaumburg youth were charged and released on $5,000 bond. One of the youth was ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination. The youths were charged in connection with a Feb. 27 fire in the men's room of the theater and a March 4 blaze caused by someone leaving a lighted cigaret near a partially opened gas meter.

Dist. 21 head gets top pay

The superintendent of School Dist. 21 now tops the salary list of elementary school administrators. Gill just received a new three-year contract for $37,000, four weeks paid vacation, and, like many other superintendents, a new car every two years. Gill's salary may not top the list for long, his salary was simply the first to be renegotiated this year.

Police seeking weekend arsonist

Sheriff's police were looking for an arsonist who set fire to four autos and a storage shed over the weekend in a three-block area of unincorporated Des Plaines. Police said three of the autos were completely gutted by flames. The fires occurred about 4 a.m. Friday.

State to question municipalities on use of drugs

by BOB LAHEY

Heads of local governments throughout Illinois, and auditors who inspect their financial operations soon will be receiving questionnaires from State Comptroller George B. Lindberg designed to search out irregularities in the handling of public funds.

At a meeting of his recently formed Municipal and County Audit Advisory Boards in Chicago Friday, Lindberg explained the purpose of the scrutiny of local governmental audits:

"Our objective is to make sure that everything done in government is an open book. Money is the lifeblood of government, and there is a sad history in Illinois in the management of money. Of the 50 states, we are No. 1 in scandals."

MEMBERS OF THE two commissions then conducted an extensive examination of a draft for the questionnaire, which is to be put in final form and sent to every municipality in the state by April 30, the date when most cities and villages close their fiscal year.

William Froehlich of Crystal Lake, head of an auditing firm and chairman of the advisory board on municipalities, told the board members the questionnaire has two purposes: "First, to upgrade the quality of audits of governmental units, and second, to educate local officials as to what is required of them under law."

Under powers given to the state comptroller under the 1970 Constitution, Lindberg is attempting to inject meaning into audit reports to the states which have been required annually since the early 1960s, but which have often revealed little or nothing about the financial workings of local governments.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE is designed to require auditors to compare the financial policies of local governments to local and state laws which govern them and to advise the comptroller's office if there is a possibility of "irregularities," embezzlement or fraud.

A number of auditors serving on the boards or advising them expressed apprehension about auditors making legal judgments, or violating a confidential relationship with their clients.

However, Froehlich pointed out that audit reports submitted to governmental units become public record. "If we discover an embezzlement," he said, "we don't go to anyone else with the information. But once the report is submitted to the public body, it is part of the public record."

Group to urge minorities: come to suburb colleges

The suburban chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference is forming a coalition of suburban colleges to encourage minority students and faculty members to come to the suburbs.

Clyde Brooks, director of suburban SCLC met with representatives from eight suburban colleges at Harper College in Palatine last week to ask them to join the coalition.

The program of the coalition, Brooks said, "will be to increase the options for minorities in suburban colleges." The organization will be called the Suburban Education Council of SCLC and will provide tours of suburban schools for students from the ghetto, will act as a clearinghouse for recruitment of minority teachers and will introduce college purchasing agents to representatives of black owned business, Brooks said.

BROOKS TOLD the college officials that even if they support the idea of providing opportunity to minorities in theory, "if you wait for minorities to come out to your college that is 25 or 30 miles from their community, it's going to be awhile before anything happens."

He added, "We feel there must be a greater effort to involve suburban colleges in our (SCLC) activity. Keep in mind that many times minorities have the same fears of the white community that the whites have toward minority communities."

In addition to recruiting faculty and providing information for students from minority groups, Brooks said the council can set up internship programs for white students so they can work in minority communities and can help get scholarships for minority students coming to the suburbs.

OFFICIALS FROM Harper, College of DuPage and other community colleges agreed that recruiting minority students for their schools is difficult because the law covering community colleges requires students living outside the college district to pay higher tuition than residents of the college district.

Brooks said he agrees that the law is a problem, but added that he thinks the law will eventually be challenged in court. The higher tuition for out of district students, he said, "is a class tax, because the same communities which have the colleges have not made it possible for people to live in their communities because they've resisted low-and moderate-income housing."

However, Brooks said that the colleges who choose to join SCLC's council will be able to start working with minorities even if the law is not changed.

Crude prices to remain frozen

Oil ministers delay embargo ruling

From Herald news services
Despite continued rumors and speculation that the long Arab oil embargo against the United States is to be lifted, Arab leaders adjourned their conference in Vienna yesterday without reaching a decision.

The Arabs will meet again today — perhaps this time concluding that the embargo against the United States can be lifted.

After meeting for two and a half hours Sunday, eight Arab oil ministers left their conference room from a side exit without confronting the world press.

In a meeting beforehand with other members of the Organization of Oil Exporting Countries — some of whom are not Arab — the combined conference decided to continue for another three months a freeze on oil export prices.

But the question about the embargo of the United States remains unanswered, even though numerous Arab sources are indicating the five-month embargo will be lifted soon.

Despite differences of opinion over the embargo, the ministers began their meeting by embracing and kissing each other in the Arab custom before starting talks in the tapestry-hung saloon of the 100-year-old Imperial hotel.

The Arab leaders were also reportedly looking into various reports that oil from Libya is still reaching the United States through Brazil.

In other developments:
• The Venezuelan congress begins debate Monday on the immediate nationalization of the foreign owned portion of that country's oil industry. But the president of Venezuela, Carlos Andres Perez, has warned his congress against "irresponsible adventures." Under the proposal being debated the whole oil industry of the country, worth some $5 billion, will revert to the state without compensation when 40-year concession agreements run out between 1983 and 1996. A national consensus, however, favors advancing the date of Venezuelan nationalization. The country is the world's third largest exporter of oil and a major seller of oil to the United States. The Venezuelan oil industry is predominantly owned by Exxon, Mobil and Gulf of the United States and Dutch-British owned Shell.

• U.S. Senator Henry Jackson of Washington is considering a bill to give the federal government a veto over the international operations of oil firms through representation on their boards of directors. Jackson charged that the federal government has "abdicated" much of the nation's oil policies to vast, international oil companies which are multinational. Jackson's bill might require oil companies to receive federal charters before doing business overseas.

• Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Sunday the Arab oil embargo is "extortion" and if it is lifted it will mean that the policy of oil diplomacy did not work. Eban said the embargo has had no effect on his country's deliberations with the Arabs over Mideast tension.

FINANCE MINISTER Jamshid industrialized nations contain their Amouzegar of Iran tells newsmen in galloping inflation. Mills sees Nixon 'out by November'

From Herald news services

President Richard Nixon, his taxes, his policy of going before the public nationwide, his guilt or his innocence of complicity in Watergate were all part of the weekend developments focusing on the Presidency within the last two days. Among those developments:

Rep. Wilbur Mills, vice chairman of the congressional committee investigating President Nixon's taxes, said Sunday that Nixon will be out of office by November, propelled by the tax investigation and pressure from Republican officeholders.

The Arkansas Democrat, an influential figure among Congressional conservatives, has offered to sponsor legislation granting Nixon immunity from prosecution if he resigns before he is impeached. Mills said the investigation by Congress' joint committee on internal revenue taxation would find that Nixon owed at least $350,000 in back taxes for 1969-70. Mills said the committee should not presume guilt or innocence in the President's tax matter — that final matter would have to be decided by the IRS and the Justice Department.

—House Republican leader — Rep. John Anderson of Illinois — said the President is making a mistake if he is attempting to go over the head of congress and appeal directly to the American people in his efforts to clear himself of Watergate. Anderson, a much respected Republican leader, said the House Judiciary Committee which is investigating impeachment should not be "demeaned" by the President going around the congressional inquiry.

—In a related development, federal Judge John Sirica was expected to rule Monday if a federal grand jury's sealed report on the President's handling of the Watergate cover-up should be given to the House Judiciary Committee. The committee has asked for the sealed report on grounds the Constitution grants solely to congress the ultimate power in impeachment proceedings.

—President Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, may be subpoenaed to appear for the prosecution in the Mitchell-Stans criminal trial. If subpoenaed, Miss Woods may be asked to testify about a White House list of secret donors to the Nixon 1972 re-election campaign. Last week, the former treasurer of the re-election campaign said despite his high position he was not told that $200,000 cash contribution was made by international financier Robert L. Vesco.

Hanoi 'poised' for large offensive

From Herald news services

North Vietnam is "poised to go" on a large-scale offensive, according to the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, but the chances of such a major offensive are less than 50-50.

Adm. Noel Gayler said, however, if the offensive came and if South Vietnamese forces were unable to contain the onslaught, his men are prepared to resume combat, including the renewal of bombing and a naval blockade.

Adm. Gayler said of the North Vietnamese "They've got the roads and the arms and ammunition in place. Altogether, Hanoi is in pretty fair position if it wants to kick off another major offensive."

But Adm. Gayler also said his own forces are prepared to resume heavy retaliatory measures if a national policy decision so dictates.

"During the last major air effort in the North, we hit military targets such as railroads, railroad yards, bridges, and in one truly surgical operation, a power plant in Hanoi.

"This bombing, plus the blockade, struck the weapon out of the North Vietnamese hand, and I think that's the only way to go."

Meanwhile, Communist gunners poured 300 rounds of mortar and artillery fire into two government ranger positions north of Kontum city in the Vietnamese Central Highlands, the Saigon military command said Sunday.

The shelling was only one of 61 Communist truce violations during the 24 hour period ending at 6 a.m. yesterday. Some 126 Communist troops were killed, 23 government soldiers were killed and 74 wounded, government sources said.

Insurance group attacks national no-fault plan

From Herald news services

A federal proposal for no-fault auto insurance for the whole country would force 90 million consumers, including millions of retired persons, to pay more for auto insurance and possibly receive no benefits, the American Mutual Insurance Alliance has charged.

The Alliance, a national organization of mutual property and casualty companies, said it was a long-time supporter for no-fault insurance at the state level, but not federally.

The Alliance alleges that under a proposed federal plan for no-fault insurance, retired persons will get the unfair treatment. It said the proposed bill would result in private passenger automobile owners, including retired persons, subsidizing losses caused by commercial vehicles.

No-fault auto insurance calls for car owners to get almost immediate payment for accidental damage without having to resort to lengthy court trials to first establish guilt for the accident.

White House, too, was Irish yesterday

• With a Sunday sermon from Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and shamrocks flown in from Ireland as a gift from Irish Ambassador John Molloy, St. Patrick's Day at the White House was delightfully green. Even President Richard Nixon was sporting a green tie to note the occasion. In addition to Irish shamrocks in a Waterford crystal vase, Ambassador Molloy presented the President with a set of prints of old Dublin and then pinned a sprig of shamrocks on the President's lapel. The gifts from Ireland were intended for Pat Nixon whose ancestors hailed from Ireland, but the First Lady was ill and recovering from a touch of the flu she caught on her recent trip to South America.

Another officer with far more serious problems is Lt. Col. Joao Almeida Brune, the most decorated officer of Portugal's African wars. Col. Brune was arrested Sunday as government agents cracked down on suspected backers of an aborted officer's coup designed to overthrow the Portuguese government. Brune is a close associate of Gen. U. S. funds would be slashed

Area would lose millions if RTA fails, expert says

Lack of a Regional Transportation Authority in Chicago will mean loss of millions of dollars in federal grants, according to national transportation industry spokesmen.

Robert Pollock, chief executive officer of the Cleveland Transit System and president of the American Transit Assn. Wednesday said public transportation is making a comeback nationally. "After a 23-year downward trend, decreasing transit ridership has bottomed out and systems around the nation are reporting dramatic ridership gains," he said.

Pollock cited his own city as one that has suffered because it does not have a regional authority. He said $19 million in improvement projects, of which the federal government would have paid $13 million, have not been started because there is no transit authority.

Increasing numbers of transit authorities will make keen competition for mass transit dollars, and Chicago will be left out if the RTA isn't formed now, Pollock said.

WILLIAM J. RONAN, chairman of the Metropolitan Transit Authority in New York and president of the National Institute for Rapid Transit also spoke at the press conference arranged by the RTA Citizens Committee for Better Transportation.

Ronan said the MTA saved vital mass transit in the three-state New York city area, including the financially-plagued Long Island Railroad. He said the MTA, through various funding procedures that did not involve new taxes, saved 11 suburban bus companies, subsidized private railroad commuter operations, and now operates several transit companies in connection with the New York public transit system.

With better equipment, better service and reasonable fares, Ronan said, the MTA brought about a renaissance in commuter railroads.

The MTA functions with an 11-member board appointed by the governor, although three seats are filled upon recommendation of the Mayor of New York. Ronan said the nine-member, board proposed for the RTA seems workable and fair.

Ronan and Pollock praised the CTA here, considering the limited funding it has, and said it is recognized as an outstanding mass transit system worldwide.

If RTA fails, bus firm won't completely quit

United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines will not discontinue all of its routes if the March 19 Regional Transportation Referendum fails.

John Hanck, general manager of the company, has clarified a statement issued recently by United that it would have to close down public routes if the RTA doesn't pass. He said contract service, such as for the North Suburban Mass Transit District, would be continued and that any paying route would not be stopped.

Hanck said there are several individual routes that lose money, and they would be discontinued. United has already cut back on all of its routes, including elimination of night service in the last few years. The firm has also received emergency state grants to remain in operation because of increasing annual deficits.

C&NW offering bargain tours

Bargain fare group tours are again being made available by the Chicago and North Western Ry. The tours combine commuter train, bus and boat transportation to get groups to many of Chicago's attractions.

Tours include the metropolitan newspaper's, museums, Hancock Building, fire and police departments, Lincoln Park Zoo and many others.

Through use of buses and cruise boats that meet groups at the C&NW Chicago terminals, walking from place to place is eliminated, according to the railroad's brochure. Groups get reduced rates on the C&NW trains.

For details or to make reservations, phone 332-2171, extension 6522, or write to Group Tours Commuter Services Dept., 400 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill., 60606.

Six-mile safety wall on tollway work under way

Construction of a six-mile long extension of safety wall has begun on the Northwest Tollway from the Des Plaines Oasis west to Ill. Rte. 53.

The construction is part of a program started last year to install a special concrete median the length of the tollway. The special median, called the New Jersey barrier, is a 32-inch high concrete wall designed to prevent cars from jumping into oncoming lanes of traffic and redirecting them into the flow of traffic.

The work is expected to take several months to complete, depending on weather conditions.

During construction, left lanes in both directions will be closed to traffic except during the following times: from Monday through Thursday, eastbound lanes will be open from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m. and westbound from 3:30 to 6 p.m.; on Fridays eastbound lanes will be open from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m. and all lanes will be open after 3:30 p.m. On Sundays all lanes will be open from 3 p.m. until midnight.

Tollway officials have said the new median will be part of all tollroads by next year. The tollway authority plans to erect the barrier from Ill. Rte. 53 to Barrington Road next year.

School board filing will close Friday

Less than a week remains for candidates to file for election to local school boards, and uncontested races appear to be shaping up in High School Dist. 214, High School Dist. 211 and Harper College.

So far the incumbents in the two high school districts are unopposed and only three candidates have filed for the four seats open on the Harper board. Filing for the April 13 election closes Friday.

Candidates in Dist. 214 are incumbents Richard Bachhuber and Jack Matthews, both of whom are running for reelection to three-year terms on the board. Incumbents Jean Fidler and Robert Seger are running for three-year terms on the Dist. 211 board.

So far three candidates have filed for the Harper College board, all for the three three-year terms that will be filled in the election. A two-year term also open in April has not attracted any candidates. Candidates for Harper are incumbent William Kelly, Stanley Carrier and Robert Bromley.

Harper College wrapup

Trustees approve revised calendar

Harper College students will go back to school next fall before Labor Day and will finish with final exams before Christmas.

The college board of trustees Thursday approved a revised calendar for the 1974-75 school year which provides for the school to start in August rather than in September as it has in the past. The change was proposed last month by Gerald McGlothlin, the student representative on the board.

In recommending the change, college administrators said there was "some risk" involved because some potential students may have plans which will not allow them to begin classes before Labor Day.

However, Guerin Fischer, vice president for student affairs, said the earlier calendar will agree with local high school districts, which plan to open in late August, and will make it easier for students to transfer from Harper to four year colleges in the middle of the year.

Also, Fischer said the break between the end of the first semester Dec. 23 and the beginning of the second semester Jan. 15 "will give us more time to identify students who are in academic trouble and to counsel them."

Co-op study agreement

Ten Harper College students will be able to study respiratory care and dental lab technology at Triton College in River Grove under a cooperative arrangement approved Thursday by the Harper board.

Also under the agreement, 10 Triton students will be admitted to Harper's dental hygiene and dietetic technology programs. Those two programs, like the programs at Triton, always have more students apply than can be admitted.

Robert Cormack, dean of career education at Harper, said the exchange will mean that 10 Harper students will be treated like residents of the Triton district when they apply for the two programs and 10 Triton students will be treated the same way at Harper. Currently, residents of the Harper district receive preference for admission to the programs, which have freshmen classes of 48 annually.

Cormack said the agreement may lead the way for future agreements with other colleges so that Harper students can receive training the college does not provide.

Faculty senate recognized

The Harper College faculty senate was formally recognized as spokesman for the college's full-time teachers by the college board Thursday.

The board approved an agreement arrived at by members of the salary negotiations teams for the board and faculty last month which extends the recognition to the faculty senate through June 1, 1975.

The faculty senate, made up of elected representatives of the faculty, has negotiated with the board in the past on faculty salaries, but the board has never before said the senate represents faculty members.

Board member Ross Miller, chairman of the board negotiating committee, and Michael Bartos, chairman of the faculty senate negotiating team, declined comment Thursday on what effect the recognition will have on salary negotiations now underway. However, Bartos did say, "I'm pleased with what happened tonight."

The board and senate have been negotiating on salaries since late December. Miller said he could not be sure when the two sides will reach agreement. "Negotiations are proceeding with great effort by both sides," he said.

Last year the board broke off negotiations and set faculty salaries over the objections of faculty senate negotiators.

Where to vote Tuesday...

PAM AND PATTY MILLETT paired up to present a routine last week in a talent show at St. 21's Riley School. Students in the first through sixth grades participated in the show by singing, dancing, doing comedy skits and performing magic. The show was sponsored by the student council.

Industrial arts to debut at schools

Woodshop, drafting, electricity, metal-working, plastics and home mechanics will be included in the industrial arts program to be introduced in the three Dist. 21 junior high schools next fall.

Additions to Cooper, Holmes and London junior high schools are currently under construction to accommodate an extensive vocational education program which will also include home arts courses besides industrial arts offerings.

All classes in the vocational education program will be coeducational, open to any seventh or eighth grade student.

The industrial arts curriculum, released last week, was developed for Dist. 21 by Howard Werling, dean of students at Wheeling High School. The home arts program is to be completed and released later this week, according to Marjorie Bou, administrative assistant for curriculum.

ACTIVITIES INCLUDED in the industrial arts program are designed to allow students to develop the necessary skills to create useful projects of their own selection.

The content of the course is divided into phases, in which students in a particular class will be working with the same material and progressing at their own rate.

In studying methods of working with woods, the student will be instructed in the use of commonly used tools such as saws, planes, hammers, screwdrivers, square, level, vise, glue clamps, miter box, wood chisels, files, rasps, and sanding tools.

Other instruction in this phase will include plan reading, measuring, using fastening and finishing materials and types of characteristics of various woods.

STUDENTS WILL be exposed to basic fundamentals of mechanical drawing in the drafting section of the industrial arts program.

Students will be taught to make simple drawings and how to read complex drawings such as those used in industry, the building trades and in electronics and electricity.

Electrical wiring used in common home construction will be covered in the electricity phase of the program.

Demonstrations will be given, using a mock house with standard electrical fittings, wire and equipment. Students will be required to participate in wiring the mock house.

Students will also learn to replace plugs, sockets and wires on lamps and appliances. Safety will be stressed and the dangers of electricity will be discussed.

THE BASIC TECHNIQUES of sheet metal fabrication will be explored in this phase of the program. The students will have an opportunity to use simple cutting and forming tools and methods of fastening will be demonstrated.

Useful, uncomplicated projects are to be constructed by the students and perfection in craftsmanship will be stressed along with accuracy in measuring and layout. Instruction about plastics will include an explanation and discussion about some of the different types of plastics, how they are made and what they are used to make.

Demonstrations will be given to illustrate the construction of projects made of acrylic plastics such as Lucite and Plexiglas. The use, care and dangers of solvents necessary to join and laminate plastics will be explained in simple terms to students.

Demonstration in heating and forming plastics will be given and the student will be able to make a variety of projects including optical items such as a lens.

Speakers from industries and businesses in the area will be invited to speak to students and wherever possible, field trips will be arranged to allow pupils to observe industrial and business processes.

Wheeling High bands to perform Wednesday

The Wheeling High School concert and symphony bands will perform Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the school.

The combined bands will perform a piece by Bach and a suite in E flat for Military Band. The jazz ensemble will also perform selections they will perform at jazz festivals.

Developer tells plans for 480-unit project

A Chicago developer brought plans before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Friday to build 480 apartment and townhouse units on 43 acres near Schoenbeck and Palatine roads in unincorporated Wheeling Township near the village of Wheeling.

Comsite Properties, Inc., requested a zoning change to enable the construction of the units to be sold as condominiums on a parcel north of Palatine Road and east of Schoenbeck Road, across the street from the proposed Harper College site.

Also included in the plans are commercial units for stores and businesses.

A representative of the firm told board members that the apartment units will be one-story townhouses and four-story structures consisting of 48 units in each building.

Plans for the development include McDonald Creek. "We'll have McDonald Creek run through the property," said the Comsite representative, "and create large areas of retention."

HE ALSO ADDED that the residential area will be located on the eastern portion of the property and the commercial area on the western portion. The major access to the complex will be Schoenbeck Road.

The firm maintained that the development will generate 121 elementary school age children and 32 high school age children in its report. Members of the zoning board asked how many children there would be if the parcel consisted of single-family housing.

The developers said that 60 houses could be built on the 42 acres and that possibly as much as 150 children of both elementary and high school age could be living there.

A decision by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to grant or deny a zoning change could take several weeks, officials say. In the meantime, surrounding villages affected by the possible development may hold their own hearings.

the area would increase substantially with the road improvement.

"If a road was put through for industrial-type use, these properties would more than quadruple in value," he said.

Berger also noted that if W. Pine Street is improved, the village might be able to extend that road across the railroad tracks, providing the village with a needed crossing.

The railroad ripped out a crossing at the site last year, despite the fact that the village never approved this dismantling. The village is now asking the railroad to replace the crossing for emergency use.

Planners waive subdivision OK

The Wheeling Plan Commission has agreed to waive preliminary approval of a one-lot subdivision needed for the expansion of North Shore Distributors, Inc., 411 N. Wolf Rd.

The firm has purchased a parcel of property that has not been technically subdivided from surrounding property. The subdivision is needed to establish a legal description for the lot.

North Shore Distributors has also applied for a zoning variation for a setback that will allow construction of a new addition. Hearings on the matter are scheduled for next month.

Discipline not school's job

'Parent must do job'

Over the past weeks, several parents have written to complain about schools' policies of suspending students. The general theme seems to be that suspension does not serve the best interest of the student and that there ought to be some way to deal with misconduct that does not keep the student at home. The implication is that the school is shirking its responsibility when it suspends a student.

It is generally the case that suspensions are imposed for gross misconduct or for repeated failure to conform to a minimal standard of behavior. It seems reasonable that the individual members of an institution such as a school must submit to the rules imposed for the general good if chaos is to be avoided.

The primary role of the school is to provide children with those experiences that will enable most to become independent learners and productive members of our society. Some people would also have our regular public schools cure the emotionally disturbed, socially maladjusted and learning disabled. They also want the schools to prevent drug abuse, the spread of V.D. and improve teen-age driving habits.

The schools are being held accountable for the progress of students without the students being held accountable for much more than attendance and some minimal standard of conduct. Now we hear demands that the student not be held accountable for anything. If the student breaks rules or is truant, the school should provide an alternative. If the alternative does not work, the school should try something else. What is the student's responsibility? What is the parents' responsibility?

It is my opinion as a parent and as an educator with over a decade of experience, that the parent must bear the primary responsibility for the conduct of his child in school. The child should come to school with the attitude that teachers are to be respected and that rules are to be followed. It is rarely possible for a school to remedy the results of years of parent indifference. Yet the schools are being asked to accommodate the surly, unruly, disinterested student and make him feel that he really belongs. He does not.

Those who belong are the 98 per cent who come to school generally willing to follow the rules and mostly interested in the educational opportunity offered. These students have the right to attend a school free from disruption, drug abusers and malcontents. Every moment that a teacher spends in reprimanding some fool cheats the majority out of some educational experience.

A school is a place that should be filled with the excitement of learning. It is usually staffed by professionals who want their students to succeed. They want their students to enjoy school. Teachers do not view themselves as disciplinarians. Schools are not prisons to which the young are sentenced in order to keep them off the streets. A school can do its job only after the parent has done his.

Ohioan supports Hulett

The enclosed clipping appeared in the Dayton Daily News on January 18, 1974 with the heading "Woman, Baby Die After Chief Plays God; Recalls Ambulance." I'm sure that headline was repeated throughout the United States and makes for sensational news copy at the expense of the elected leadership and the fire department of Elk Grove.

This condition faces the fire service daily throughout the United States. Municipal government is a business, big business, and very expensive to operate. Citizens elect their candidates to serve as their board of directors to formulate legislation to run this costly function for them, the taxpayers, or stock holders. The fire chief is an administrator who is employed by the municipal corporation to operate within the framework of guidelines laid down by the elected officials.

The incident referred to is a very tragic incident and hopefully emotionalism will not cloud the facts in the final analysis. It is very unfair to be critical of the Elk Grove elected officials and the fire chief. It's very obvious that the Pettee family made a democratic decision to live outside the corporation limits on their own free will. This decision is made daily by families to escape the noise, pollution, and the fast pace of city living. The Pettees, along with a good share of their neighbors, made a decision to purchase their fire and ambulance service from Roselle rather than Elk Grove. This incident was not the harsh and brutal decision of the Elk Grove Village government as has been portrayed. The people of this unincorporated area made the decision after the village of Elk Grove put a price on their services.

The village board and fire chief are faced with a dilemma when they are expected to respond out of territory. How far is out of territory? Is it one block? Is it one mile? Or is it the Wisconsin state line? Should a village board and fire chief send their vehicles and trained personnel for a non-supporter of the service? What is the legal liability of a fire chief who sends his personnel out of territory without legislative approval? How does he justify this equipment being out of territory, serving a non-supporter and a citizen/taxpayer/stockholder has a severe coronary and his unit is out of service, out of territory and without authorization.

Citizens who move to outlying areas because of cheaper taxes and lower cost of living should examine the services

Recall impeachment

Americans remember Feb. 22 as George Washington's birthday.

Few Americans remember that on this day in 1868 the House of Representatives voted to impeach President Andrew Johnson.

She criticizes abortion ruling

"My shining feet will never run on early morning lawn; my feet were crushed before they had a chance to greet the dawn..."

Yes they were, little unborn infant. You and four million others have lost your lives this past year. The highest court in this land of plenty decided last Jan. 22 that you would never run.

What would you have said to us, little one, if you'd been able? Would you have called upon our great generous hearts to find a place for you, a solution to the challenges your life presented? Would you have reminded us that we too were once like you, vulnerable in the hands of a world we couldn't control?

"My lips and tongue will never taste the good fruits of the earth; for I myself was judged to be a fruit of little worth..."

Bloodshed was the only answer we could offer you, little one. How I wish things could have been different!

'Keep ice skating'

I hope the Rolling Meadows board of park commissioners is not seriously considering dropping the Friday night public skating. If they are, it seems that the taxpayers are again getting a bad break.

Thursday's Herald stated that the reason for this is that attendance has dropped from 550 when the ice rink opened to 300 now. Surely 300 should be enough to indicate that some kids are still interested in public skating.

I signed my daughter up for skating lessons. When is she to practice? Friday is a perfect night for the pre-teens. Mr. Person might be right about the older teens going to affairs at the high school but now that football and basketball seasons are over I'm sure there will be more older teens on Friday nights.

It's great that all the learn-to-skate classes are increasing, but why take away the public skating time when the kids can practice what they are learning?

We voted to spend $900,000 for our complex—now let's not turn it into a private ice skating rink. If that's what we wanted we surely could have gone to our surrounding villages' arenas and saved ourselves $900,000.

Maybe if more of the parents of the 300 kids in attendance on Friday nights let their views be known the Commissioner would reconsider their action.

Daly assailed again

Dorothy Oliver and Tom Wellman's column along with the Jan. 25 editorial, The Herald is to be congratulated.

They all recognize the problem and offer some sound solution to a very sad tragedy. You have the vehicle to carry this through to a finish in Springfield. As where your editorial took to task Mr. Daly, who also has a vehicle to carry this to Springfield, was great. Mr. Daly and Mr. Smith acted as prosecutor, judge and jury. They found a man and a community guilty as charged. Both men neglected to do what I am sure they learned well in their early days of reporting — investigate and report all the facts. Maybe from all this some new method or just the old ones of reporting will come to the surface.

Reported by Mr. Daly at the O'Hare

Executive Club, he'd be safer in Egypt than Elk Grove. Mr. Daly, I have a suggestion for you, sir. Please take your camel out of the stall and return to Egypt, where your method of reporting half-truths will be welcome. Bon voyage. Please don't pass by Elk Grove on your way.

I'm disturbed by homeowners who refuse to pay the $42. No because of the amount, but by their reasoning. They want to know how the $42 was arrived at. Do you ask Blue Cross, Prudential, Metropolitan Life, Edison Co. how they arrived at their cost before you buy their service? Pay the $42, then argue the cost. Please help avoid another tragedy. Help us help you.

Reader was 'attacked by state snowplow'

You should know about an experience that I had with a state snow plow so action will be taken to prevent murder in the future.

I left my home at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, Feb. 11, to walk two blocks north on the west side of the street to church. The sidewalk is a foot from the road. A plow had been through earlier and the sidewalk was buried, so I walked along the curb. A state snow plow approached shooting a 10-foot spray of water, salt and ice upon the walk. He tooted for me to move off the road when he was half a block away. I jumped to the sidewalk like a rabbit and waved for him to lift his blade or slow down. In this area there is no place for protection.

It isn't a country road with wide shoulder and ditch. His speed was so fast that he was instantly on me. I was about a foot from his blade when suddenly it was like being in a dishwasher. Ice, salt and water covered me from head to foot, soaked me to the skin. I wrapped my arms around my head, but still it got into my mouth, eyes and ears. It was like being hit with baseball bats. The force spun me around in a circle. Had I been older or younger I would have fallen under his blade and been a corpse today. I was stunned. He never slowed down.

I walked home and immediately called the police who never experienced anything like this and didn't know what charges to make. I see no difference between slugging a guy with a baseball bat or a snow plow, so for openers I said that I was willing to press assault and battery, reckless driving and failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian. I then called the Bradley yard dispatcher who claimed that he had 14 trucks on the road and didn't know which one was heading south on Arlington Heights Road at Euclid at 10:30 a.m. I can't believe this. I feel it's a cover up.

Later, after I recovered, I remembered the first six numbers on the inside wall of the salt box toward the curb, 100174 or 700714. I called them in to the police and they said that it wouldn't help to identify the driver as all state snowplows have these numbers. Furious would be a mild way to describe my feeling.

I've lived and worked here for more than 20 years and have never heard of such intentional cruelty. I'm frustrated that a man like that can drive a state vehicle and repeat this, only perhaps next time the involvement may be more fatal. I can understand why a dispatcher would want to protect a buddy, but unless official record is made of his driving conduct he can continue his reckless driving. The dispatcher should be more concerned about the welfare of the people he serves.

I have gone to the state's attorney to swear out a complaint, but this action is futile without knowing who the driver is. The Arlington Heights police in a "village of friendly neighbors" told me the dispatcher has suspended the driver they receive and there is usually a reason.

The citizens, elected officials and fire chief of Elk Grove Village are very sympathetic over this matter. The Pettees, like many others, I'm sure were not aware of the magnitude of this situation at the expense of the Elk Grove Village government. I would imagine there are a few tin horn politicians expounding their pearls of wisdom for their own political gain on this matter.

Abortion query

I read with interest Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keenan's suggestion in their letter to the Fence Post that the $5000 allotted the Crossroads Clinic was to be used to purchase abortion equipment. I was equally interested in your editor's note denying this suggestion.

I wonder if Dr. Finlayson would be willing to publicly state that he has never performed an abortion on a minor either out of his office or out of the Crossroads Clinic or that he has no future plans to do so.

Libertarian blasts vote

RTA 'a taxpayer rape'

"Saving" mass transportation via an RTA is a blatant rape of the taxpayer. The real issue is slavery versus liberty.

Have you checked, lately, how much of yourself and your produce you own? 70 per cent? 50 per cent? 30 per cent? It will decrease with an RTA instead of maintaining, for us, the protection to conduct ourselves freely in trade with our employers or our employees, our customers or our vendors, the politicians have snowballed government interference with our trade. In attempting to make it easier for us, they are destroying us and don't even realize it.

Government can't create anything. What it can do is take from some (by taxes) and give (by subsidies) to someone else. Do you want to steal from anybody? No! Do you want the government to do it for you? Of course not!

Instead of protecting one's property rights (the right, for instance, to own and operate a bus line as one chooses, infringing upon others' rights), governments have regulated and licensed. This always increases the costs and fixes the fare. When you freeze the price of sugar or meat while costs increase, as everybody should know, the sugar and meat "just plain disappear." What is so strange that bus service has "just plain disappeared?" Didn't profit vanish? Nobody works for nothing, except a slave.

RTA will make partial slaves of some while endowing others. Which do you want to be: the privileged or the disadvantaged? Neither, I hope.

I'll contrast several government operations with their corresponding (relatively free) private industries:

—Chicago Housing Authority vs. Baird and Warner
—Illinois Employment Office vs. any private employment agency
—U.S. Post Office vs. United Parcel Service

Dist. 59 superintendent scolded

Why does public education cost so much and give such poor results? Dist. 59 is the local example of mismanagement. One more opportunity to do it the wrong way is coming up soon. I refer to a repeat of last year's controversial extension of Superintendent Erviti's contract and his raise in pay. You should know that you pay him over $34,000 per year, plus free car, free insurance, expenses, sick pay and extremely long vacations. These benefits were not earned by long and faithful service, he has been here just a few years. But he has left his mark. This is the man who closed the schools to the Boy Scouts and church groups, etc. when he lost the first of his tax referenda. He promised us repeated tax referenda at his first public meeting. This is the man who said we needed another school, spent millions to build it, obligating us to maintain it; and now says enrollment will drop about 15 per cent. We warned him before this happened, but he and the subservient board built their monument.

It is bad enough to overpay him with such a record, but just as bad is the poor example it sets for the other personnel in the district. His salary is unreasonably high for anyone in that position. Is he to be given another raise to a still higher plateau? What will the teachers and the large group of highly paid administrators under him feel they should get? If our Dist. 59 board is so foolish as to give a raise and extension of contract to this bad servant, why shouldn't others raise an insistent clamor for their share of the carelessly handled public treasury?

The board has decided a tax increase referendum would be defeated just now, but they plan one for this fall. Well, right now they can set an example for fiscal sanity by refusing to raise or extend Mr. Erviti's contract. The amount to be saved is not large in their bulging budget, but the symbolism and justice are important.

—Social Security vs. Sears, Roebuck stocks
—CTA vs. Greyhound Bus Lines
Any questions? Even if it's the last thing we can do with our writing hands, we should defeat the RTA referendum. Then we must remove crippling transportation legislation.

'She aided library'

I was saddened to read of Mrs. Grove's resignation from the Palatine library. While the available information is not complete enough to allow for a fair assessment, it does appear that a library board that has had to hire four head librarians in six years, and is losing an administrator whose tenure has encompassed so many visible improvements in library services, might well profit from some rigorous and extended self-examination.

We have lived in many places and used many libraries, but I do not recall one with a more pleasant and helpful staff, nor one with so well diversified a collection — and this despite the severe physical limitation imposed by an antiquated physical plant. Surely this is a credit to a series of outstanding directors.

Any number of us who worked as volunteers in the library and on the referendum last fall did so not only out of interest in matters bibliothecal, but because we were imbued with Mrs. Grove's enthusiasm, and stimulated by her unflagging search for new ways in which the library could serve the entire community.

RTA deserves 'no' vote

As we have argued repeatedly during the past several months, the badly written RTA proposal should be rejected tomorrow at the polls.

We aren't urging a "no" vote tomorrow because of opposition to mass transit. Far from it. We've argued consistently that a well-written RTA bill is an absolute necessity for the maintenance and expansion of existing mass transit systems.

However, the present RTA proposal, the result of shoddy political bargaining, has too many holes in it to be acceptable to us. Funding, taxing of parking facilities and local representation are but three problems which plague this bill.

RTA backers, even those who concede the bill has faults, argue that sending it back to Springfield in an election year would be tantamount to destroying any hope of mass transit aid.

That argument's nonsense, if we in the suburbs are willing to pressure legislators in the six-county Chicago area to draw up a bill not filled with loopholes and uncertainties.

A "no" vote tomorrow on the RTA can make that point to the legislature — a point which has been made by a growing number of lawmakers and private citizens — that we won't tolerate questionable legislation on a matter as important as mass transportation.

In the midst of the energy crisis, we need adequate mass transit, not only between here and Chicago, but from one local community to another. Accepting a hastily-written plan, however, won't accomplish that end. Vote "no" tomorrow on the RTA.

Our choices

GOP NOMINATION, STATE TREASURER: Jeannette Mullen.

GOP NOMINATION, COUNTY BOARD: Floyd Fulle, Carl Hansen, Hal Tyrrell, Joe Woods.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION, 1ST STATE LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT: Harold Katz and Herb Sirott.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION, 2ND STATE LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT: Richard Mugalian.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEEMAN, PALATINE TWP.: Richard Mugalian.

GOP COMMITTEEMAN, PALATINE TWP.: Bernard Pedersen.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEEMAN, WHEELING TWP.: Donald Norman.

We endorse...

Jeannette Mullen

In the Republican primary contest for the nomination for state treasurer, we recommend a vote for Jeannette Mullen of Barrington over Harry Page of Springfield.

Their campaign has been one which both admit is almost devoid of issues. Though Mrs. Mullen has featured in her appeals that her presence on the Republican state ticket as a woman adds "balance," and Page has argued the same thing because he would be the only Republican candidate from Downstate, neither argument is pertinent to the race.

However, as a certified public accountant for 25 years and as one who has compiled a commendable record in business, civic and political activities, we believe Mrs. Mullen to be highly acceptable as a candidate for state treasurer. Page has an apparently good record as an administrator in various school districts in and around Springfield, but we do not believe his qualifications match those of Mrs. Mullen.

She says 'yes' on RTA

At a time in our history when fuel shortages rule our everyday lives and auto pollution abatement (although necessary) takes a back seat to energy consideration, I find opposition to the Regional Transit Authority bill verging on economic suicide for the suburbs.

Our metropolitan area, unlike most in the country, has a transportation system, but local bus companies and railroads are going bankrupt. Arlington Heights Metron in four months lost $32,000. United Motor Coach, which in 1973 lost $506,000, was able to get $120,000 in state aid and $125,000 in local aid. But the company was still left $261,000 in debt for 1973. The mayor of Des Plaines has said the town will have to buy the company if RTA is not passed.

If we continue picking up the tabs for indebtedness of bus and rail companies, we will be paying for non-coordinated systems without having a voice as to how our moneys are spent. With RTA we will have a voice through our board representatives and through the open meetings forum.

If we allow our existing bus and rail system to deteriorate we would have to develop 12 cross-town expressways to handle current transportation and allow for four decks of parking over the Loop.

A transportation task force report compiled during the Ogilvie administration noted that half the area's population is in Chicago and half is in the suburbs. Thirty-seven per cent of the population in the suburbs is under 18 years of age and 42 per cent of those 65 years and older also live in the suburbs; both of these groups needing public transportation. The task force's recommendations are the base of the RTA Act

These points and a basic belief in the worth of the RTA bill itself are reasons I support passage of the RTA referendum. Irvana Keagy Wilks Mount Prospect.

One man's township choice

Once again I feel compelled to take pen in hand not as the president of my congregation or as the past president and a charter member of the Hoffman Estates Residents Association but as a concerned citizen and life long Independent Democrat.

In a recent Herald edition a letter was written to the editor by Mrs. Sheila Schwartz. It was so loosely filled with facts as to border between libel on the north and ludicrous on the south. The letter speaks of a Democratic organization that "may not be large but it does exist." She is correct. It exists, it does not live — it does not breathe and it does not bring leadership and an alternative to one party rule in Schaumburg Twp.

Mrs. Schwartz attacked the party affiliation of a man who not only was knighted by Pope Pius XII for anti-communist aid to the Italian government in the dark days following World War II, but whose Democratic affiliation goes back to Harry Truman's campaign, to Adlai Stevenson's two valiant electoral fights to John F. Kennedy's 1960 campaign.

I speak on behalf of John D. Carsello, Democratic candidate for committeeman of Schaumburg Township. He was active for many years in the Italian community of the 36th Ward of Chicago and carried on in Provido Twp. Democratic politics.

Mrs. Schwartz would have him earn his "feathers" by just being a worker than a leader — this man who is a born leader and the past president and chairman of many civic organizations. A worker — indeed — What we need in Schaumburg Twp. are leaders like John J. Carsello. He is no more a Republican than Kennedy or Truman or Stevenson.

The future of a Democratic Party that lives and does not "exist" rests with you the voters in Tuesday, March 19 Primary, I'm voting for him as a concerned citizen, won't you join me.

Park district 'ignoring people'

Open letter to Des Plaines Park Board:

A few weeks ago my wife had an interesting conversation with a park district official responsible for planting the trees at the southeast end of Lake Opeka. When she suggested that the windbreak effect that will develop will be a nuisance and in general reduce the usefulness of Lake Opeka for sailing purposes, the park official said, "We took these matters into consideration." She then asked if these matters were discussed with any of the persons involved in the sailing program at Lake Opeka and he replied that they had not, but that "We took these matters into consideration."

Our family is more than a casual user of the facilities at Lake Opeka. We have been active in the Park District-sponsored Yacht Club for about 12 years, and as such spend considerable time and money there. I can appreciate other community groups wanting to utilize the facilities of the Des Plaines Park District and do not take issue with the value of the nature walk and tree planting project. I merely feel that before any "improvement" is made at a facility that the people, who are using it ought to have an opportunity to voice their opinion as to how it may affect existing recreation.

If it's to be a choice between a hockey rink, war memorial or trees, the trees win every time. I would expect that those pressure groups, who can't stand to see a little open space on any park land, wouldn't ask for advice from the members of the community whose recreation will be most affected, but I am very disappointed that the park board saw fit to ignore us and act out of hand on this matter.

Mugalian comments on interview

I should like to make two comments on the report of your interview with me as a candidate for re-election as Representative from the 2nd Legislative District.

I was recorded as "aye" on Senate Bill 27 (RTA); not "present" as you reported.

The thrust of my comments about tax relief were that a substantial reduction in state taxes could not be anticipated because of increasing pressures for state aid to public schools; increased funding for the downstate Teachers' Retirement Fund; more funding for mental health and retardation, and especially for community grants; and some increases in public aid payments.

Since the interview, Governor Walker's budget has, in fact, called for an additional $138 million for elementary and secondary education, an "increase" for the Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities, a start toward greater funding of the Pension Fund and a cost-of-living increase to public aid recipients. Included in the Governor's budget message was a proposal for the elimination of sales tax on medicine and an expansion of the circuit-breaker. He estimated the total tax relief of these two proposals to be $26,000,000.

It appears that my feelings on the coming budget and on tax relief virtually anticipated the Budget Message.

EDITOR'S NOTE: State Rep. Mugalian is correct; he did vote "aye" on Senate Bill 27, not "present" as the Herald reported.

Blasts 'poor' candidates

At best, this primary election's candidates can be described as irksome. At worst, they can be best described as a floodtide of mediocrity.

Perhaps those two descriptions are unduly vicious and cynical but it seems as though this year's field of candidates is one of the poorest in recent years.

With only a handful of notable exceptions, the men and women who have been interviewed by the Herald have been uninformed on the issues, unaware of how government works and unwilling to relate to their constituencies.

There have been the predictably "good" candidates, the persons who have done or can do an excellent job in public office. Veterans Richard Mugalian and Harold Katz should be returned to the legislature. Newcomer Herb Sirott of Arlington Heights, although apparently doomed to eventual defeat, is a bright new Wheeling Twp. Democratic figure who deserves public exposure.

On the GOP side, Carl Hansen and Floyd Fulle, in particular, are knowledgeable public veterans.

Then there have been the candidates who timidly refuse to state a position on RTA, who don't know what's in the "other" end of their legislative district and who throw themselves on the mercy of reporters who interview them.

The latest offense against political sensibilities is a political ad from David Carey, a 35-year-old assistant superintendent for State Supt. Michael Bakalis. It states, in part:

"Dave has over seven years experience with the Illinois General Assembly... Dave has proved he can work effectively with both parties to pass major legislation."

Nowhere in the ad does it mention that Dave's "experience" is NOT as an elected legislator. Oh, he did work as staff assistant to the Democratic leadership in the House, as well as Bakalis' lobbyist. But reading the ad makes you think he was an elected legislator, doesn't it?

Exaggeration, it can be argued, is an important and colorful part of the electoral process. Who among the uninformed voters, it can be argued, is going to spot Carey's casual hedging on the truth? Who is there to get in the way of an on-the-make young politician, rising fast to stardom?

Perhaps the voters, that's who! In a broader sense, however, the decision-making process only begins at the polls. More importantly, it's going to require qualified men and women to participate in the primary races.

Then, perhaps in future years, the overall caliber of all local candidates will be just a little bit better.

Home buyers back in market as mortgage money appears

by LEA TONKIN

Home buyers are coming back in the market as mortgage money becomes more easily available, report several Northwest suburban brokers. Sales are picking up steam, following a dismal fourth quarter of 1973. Some industry executives say things would look even better if buyers had confidence in the economy.

"Sales were way down in the last quarter of 1973," said Barton Stull, president of Barton Stull Realty, Inc., with several Northwest suburban offices. "Now our sales are just a slight bit behind the first two months of last year."

The tight mortgage market accounted for much of the late-1973 sales dip, according to Stull. In mid-January, he says, some lenders who had pulled out of the market began offering loans again. For the most common down payment — 20 per cent — the interest rate for a mortgage is 7.9 per cent, plus a service charge of 2 to 3 points, he said. A point is 1 per cent of the mortgage amount.

Stull says $43,000 is the most popular sales price range. "I think buyers are hesitating because of the economy and the gas shortage," he said. "Otherwise we would have an increase over last year."

"BUSINESS IS great," says William Sebastian, president of Wm. B. Sebastian Real Estate in Des Plaines, and president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors. "Right now we're getting some deferred business — people who would have bought last year if there had been an ample supply of money."

Funds are available for conventional (non-government backed) mortgages, and there is some interest in Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration loans, Sebastian said. Interest rates are somewhat higher for the VA and FHA loans, he noted. The average sales price for a single-family home is $44,000 to $45,000 compared to $43,000 a year ago, Sebastian said.

Sales are running 20 per cent ahead of year-ago sales, reports John Christensen, a co-owner of Village Realty in Elk Grove Village. "People started coming back in the market in December," he said. "Right now our biggest problem is getting homes (listed)."

"I'm sure the price of homes is keeping some people out of the market," Christensen said. "The average sales price is $41,000." Quadruminium unit sales are doing well, he reported, though other condominium units don't sell as quickly.

HOME PRICES and sales are moving up, reports Roy Meyers, sales manager at McArthur, Realtors, in Schaumburg. Sales in October and November were "disastrous" followed by an upturn in December, Meyers said. "If people are able to get financing, the market will always grow."

The state usury ceiling of 8 per cent prompted many savings and loan associations to send their funds out of state in 1973, Meyers said. Now that S&Ls are gaining savings inflows, money is available. Additional funds could be available if the usury ceiling were lifted or eliminated, he added.

Meyers said an average 7.9 per cent plus 2 points is charged for an 80 per cent (20 per cent down payment) mortgage. For a 90 per cent loan, the rates are 7.8 per cent plus 4 points, or 7.9 per cent plus 3 to 3½ points, with a term of 25 to 29 years. Meyers added that quadruminium units are gaining popularity as a lower priced alternative to single family home purchases.

THE INCREASED availability of mortgage money boosted 1974 sales at Kenneth A. Ruud, Inc., Realtors in Arlington Heights by "no less than 20 per cent" over last year's sales, says Kenneth Ruud, president. He is also president of the MAP multiple listing service. He added that sales are good for all price ranges, and that the new home construction slowdown could affect the pre-owned or existing sales market later in the year.

"There is a pent-up demand for housing," according to Bob Zaun, president of Homefinders, Realtors, based in Palatine. The mortgage market is improved over the last quarter of 1973, "when in some cases, absolutely no money was available," he says. Yet the 90 and 95 per cent mortgages which were plentiful a year ago are harder to find.

Sales in every price range are "doing very well," Zaun says. He adds that "if money continues to become more liquid, demand will be increased that much more, and hence prices will go up."

MORTGAGE MONEY is still somewhat restricted in comparison with early 1973 conditions, according to Henry Kracalik, vice president in the mortgage loan department at First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Des Plaines. His association offers only up to 75 per cent loans, at a cost of 7.9 per cent, plus 2 points, plus $75. "The uncertainty of the economy and the gas situation are still holding back the market," he said.

Competition for savings dollars from short term investments and the state usury ceiling have hampered the mortgage market, according to James Fitzmaurice, senior vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. in Chicago. The state's largest S&L, First Federal had pulled out of the mortgage market from September through early January. Fitzmaurice said loans are now available to present customers and through builder commitments. "From where we see it, things are looking better," he said. "The situation has improved in the last 90 days."

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Experts make game difficult

Oswald: "It is always interesting to see experts struggling against one another. The ordinary bridge player would make only nine tricks with hearts as trump because after East won the first two diamond tricks and continued the suit or led a spade or a trump. South would hasten to lay down his ace and king of trumps."

Jim: "An expert South would cash one high trump; take the club finesse; lead dummy's eight of trumps and let it ride. The play could not hurt him and would guard against four trumps in the East hand. I take it that expert South went down anyway."

Oswald: "You take it correctly. Expert East took his ace of diamonds and led back a club. South won in dummy and decided that East had obviously led a singleton. Hence, South played the ace and king of hearts and wound up one trick in the soup."

Jim: "Looks like cruel and inhuman punishment for South's slight overbid of three hearts. Had he just bid two hearts he would have played the hand there and made a profit against any defense."

Harper business seminars slated

Executives will discover how to obtain some relief from the pressures of their schedules through an "executive stress" management seminar at Harper College Monday.

George Trammell, consultant in behavioral sciences at Sun Oil Co., will lead the seminar. The fee is $100.

This management program is geared to presidents, vice presidents, general managers and other top executives of organizations, and will focus on forces that create stress in executives and what can be done to minimize these tensions.

Thursday, Herbert A. Cohen of Performance Management, Inc. will present "Managing Change." This seminar will deal with developing the capability of coping with change and its attendant growth. The cost is $50.

"Effective Problem-Solving," March 28, will focus on developing a problem-solving attitude and application of the problem-solving process. Leslie E. This of Project Associates, Inc. will lead the all-day meeting. The charge is $50.

All seminars begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m. Lunch is included with the fee. Registration may be made by calling the college.

Easter Sunrise Service—an atrocity?

This is the time of year that ministerial associations begin planning what a small, but growing number of clergy regard as "the annual atrocity": the Easter Sunrise Service.

The wide variety of people who attend these outdoor ecclesiastical dawn patrols are usually guaranteed one invigorating, eumenical mass experience. They freeze in unison.

If Easter falls in late April, however, many of them — including many of the attending clergy — fall asleep.

For the clergy are rarely in the habit of bedding down at sunset as did the slaves, whose very early morning services were the only possible time for corporate worship.

If most clergymen go to bed at 8:00 or 9:00 P.M. in order to prepare to greet the dawn — and to preach at as many as three more services — they find that sleep eludes them, particularly on the eve of so great a church festival.

Yet with two or three hours sleep, ministers roll out of bed in the pitch black pre-dawn in order to prove that they are as pious and disciplined, as those saints who rose at 3 a.m. to pray.

ONE CLERGYMAN who has dared to defy this festival of more-nature-worship-than-Christ-worship is the Rev. John Lewis Gilmore, of Worland, Wyo.

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

This United Church of Christ minister, who is serving as pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, has written in Christian Century magazine that "Easter Sunrise Services are for the birds."

He has several comments as to why he feels that these services "ought to be dropped once and for all," such as:

• "They tend to appeal to the religious phony. In the dawn's early light I have spotted church members who not once during ten years of my pastorate have attended the regular services."

• "Perhaps they think God will compliment them for their once-a-year courage, in dragging their bodies to a windswept hill at 6:30 a.m. Those who like to suffer couldn't find a better way to satisfy that desire. But we should stop encouraging the belief that such suffering leads to salvation."

• "Let's get rid of the myth of the superiority of early risers. People who get up early do so because of their sleeping habits. God does not expect those of us who are up working half the night to roll out at dawn simply to meet a false standard of piety."

PASTOR GILMORE acknowledges that "the debate between the night owl Christian and the morning lark Christian invariably picks up steam" whenever the subject of Easter Sunrise services is brought up.

And while readily admitting that there have been many devout figures who rose early to pray, he refers us at the same time to a number of great night owls. Among these was famed poet Robert Frost, who defied custom and milked his cows at midnight, rather than face pre-dawn. And the late Pablo Picasso once observed: "I realize why condemned men are usually executed at dawn. I just have to see the dawn to have my head roll all by itself."

The Wyoming pastor also quotes, with apparent relish, the Prophet Micah (chapter 2, verse 1): "Shame on those who lie in bed planning evil and wicked deeds and rise at daybreak to do them."

He also cites Isaiah (chapter 5, verse 11), and his reference is to those "who rise up early in the morning that they may follow strong drink."

Aerosol cans not 100% safe...but nothing is

I would like to know if using hair spray in spray cans is dangerous. I have been hearing rumors that it is because you spray so near the face that you inhale the fumes from the pressurized gas.

If it's so dangerous why has it been on the market so long? What about all this protein in hair spray being so wonderful for hair. Is it worth the difference in price?

No aerosols are completely safe. But then no knife is either and yet we use them every day. If you follow directions on aerosol cans you are not likely to have serious problems. A number of people who have allergic tendencies have minor complaints about sprays.

Aerosol products really have three basic parts, the pressurized gas that propels the material, the ingredient you are going to use, and something to dissolve the ingredient in the pressurized gas. All three of these can be dangerous.

The pressurized gas is potentially lethal. Some people have used it for sniffing. This is very dangerous and unpredictable. It can cause a healthy heart to stop suddenly. The perverted use of the product is like using a knife for the wrong purpose.

The questions about hair spray were among the first concerns about these products. It was first reported that the hair spray formed solid materials in the lungs that caused lung problems. Further studies failed to prove this was the case. However, the ingredients used in some deodorant sprays are capable of doing this.

NO ONE HAS YET proved that the protein sprays for hair are dangerous. However, there is the concern the protein may sensitize a person to a particular protein, and, at a later date, when the person gets a shot with that protein in it — say for a vaccination — he may have a bad reaction.

Hair is largely built from protein. I

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

don't see any way the protein added to the hair can do anything more for the hair than coat it. In this sense it is much like a covering of nail polish to harden nails. Some of the nail polishes to harden nails, though, are very effective. It would have to be an individual matter. If it makes a person's hair look better and they want to use it then it might be worth it.

I want to caution readers about using aerosol sprays into the throat. Many of these products have been removed from the market. If you want to spray something into the nose or throat area, don't use an aerosol. The liquefied gas can be absorbed this way, and, in many ways you are doing a form of "sniffing." It is much better to use a plastic squeeze bottle where you provide the mechanical action for the spraying rather than using a pressurized gas.

*THERE ARE A variety of ingredients in different hair sprays. And, the effects of all of these are not yet known. Several studies are in progress on beauty operators to see what effect these have on them.

The most common danger from aerosols, though, is failing to follow the directions. When the spray, whether it is a paint or a bathroom cleaner, says use only in a well-ventilated room or outdoors it means just that. More than one person has been found unconscious from falling to read and heed. So, if you are going to use aerosols, for heavens sake read the directions.

Speaking about Real Estate

Robert L. Nelson, President
Robert L. Nelson, Real Estate
HOW CAN BROKERS BE OPTIMISTIC?

Reports across the country indicate brokers in general are optimistic about 1974 despite the shortage of gas, an increase in unemployment due to energy-crisis-inspired layoffs in certain major industries, high interest rates, continuing friction between Congress and the President, an escalating rate of inflation, etc. Even home builders are beginning to be more optimistic than they were only a few weeks back. Although many take the position that "we have to be optimistic to remain in this business," a Newsletter survey reveals several important reasons why optimism appears justified. Here are two:

• People will soon learn to live with the energy crisis just as they have learned to live with inflation, rising crime rates, meat shortages, etc. The adjustment to less fuel consumption will be simplified when government and oil companies better understand each other. Since oil has had less regulation by Washington than any other major industry, the government has a lot to learn before it will know how to allocate fuel equitably enough to avoid acute shortages in some states while others get all they need. Last month oil companies had no place to store the heating oil they were ordered to produce, "and you don't build new tanks overnight. Now we have to re-crack that heating oil into gas to prepare for warm weather, which means motorists probably will pay even more for fuel," one oil exec told us. As soon as problems like these get resolved, observers predict the allocation system will operate more smoothly.

• A loosening of the money market, accompanied by a slight drop in rates, promises to spur increased real estate activity and new home building. As of February 1, 88% of HUD's area offices reported an adequate supply of mortgage money available for financing home loans insured under section 203, up from 87% in January. This percentage has risen for six consecutive months from a low of 45% in August. Interest rates have also been improving, dropping as much as 20 basic points in some areas since January 1, with a strong possibility the trend will continue downward on a modest scale.

Last day for city scholarship forms Friday

Friday will be the last day high school seniors can pick up applications at the city hall for a Rolling Meadows sponsored scholarship.

The applications must be obtained in person at the city hall, 3600 Kirchhoff Rd. Completed applications must be returned to the student's high school counselor by March 25.

Seniors graduating from Rolling Meadows, Fremd, Sacred Heart of Mary and St. Viator high schools are eligible to apply. Students must be in the upper one-third of their graduating class, have been residents of the city for at least two years and continue to be residents during their school term.

Three $1,000 scholarships will be awarded and may be used for tuition payment at any four-year college or university, junior college, certified vocational school or technical institute in the country.

English teacher's poem in national publication

"Devil Take Morning," a poem written by James Little, an English teacher at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights, will appear in a future issue of the National Poetry Anthology.

Little's poem was one of a small number selected from more than 6,500 contributors throughout the country. The anthology is published by the National Teachers of English.

FASHION BY THE YARD

SPORTSWEAR AT its best. Mrs. DeDe Zwilling and Mrs. Nancy Race wear coordinated outfits perfect for a day of shopping or an afternoon on the golf course. They're fashions that fit the women's lifestyle.

EXCHANGABILITY. Mrs. Wanda Ortyn models a two-piece high fashion outfit in white, popular color for spring '74. Together or mixed and matched, it's a winning combination for many occasions.

High fashion

Women who buy designer clothes prefer quality over quantity

by KAREN THOMPSON

Jackie Onassis walks down New York's Madison Avenue wearing a casual outfit. Cost: Pants by Yves Saint Laurent, $165; blouse by Valentino, $120; sweater by Yves Saint Laurent, $380; pocketbook by Hermes, $525. Total: $1,190.

High fashion? Yes. But, according to designer Pierre Cardin, "The old days of couture are gone. There is no mode anymore."

Handmade, custom creations of haute couture have been strangled by the booming high fashion ready-to-wear industry. Upstairs at the Patou Salon in Paris the 10,000 seamstresses and tailors of 1930 have been pared to 200 workers today. Lanvin once had 15 couture workrooms. Today it has four.

THE BIG-NAME houses still turn out couture fashions, despite threats by the Yves Saint Laurent, Nina Ricci and Cardin salons to quit. The difference is that they make at least half of their profits from a new kind of fashion, hand-finished but machine-made ready-to-wear, plus assorted side products.

Paris fashion began in the 14th century when the wife of Charles VI of France sent dolls dressed in Paris fashions to the Queen of England to copy.

The first big-name Paris designer was an Englishman, Charles Worth, who opened his house in 1858. He was followed by Lanvin in 1890, Pacquin in 1892 and countless others.

Those were the days when a woman had no occupation except to dress. She wore the strict morning suit, the proper afternoon dress and elaborate gowns to the balls in the evening, all made especially for her by her favorite "king of fashion."

TODAY WOMEN have other things to do. High fashion has evolved. It had to, to survive. Because of the changing lifestyle — from days of sitting around a designer salon decorated with gilt-gold settees and sipping tea to days in the country, skiing, working or driving the kids to dancing lessons — high fashion has changed.

Coco Chanel introduced the new ideal of simplicity into haute couture and was the first representative of a Paris fashion house to delve into ready-to-wear. This is her idea of haute couture: "Fashion that doesn't find favor with the masses is no fashion at all."

What is the difference between haute couture and ready-to-wear? The designs are the same as are the designers. But, for a couture collection a blouse would be made completely by hand in the very finest fabric and there would be only one seam and no darts. A couture blouse would cost about $800 whereas the high fashion ready-to-wear blouse would be priced at $120.

According to Cheryl McGuire, fashion coordinator for Bertie Fashions, "Styles and concepts are set by a noted designer, but they are often carried out by a staff today. Many couture houses have gone broke because women are too independent and won't be dictated to. They are confident of themselves whether in a couture original or a high fashion ready-to-wear."

HIGH FASHION ready-to-wear, by Clovis Ruffin, Stephen Burrows, Yves Saint Laurent and a myriad others, is still expensive. And it isn't worn just by the elite in New York, Paris and on Michigan Avenue. Many women in the Northwest suburbs buy high fashion clothes.

Tucked away in the relaxed corners of such large department stores as Lord and Taylor and Marshall Field's are the oases of high fashion — the designer salons. Not to be forgotten are the small specialty stores which feature designer fashions. Among them are Bertie Countryside, in northwest Palatine, and the Cynthia Shoppe, in Des Plaines.

Bertie Gilbert, owner of Bertie Countryside, has been involved in both manufacturing and merchandising. Because of the change in trends, her company sold its manufacturing operations to concentrate wholly on the high fashion ready-to-wear market. Starting out on Oak Street, in Chicago, Bertie has just opened a store specializing in designer labels from America and Europe in Countryside Mall. According to Cheryl McGuire, many of Bertie's long-time patrons formerly traveled from the northwest area to the Oak Street store.

Mrs. Esther Schoop, owner of the Cynthia Shoppe, Des Plaines, described her patrons. "It might surprise you, but working girls buy many of the higher priced labels. Not for work necessarily, but for special occasions. And, of course, there is the country club set who buy designer fashions."

ACCORDING TO Jo Deutsch, public relations director for Lord and Taylor, the customers of that designer salon are mainly professional women or wives of professionals. Lord and Taylor also features collections by the new young designers in its boutique section.

Why do women pay such high prices for clothes? They are not clothes horses, rather collectors, seeking quality rather than quantity. Mrs. Wanda Ortyn, an Inverness homemaker, said, "I have fewer clothes, but what I have I love to wear and I feel good in them. They're also mixable."

"I sew and when I go shopping I notice when a garment is well-made," she added.

Mrs. DeDe Zwilling of Barrington, a part-time model in the area, said she can tell by looking at a garment what's best for her — a signature look. "I buy lines because I know exactly how a certain label will fit me. The trends change, but the fit stays the same."

"Because of the high cost of everything, women are very concerned about quality," said Jo Deutsch. "Women would rather have one good item with expected quality and durability than many lesser faddish garments. Women are looking for investment clothing."

MRS. SCHOOP echoed the reasons for buying designer clothes. "Once you know good quality, you will be glad to pay the price. Women firmly believe a designer is noted for quality and cut."

But even though women buy designer fashions, there have been drastic changes in the acceptance of them. In 1865 in the Journal Modenwelt this quote appeared: "Whether one likes it or not, Paris is, without question, the uncontested sovereign seat of fashion, whence its queen sends out her commando across the globe..."

"Couture was dictated then and even 20 years ago. When Dior changed skirt lengths in the late '40s, he changed the whole fashion picture," said Cheryl McGuire. "The midi was a flop and proof of the sophistication and independence of women buying clothes today," she added.

Mrs. Nancy Race, of Barrington, agreed, using pants as another example. "I like the return trend toward dresses, but when you live in the country and are in and out of a car all day, pants are just more practical."

WOMEN ARE willing to go along with new looks today, but they adapt them to fit their mode of life, personality and look. They may take a part of a new look and incorporate it into their current wardrobes.

"Clothes today must fit into the woman's lifestyle," said Mrs. Deutsch. "One day a woman will wear pants, the next day a dress above the knee and the next day a dress below the knee. Women are also looking for clothes that do more than one thing — from work in Chicago to vacation in Europe or Acapulco. There must be an exchangeability."

One fashion expert at the showings in Paris and New York this spring said, "There's little new enough to excite the magazines, but a lot to please women looking for comfortable and flattering clothes with versatility."

It starts with the designer. Fashion is the mirror of the age and the fashion designer is the medium through whom its spirit finds expression.

Service shock

"It was actually frightening, Alice!" Alice Flaxton, my best friend and next-door neighbor, listened sympathetically as I described my unnerving experience at a gas station.

"At first I didn't notice what he was doing because I was so nervous watching the price total on the pump spin upwards," I continued. "I was looking from the pump to my purse and back again to make sure I had enough money to make the purchase."

Alice waited while I sipped some coffee. "When were you first aware of the attendant's strange behavior?" she asked.

"Well, it was right after the pump automatically shut off. I heard it click and wondered where he was. Then I caught a glimpse of him out of the corner of my eye. He had been standing on the passenger side of the car near the windshield and seemed to be waving at it with a stick. Just as I became concerned, he disappeared around to the back of the car."

I paused, needing more coffee. "Then what?" Alice asked with great curiosity.

"WELL, HE STARTED doing something to the tailgate window with this stick. That's when I became truly alarmed."

"What did you do?" Alice asked breathlessly.

"Well, I jumped out of the car and yelled at him to wait, or to stop. I can't remember exactly for sure. I ran to the back of the car and climbed over the pump hose on the way."

"Did he stop?"

"He sure did. He seemed awfully surprised and somewhat confused. Then he said, 'Don't you want your windows washed off, lady?' At that point I noticed the stick and a squeegee and a sponge at one end."

Alice started to laugh, and I had to join her.

"As we got used to gas shortages and high prices, that service station might be able to charge a little more and still attract customers who would be willing to pay the price just to see such a quaint custom," Alice sighed.

I agreed wholeheartedly.

"JUST THINK, they could even do things such as check oil and water and inspect battery cells." A note of excitement was creeping into Alice's voice.

"It has possibilities," I observed.

"And maybe the attendants could all wear uniform coveralls like they used to in the days when getting gas was more than getting a tankful." Alice had a faraway look in her eye. "A nostalgic gas station," she said. "A place to take children and visitors from out of town..."

As I finished my coffee, Alice dreamed aloud of cold pop machines and candy bar counters, of petunias in planter boxes in summer and Christmas displays in winter.

I would have worried that she was going to risk a lot of money investing in such a venture. But I am confident that before she has a chance to do that, she'll run out of gas.

"A BREATH OF SPRING" arrives Saturday, March 30, when St. Emily Women's Club, Mount Prospect, hosts a luncheon and fashion show at Allgauer's Fireside in Northbrook. Mrs. Peggy Ulbert, Des Plaines, is chairman. Mrs. Alice Fitzgerald, Des Plaines, club president; and Mrs. Esther Biernacki, Mount Prospect, co-chairman. Fashions will come from Chez Chantel. Reservations, at $7, can be made by calling 255-0462 or 827-3757.

Make your own dehumidifier

Dear Dorothy: The energy crisis keeps me from going out to buy a dehumidifier for our basement. Yet it won't be long before the place will get damp and then musty. Have you ever heard of a home remedy that might work?

—Beverly Nayman
Sure! A homemade dehumidifier using granular calcium chloride. It requires some attention, but it works. Depending on the size of your basement, get some No. 10 tin cans and place a 12-inch square of screen over each top. On this screen you spread a cup of the calcium chloride. As the moisture is absorbed it drips into the cans, which have to be emptied fairly regularly. When more calcium chloride is needed you just add to what is on the screens. I agree it's a small nuisance, but it's cheap and it certainly saves on the energy part.

Dear Dorothy: The granules used to line kitten boxes failed to get up the grease and oily spots on our garage floor but paint thinner did the job. Of course it has to be handled with caution.

—Mrs. Maxie Lambert
Did you just spread the granules, or make a paste? His royal highness here in fooling around with the mower spilled motor oil on the concrete porch steps—even on the riser. The paste he mixed and slapped on took it all off.

Dear Dorothy: Cauliflower is a favorite in my house but with everybody on a diet I hesitate to use any kind of fat. But

Juniors to lunch, see 'total look' at show Saturday

"The Royal Crown of Fashion" is the theme of the annual luncheon fashion show sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines.

Evans Fashions and Furs of Woodfield has assembled "total look" ensembles for Saturday's benefit at the Diplomat West, Route 83 and North Avenue, Elmhurst. Syd Simons Studio of Des Plaines will provide makeup.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m. with cocktails, there will be a special exhibit of paintings by Christl. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 with background music by Don Springer from Karnes Music Studio.

Tickets at $7 each are available from members of the Juniors or by calling 827-8088 or 824-8755.

For the past 26 years, the benefit has been the club's major philanthropic fundraising event, with recipients on the local, state and national levels.

More than bread at this luncheon

Prospect Heights Woman's Club will hold a luncheon and fashion show entitled "Woman Does Not Live on Bread Alone," on Wednesday at Rolling Green Country Club, Mount Prospect. A social hour at 11 a.m. and noon luncheon will be followed by fashions from Jeanine's of Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Dorothy Colby, 537-0838, is taking reservations. Donations are $10 and everyone is welcome.

All profits from the event will be used for the club's philanthropies.

The women are currently accepting applications from Wheeling and Hersey High School students for a $150 scholarship at each school for summer study in the fields of art, music and conservation.

Johnny Carson renews his NBC contract

HOLLYWOOD — Bad news for CBS-TV and ABC-TV: Johnny Carson has signed a new long-term contract with the network he helped achieve dominance in late-night television, NBC-TV.

Although ABC-TV and CBS-TV have improved their late-night statistics, their ratings in this programming area are sometimes erratic, whereas Carson continues to display a remarkable consistency in attracting sizeable audiences. In fact, he has built such a solid following for his "Tonight" series that even when substitute hosts fill in for him — as they often do — his show still maintains its ratings potency.

According to the announcement, the Carson program set a record for itself in its ratings average last year, "and was viewed in an average of 5.6 million homes, another record."

Carson took over as host of the "Tonight" series on Oct. 1, 1962. The show originated at that time, and for most of his period as host, from New York City. Now, however, it emanates from NBC-TV's Burbank, Calif., complex.

FIVE OF THE top 10 programs in the latest national television ratings are fiction series about crime.

So despite all the complaints about the deluge of detective-type video shows, there's no question there is a public appetite for such stories.

Crime stories, after all, are hardly an invention of television, or movies. Such tales are also a staple of book publishers and the theater. And radio has had countless programs about crime.

THE FIVE crime series that made the "Top 10" in the latest national video ratings are "Barnaby Jones," "Mannix,"

DuBrow on TV

by Rick DuBrow

"Hawaii Five-O," "Ironside" and "Cannon."

Except for "Ironside," an NBC-TV entry, all of these crime shows are on CBS-TV, the perennial No. 1 network in the ratings.

Leading all programs in the rankings once again is CBS-TV's "The Waltons." In second position is "All in The Family," yet another CBS series.

Third is NBC-TV's "Sanford and Son." "Barnaby Jones" tied for fourth place with the Sonny and Cher variety series, which is also on CBS.

"Mannix" is tied for sixth place with still another weekly CBS show, "M*A*S*H." And rounding out the top 10 are, in order, "Hawaii Five-O," "Ironside" and "Cannon."

OTHER CRIME and law enforcement-type series also did well in the ratings. "Kojak," for instance, came in 11th. It, too, is a CBS program.

"The Six Million Dollar Man," an ABC entry about a superhuman government agent who foils bad guys every week, finished 12th.

"Gunsmoke," the classic CBS western, is 14th. "The Snoop Sisters," a periodic NBC show with Helen Hayes and Mildred Natwick as lively elderly women who are interested in criminal cases, tied for 21st.

And NBC's "Police Story," an anthology that is one of television's better fiction programs, came in 28th.

On television, crime pays. And pays. And pays.

There is joy in any victory...agony in any defeat

The buzzer sounds and Hersey cheerleaders and fans show their excitement at reaching the 'Sweet 16'.

Hersey joins state's elite! A very sweet (16) effort

by MIKE KLEIN

Seven days later, The Adventures of Dave Corzine is still going strong. Especially when the going gets tough.

Corzine's autobiography, of sorts, began getting heavy ink last week. Early, we learned that he was eccentric and didn't always put forth his best effort.

So last Wednesday, the 6-foot-11 center put on a brilliant show when Hersey flushed then top ranked Maine South down the Class AA drain. Corzine dominated with 52% field goal shooting and many blocks.

But after his work the last 10 minutes Friday evening against Evanston, you'd be hard pressed to pick the better effort.

Corzine was the No. 1 factor as Hersey dumped Evanston, 65-56, to advance from Arlington Sectional into Tuesday's Supers at Northwestern University. The Huskies came from one point back early in the last period. They outscored Evanston, 24-14, those last eight minutes.

With the Grace Gym crowd solidly behind him, Corzine scored eight points each half, shot 58% on seven-of-12 from the field, took down 13 rebounds and blocked many shots, at least five during the fourth period.

He did it despite playing with four fouls after 2:20 of the third quarter. Then, the Huskies trailed, 38-36, and all looked bleak because you cannot replace someone like Corzine.

The big man committed his fifth personal when just 39 seconds remained. The capacity crowd, savoring a 61-54 Hersey lead that looked uncatchable, thundered, "Corzine! Corzine!"

"More power to him, he did the job," said Evanston's Jack Burmaster who anticipated coaching this one against Maine South. "The guy looks like a B-29. Even if he's not in the middle, it's pretty tough for a high school team to penetrate. We were not adept out there."

The Huskies, favored against neither Maine South nor Evanston, are now 18-9 and will play Waukegan tomorrow afternoon at Northwestern. The winner advances to Champaign Evanston closed the book on a 14-10 season.

As everybody agreed, it was Corzine who made the difference. But he started slowly with no points, one foul and just one shot attempt during the first quarter. Playing smoothly inside and out, Evanston led, 16-14.

On the quarter's final play, Corzine made contact with 6-2½ Evanston center Dean Brown while defending against the drive. The play was ruled no good; the buzzer had sounded. Burmaster screamed but to no avail.

A series of minor setbacks seemed to fire Corzine's desire to an unstoppable pitch. At the end, when he carried four fouls, Corzine played like a man with no personals. The first little setback came at 6:57 of the second period when he had a lay-up disallowed.

"That one they said he traveled," said Hersey's Roger Steingraber. "He caught the ball in mid-air, came down, then put it right back in. I couldn't believe it."

Perhaps it was a blessing. He had another field goal disallowed during the fourth quarter. And Corzine wasn't always in agreement with fouls that were ... or were not ... whistled.

Steingraber didn't ponder moving Corzine off-center or resting him after that fourth foul. Corzine had 10 of his eventual 16 points.

"Couldn't pull him. Couldn't. Couldn't," Steingraber reiterated. "That's when we went man-to-man."

The Huskies, who never led after any quarter except the fourth, zoned until Corzine's fourth foul due to the quickness and shooting of Evanston guard Larry Lubin.

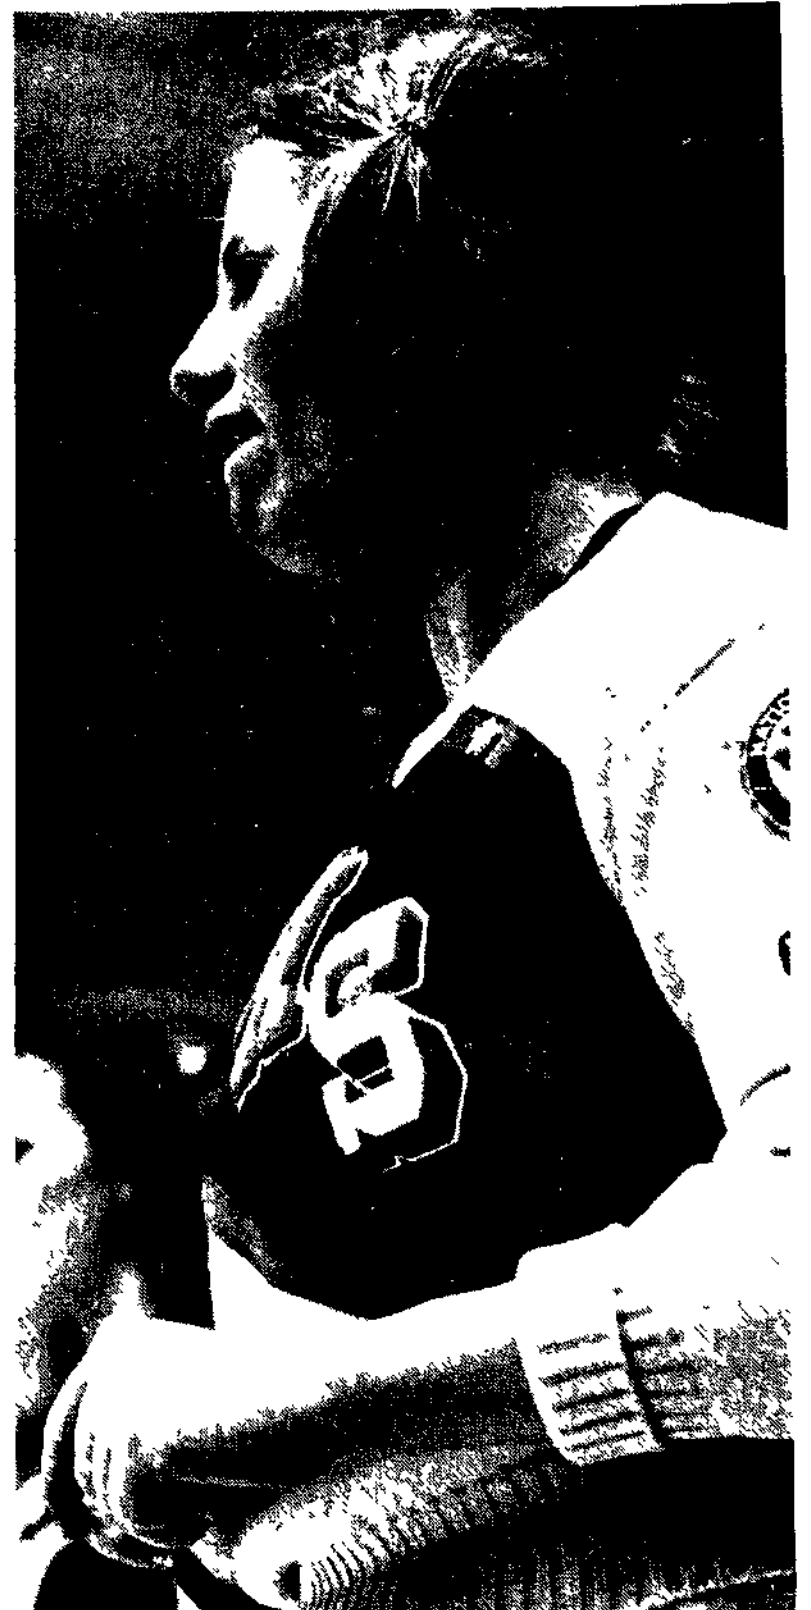

He started, then went to the bench for most of the first two periods when Evanston built a 29-26 halftime lead. But Lubin was all the Wildkitts had coming down the stretch.

Lubin scored seven of their final 11 field goals, mostly on outside shots, as Evanston could do nothing inside against Corzine.

Burmaster kept screaming for an inside game of Brown and 6-6 Glenn Turner going against Corzine. That fifth foul would have to come. But it didn't until Corzine's passing, rebounding and six more points had made the Huskies a winner.

"We thought sometimes it was questionable when one of our guys would go

... But disappointment shows after Conant setback.

Conant's bid ends in Elgin with 52-42 loss

by ART MUGALIAN

Derrick Mayes is the playmaking guard for Ball Chesbrough's Elgin basketball team. He is quick, he's a fine passer, and he can shoot.

So when Derrick drew his third personal foul just a few moments into the second quarter of the Elgin Sectional title game Friday against Conant, Chesbrough hesitated before yanking his 6-foot-1 senior.

The Conant Cougars, champs of the Mid-Suburban loop, had opened up a 14-9 first quarter lead on the accurate shooting of 6-4 Dave Sutherland and the rebounding of 6-5 Roger Sander. But the Maroons had narrowed the gap on a long jump shot by Mayes and a turnaround jumper by 6-8 center Terry Drake.

Chesbrough, a basketball coach for more than a quarter century, knew that Mayes had to come out, though. The Elgin head man replaced him with Dan Benac, a 6-8 senior.

It was the best move Chesbrough made all night. Benac dropped in three baskets in the final five minutes of the first half, the last one giving the Maroons a 23-20 edge at the buzzer.

Benac's heroics spurred Elgin to a 52-42 sectional victory over Dick Redlinger's Cougars, earning the Maroons a ticket to the Aurora Supersectional game on Tuesday.

The Cougars never gave up, even when they found themselves down, 31-24, at the start of the fourth period. But after baskets by Sutherland and Sander had brought Conant back to within three, Mayes came off the bench to hit a pair of 20-footers, thrusting Elgin into a 37-30 lead with 4:15 left.

Mayes fouled out at the 3:17 mark after scoring eight points, and Benac, his replacement, sank four free throws in the last minute to seal Conant's doomed tourney fate.

The game had been billed as a battle of front lines — Sander, Sutherland, and 6-8 Conant center Steve Irion against Elgin's 6-8 Terry Drake and Tom Hale and 6-5 Randy Ollis.

"I thought we neutralized their two big kids," Redlinger said after the game. "But Drake was the big difference."

Once he got his hands on the ball, the senior 'All-State' candidate from Elgin was deadly. Inside of 15 feet, Drake could hardly miss, hitting seven-of-10 and finishing the night with 16 points, tops for the Maroons.

Drake had seven points in the first quarter when it looked like Conant might pull away to a big lead. Sander was controlling the backboards and Sutherland and guard Tom Bowens were finding the hoop from long range.

"Our kids came out and they knew what they had to do," the Conant coach said. "And they did it. But we just had a little letdown on offense, that's all."

The letdown was considerably more than minor, however. The Cougars scored only six points in the second period and four in the third. Elgin outscored Redlinger's boys by 12 in that span, opening up a nine-point difference at the 1:30 mark of the third quarter.

"In a good ball game like this, you go for the percentage shot," explained Redlinger, "and we got them — but the ball wouldn't go down."

The Conant coach praised the Maroon defense. "Every time we made a move to get open, they were right there — they were always right there!"

The Cougars shot only 38 per cent from the field and they missed 10 free throws, compared to Elgin's 51 per cent and 14-16 from the line.

Irion in particular suffered as a result of the Maroons' tight defense. The big Cougar senior managed only nine points for the night, eight below his season average.

Fought and lost in Elgin

A super season ends for battling Cougars

by ART MUGALIAN
Down on the Elgin Fieldhouse floor Friday night thousands of paper scraps covered the basketball court like so much dust. The game was over.

Only moments before, the Conant team had fallen to the host Maroons amid the shouts and screams of 5000 fans. Now the cavernous gymnasium was empty.

The scoreboard — now dark — had recorded the 52-42 Elgin victory while stunned Cougar partisans fled away from the anticlimactic trophy presentations at center court. Some had waited long enough to see the Maroons receive their first place sectional hardware. Others couldn't bear to watch.

But now the silent fieldhouse echoed only the clank of folding bleachers. Half an hour earlier, Conant's Roger Sander had fallen to the floor right here. The 250-pound senior had required a few fearful seconds to rise, but when he did he lumbered down to the other end of the court in time to deflect an Elgin fast break pass.

It was almost a superhuman effort but it wasn't enough.

Tom Bowen, the Cougars' scrappy guard, had tried to drive against Elgin's 6-foot-8 Terry Drake. Drake slapped the ball halfway up the court. Moments later, Bowen had attempted the maneuver again, this time shoveling the ball underhanded toward the bucket. The shot missed and Bowen crashed to the floor.

But he and his mates never gave up.

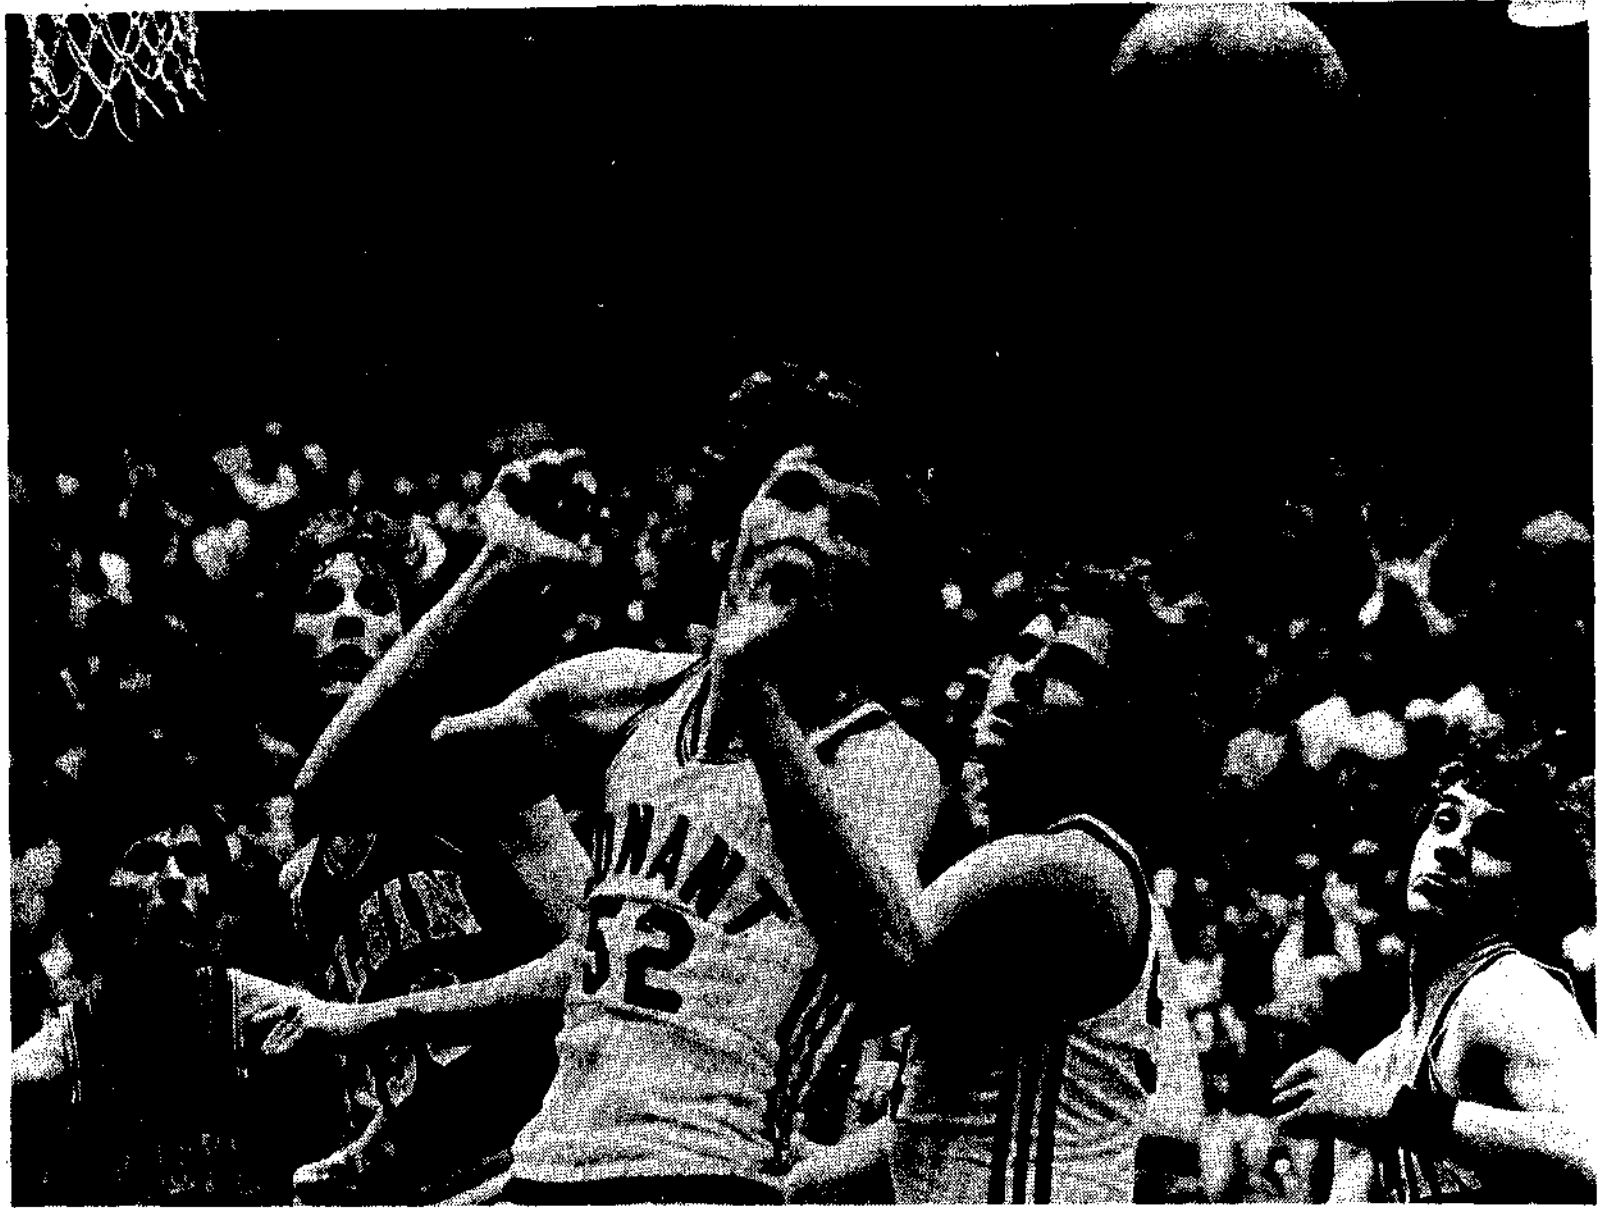

Conant's 6-8 center Steve Irion had seen a few of his jump shots pushed back into his face by Drake, and forward Dave Sutherland discovered the frustration of a cold-shooting night.

But they never stopped trying, even after falling behind by nine. Jeff Ironside continued his aggressive guard play for Conant even after he missed a key free throw attempt.

The Cougars fought and lost.

The end of the tournament line came quickly for Dick Redlinger's Conant squad, but the last several minutes of the season took an eternity to pass. The Cougars were never out of the game, but something in the feeling of the moment — a foreboding perhaps — spelled defeat for Conant.

Dreams of Champaign will have to be packed away until next year.

THIS ONE GOT AWAY. Steve Irion of Conant (52) and teammate Roger Sander (behind Irion) watch the rebound carom out of their reach in Friday's sectional battle at Elgin. The two Cougars combined for 33 rebounds, but Elgin dominated the boards in the second half and pulled away for a 52-42 victory in the tourney finals. The Maroons earned a berth in the Sweet Sixteen and will play Proviso East on Tuesday. (Photo by Tom Grieger)

Tickets on sale for Hersey game

An allotment of 2,500 Super-sectional basketball tickets will go on sale in the main office of Hersey High School this morning at 7:30 until 4 p.m. and Tuesday from 7:30 until 10 a.m.

All seats are $2 and are reserved for Northwestern University's McGaw Hall where 18-9 Hersey and 21-7 Waukegan will determine who makes the trip to Champaign in the quarterfinals of the Illinois High School Association State Basketball Tournament.

Buses to the 4 o'clock game will leave Hersey at 2 p.m. The cost of riding the bus is 50 cents for adults and students.

shirt." (Nick Gineris was, however, and it was his final game of a 30-year officiating career.)

Evanston led, 42-41, after three quarters. Hersey's Clyde Glass, 15 points and six rebounds, traded a basket with Turner to start the fourth period. It was all Hersey for the next three minutes.

With Corzine rebounding and throwing baseball passes toward Tim Conard and Mark Krause, the Huskies scored 10 of the game's next dozen points. They led, 53-46, with 4:34 remaining. Conard, top scorer with 22 points, had one field goal and two free throws during the spurt.

Rich Madison, Corzine and finally Glass added field goals, Glass getting his after an assist pass from Corzine.

But the Wildkats put on a last rally, getting eight of the next 10 points to move within a 55-54 deficit at 2:48. Lubin and All State football halfback Joe Stewart sank two field goals apiece. Hersey's only points were scored by Corzine on a long rightside jumper.

Conard drove for two points at 2:35, getting the Huskies a 57-54 lead, before Lubin and Corzine each missed the front end of bonus free throws.

It was a five-point lead when Krause, who played great defense, hit two charity shots at 1:17. Hersey led, 59-54. Krause was spelled briefly by Tom Vetta whose quickness worked up better opposite Lubin.

The clinching points were left for Corzine. Fouled by Lubin at 0:54, the big man sank both ends of his bonus attempt as the Huskies were uncatchable with a 61-54 lead.

Brown added two free throws to Evanston's total. Conard had three points and Glass one to close out Hersey's scoring. The Conard field goal, near the buzzer, was actually tipped in by Evanston's Brian McCaslin.

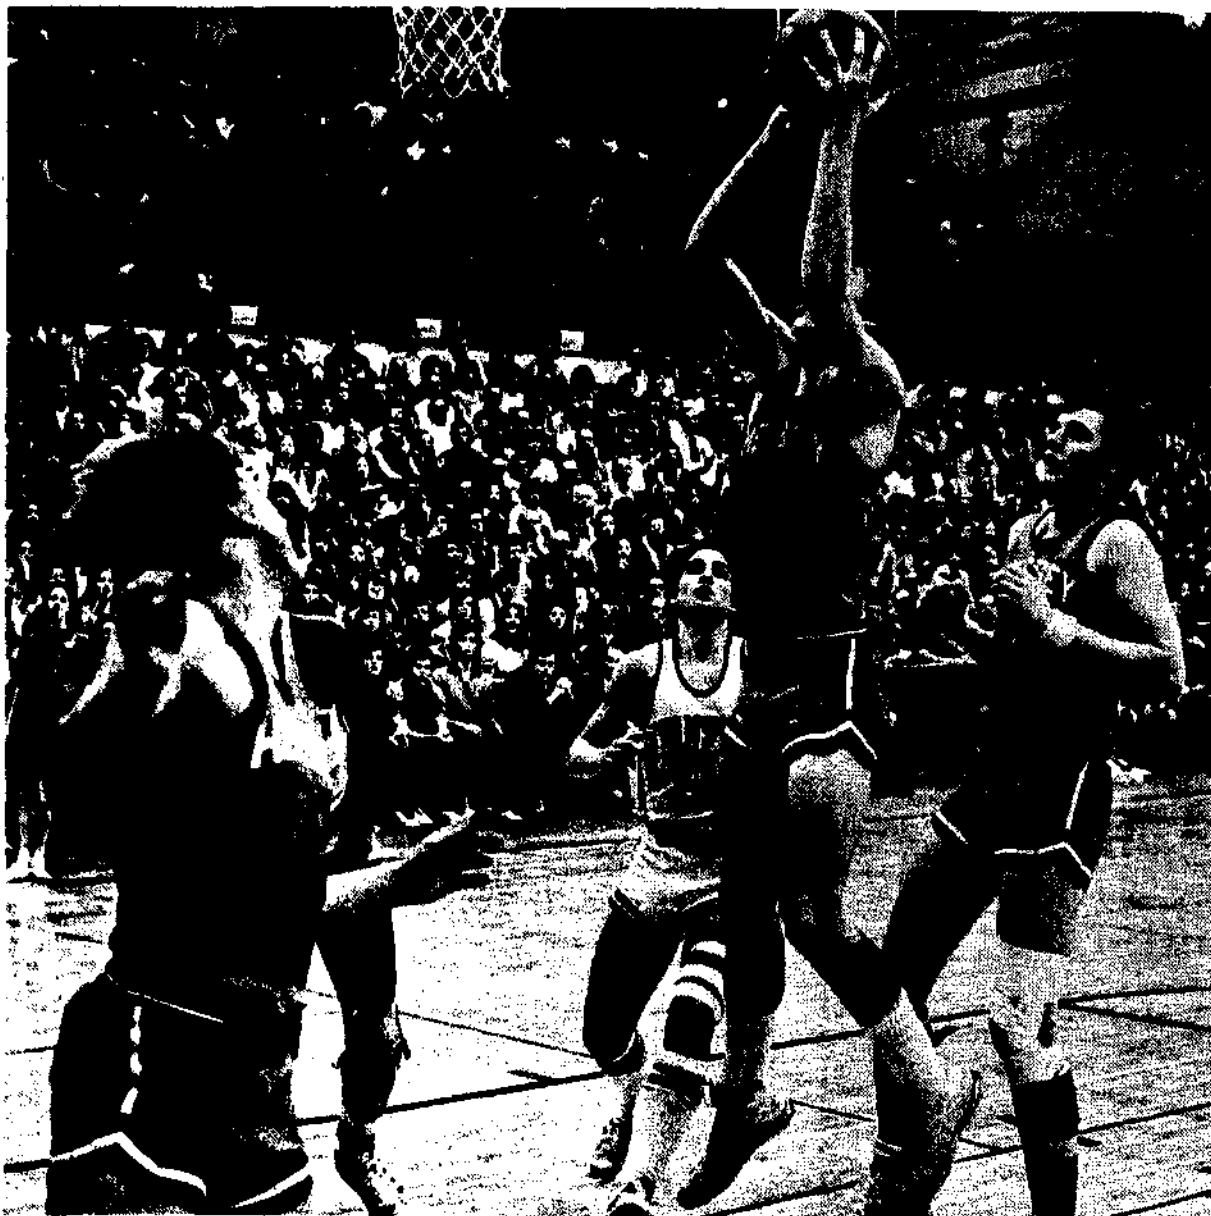

Evanston won the boards battle, 30-26, with 10 from Brown. After Corzine's 13, Hersey had Glass with six and Madison five. Hersey was 25-of-51 from the floor (49%) and Evanston 24-of-53 (45%).

But in this one, you could throw the numbers out and explain it one way: Corzine. As Steingraber said ever so calmly, "Dave has a great future." Some understatement, huh!

Reviewing Herald area basketball

'Fun year' at Elk Grove turns into 14-12 season

by PAUL LOGAN

Late last fall, Bill Parmentier was worried. Sure, Elk Grove's head basketball coach was happy to have the team's leading scorer and rebounder back in Ken Pollitz. Anyone would love to have a potential all-stater back.

However, all but two of Pollitz' 13 teammates graduated off the school's best team ever and holder of a 15-8 record. And of the two joining him, one had a field goal and the other only a foul to show for varsity experience.

Parmentier admitted that this team's chances of finishing with a .500 record were shaky, to say the least. If they were to win at all, help would have to come from someone besides Pollitz, who had contributed an 18.2 average as well as 27.8 rebounds the year before.

Despite a tremendous amount of inexperience, help came. The Grenadiers started fast, winning their first three games and the Lake Park Thanksgiving Holiday Tournament in the process.

Such a fine start helped lay the groundwork for a very fine season. Nearly knocking off state-ranked Edwardsville (59-57) in its holiday tourney, the Grenadiers surprised a lot of people by finishing fourth.

They ended their season with a heart-breaking loss to Prospect, 61-58. Had this gutsy little team made it by the Knights at the Hersey Regional Tournament, the Grove would have tied the school's all-time single season win total. The Grens finished up 14-12.

In the process, nine of these 10 untented young men made this surprising season a "fun year," according to Parmentier. "We really didn't know if it was going to be a successful season, but was it ever.

"When you stop to think of the super year the Mid-Suburban League had as a whole, our 6-7 record in the conference wasn't all that bad. Especially when you think of the superb teams that our little fellows had to face — Conant (22-4), Forest View (19-6), Wheeling (19-7), Hersey (18-9) and Arlington (20-6). Shoot, we didn't play Arlington, but we had to play all the rest of 'em.

"I think they gave the Elk Grove fans a helluva season. They played hard all year. I don't think they ever quit. All year long we probably lost just one game (Palatine in overtime) we really had a chance to win. That was the only real disappointment."

As a head coach for 15 seasons, he has yet to have an all-stater. Not anymore as far as he's concerned.

"Kenya is definitely an all-stater. There's no question about it. I'll be pretty upset if he's left off.

"I'm extremely happy that Ken had the chance to break the record (the 13-year-old single season scoring mark of 617 by Palatine's Ron Kozlicki). We were worried about it for a while."

Pollitz capped a stellar season with 18 tough ("They had five kids out of the stands guarding him besides the Prospect team.") points to give him 621.

The 6-foot-5, 233-pound performer was the MSL's leading scorer with a 24.3 average. He also had 196 league rebounds and was third in team assists.

Giving the versatile senior star assistance were four fine juniors — Bill Prince, Greg Kelley, Steve Carson and Jeff Smith — and five seniors — Jim Hammers, Don Weasley, Tom Staddler, Tom Schaefer and Bob Boyle.

"I think the whole year was based around good, solid defense," said Parmentier. "I think the kids played tremendous defense all year for only three teams barely made it by the 60-point mark against us. We were as good a defensive team as anybody. The best defensive ball club I've ever had."

Although the Grove loses three-year letterman Pollitz to graduation, Parmentier would like to think a winning tradition has been established with three straight victorious seasons.

"We had winners on all levels this year," said the Grove coach. "I don't think the future looks bad at all.

"These four juniors got a lot of varsity experience this year. They learned a lot, especially on defense. If next year's team gets a little more scoring punch, they should do okay."

Arlington girls post shutout in badminton action

Arlington posted the only shutout Thursday afternoon as badminton play for girls continued in the Mid-Suburban Conference.

Arlington toppled Hoffman Estates 7-0. In other action it was Elk Grove over Conant 4-3, Forest View over Palatine 5-2, Hersey over Fremd 5-2, Prospect over Buffalo Grove 6-1, and Wheeling over Rolling Meadows 5-2.

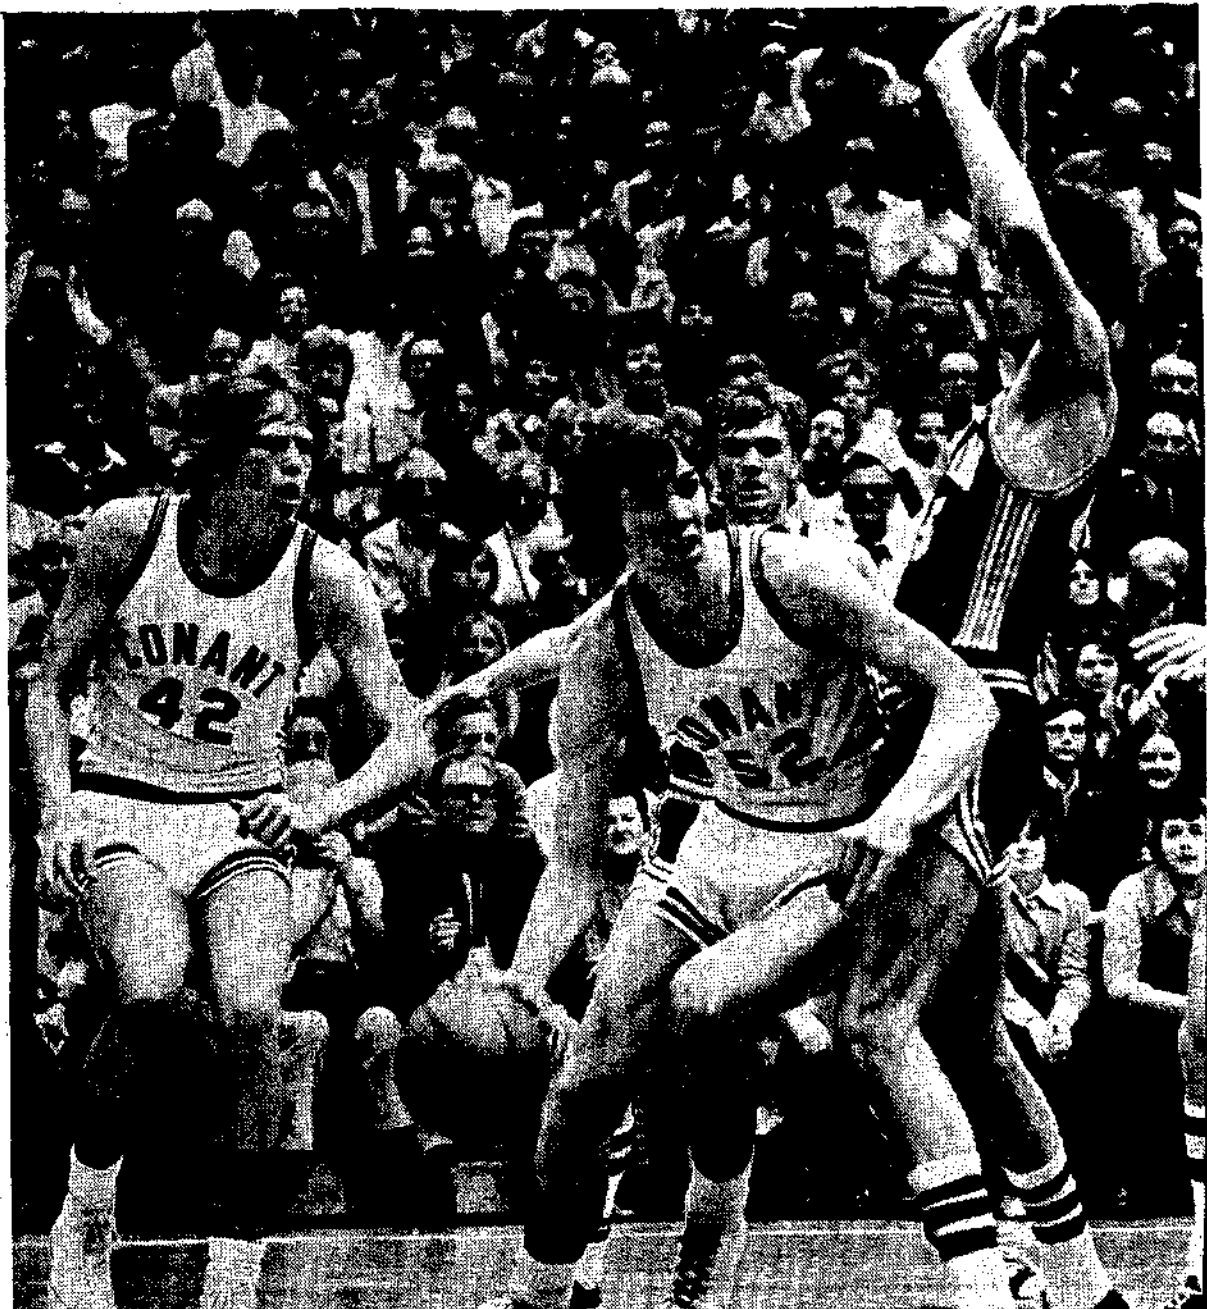

In action today Conant will be at Hersey at 4:30 p.m. The Tuesday schedule matches Hoffman Estates at Elk Grove, Arlington at Palatine, Forest View at Prospect, Buffalo Grove at Rolling Meadows, and Wheeling at Schaumburg.

Hoffman Estates sets signup in soccer Saturday

Soccer registration for the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association will be held from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 23, at the Vogelei Barn, routes 72 and 58.

The cost of the registration is $8 per child, and the soccer program is open for girls 8 to 17 and boys 7 to 15.

Anyone interested in coaching or officiating in the soccer program should also attend the Saturday registration.

THE IMMOVABLE FORCE. Elgin's Terry Drake (arms raised) presents a problem for Conant's Steve Irion (52), who tries to move toward the basket in Friday's sectional final at Elgin. Irion, the Cougars' top scorer, was held to just nine points as the Maroons eliminated Conant, 52-42, from the state tournament picture. Irion's predicament is mirrored in the expression on teammate Dave Sutherland's face.

Host Maine East captures relays title; four marks

Four meet records toppled, Maine East won five of seven relay races, and the host Blue Demons ran away with their own invitational indoor track meet Saturday.

Maine East captured the Blue Demon Relays for the seventh time in the last nine years almost strictly on the power of its showing in the relay events. The Demons racked up 88½ points, winning the frosh-soph mile relay (3:40.6), the freshman four-lap relay (1:19.1, a new record), the frosh-soph two mile relay (8:32.5, another new record), the varsity four-lap relay (1:14.6), and the eight-lap class relay (2:47.2), in which each leg is run alternately by a freshman, a sophomore, a junior, and a senior.

Mike Smith of Maine East notched first place points in the high jump, breaking his own meet record set last year by leaping 6-6. No Illinois high schooler has cleared the bar any higher than that this season. Bob Racconelli of Maine East took first in the shot put with a heave of 51-1½ and Bill Klippert grabbed first place for Maine West in the 50-yard high hurdles (1:06.5).

The other record-setting performance was turned in by Highland Park's Dan Morgan, who pole vaulted 14-6, shattering the old mark by nine inches.

Maine West, last year's winner, piled up 50 points for second place, followed by Niles West's 48 and Fremd's 39½. Highland Park had 38½, Maine South had 37, and Hersey earned 20.

Hersey's Jim DiLenge captured the long jump event with a leap of 20-6, as he accounted for the only first place finish by a Mid-Suburban League squad.

Dave Seif of Maine South won the mile run with a time of 4:29.3 and Mark Selbergren of South took first in the 50-yard dash with a clocking of :05.6.

Niles West won the two mile relay (8:03.4) and Highland Park took the mile relay (3:33.8).

Prospect managed 7½ points, largely on a second place finish by Mike Rekowski in the long jump (20-3¼). Niles North had 5 points, Wheeling 2, and Arlington and Niles East didn't score.

Conant's bid falls short, 52-42

(Continued from Page 1) after the first quarter," he said. "And we concentrated on keeping them off the boards in the second half. Early in the game, Drake was coming out too much and he was leaving a big hole inside. We moved him in a little closer after that.

"Benac did a great job coming in there," Chesbrough continued. "They were all just great."

Drake's 16 points led Elgin, followed by Benac with 10, and eight apiece for Mayes and Tom Hudgens. Hale, Benac, and Drake were the top rebounders.

The Maroons, now 21-6 and hot off wins against St. Patrick and Conant, confront Proviso East Tuesday for the right to go to Champaign next weekend.

It would be a return trip for Elgin, this year's runnerup in the Upstate Eight Conference. Last March, Chesbrough's team made it to Champaign, only to be knocked off in the quarterfinals by league rival West Aurora.

Conant's leading scorer Friday was Sutherland with 16 points. Sander netted 11 points while grabbing 23 rebounds.

For a while, the Cougars will not be able to forget their fourth loss of the season — the sectional defeat at Elgin.

For a while, anyway, that fourth loss outweighs those 22 wins.

Samoyed club to hold show in Libertyville

Chicagoland Samoyed Club will hold an AKC Sanctioned B-OB Match Sunday, March 24, at Sunny Acre Kennel, Bradley Road, Libertyville, for Samoyed breed only.

Pre-entries close Thursday, March 21, for which the fee is $2.50. Gate entry fee is $3.50 and gate entries for obedience close at 11:30 a.m. Conformation and litter entries close at 12:30 p.m., the day of the show.

Judging conformation will be Verajane Lukowski, well known Alaskan Malamute breeder, and Mary Mazzeri, director of training for Car-dum-al Obedience Training Club, will judge obedience.

Entries are to be mailed to J. M. Carter, Match Chairman, 201 E. Norman Drive, Palatine, Ill., 60067. Payment must accompany registration with checks made payable to Chicagoland Samoyed Club. For additional information, call the Carter home, 359-3611.

At least 15 major projects for 1974

Village expecting one of greatest growth years

by JOE FRANZ

Last year Buffalo Grove witnessed a relatively small amount of development compared to recent years, but officials feel this year will be one of the biggest periods of growth in the village's history.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said Friday at least 15 major building projects and possibly more are scheduled to get underway by the end of 1974. Most of the projects are residential, but there are also several commercial and even one governmental structure planned.

A few of the projects already have been started for some groundbreaking is scheduled for this spring, and still others will not get underway until late in the year.

ACCORDING TO LARSON, by this time next year the village could have 600 to 700 additional dwelling units, a new shopping center, a new auto dealership, another bank, an office-specialty shop center and a new fire station.

Additional homes and apartments planned for this year could increase the village population by as many as 2,000 persons, bringing it to more than 21,000, Larson said.

The recently adopted village master plan predicts the village will have a population of 56,000 persons by 1990.

Larson predicts much of this growth will take place in the next five years. By 1978, he said the village population probably will be around 40,000, more than double its present size.

The village master plan calls for village expansion to unincorporated areas primarily north and east of the village in Lake County. Some development already has begun and village officials believe much more will take place there over the next several years.

By 1990, the master plan shows village expansion north to Ill. Rte. 22 and east to Milwaukee Avenue. The boundaries now extend to about Busch Road on the north and to about Buffalo Grove Road on the east.

THE VILLAGE'S western boundary near Arlington Heights Road and its southern boundary near Dundee Road is not expected to change.

In 1970, when the population was 12,000 persons, there were 3,092 dwelling units in the village. In 1972, there were 4,274, an increase of 38 per cent. Larson predicts 5,000 to 6,000 units will be constructed in the next five years.

Larson said last year's building slowdown came as a surprise to him, but he expects development to pick up this year. He attributed the slow year primarily to a tight mortgage market.

"We hadn't expected a slowdown in construction to the extent that we saw and neither did the developers. But I think the situation will be improved this year," Larson said.

Officials say the building slump last year was good for the village because it gave them more time to prepare for the new developments that are planned. "This year we're better equipped than before because we have a better inspectional program. The additional year gave us more time to organize inspectional activities for the projects," Larson said.

SINCE LAST YEAR, he said the village has hired additional building inspectors who can keep a close watch on all developments. "We are now in a better position to control the growth and not let it get ahead of us," Larson said.

At the present time, 55 per cent of the village area consists of homes, 16 1/2 per cent of schools and parks, 2 1/2 per cent of commercial areas and 25 per cent of streets and utilities.

Although development trends in the village are leaning toward townhouse, condominium and apartment construction, the master plan predicts the village will remain primarily a single-family home community.

Most of the developments planned for the village in the near future are for multi-family housing, with only a few single-family projects.

AT PRESENT, about 15 per cent of the units in the village are rentals. This percentage is not expected to change significantly. Almost all units under construction or in the planning stages call for individual ownership.

There is no industry in the village now, but the master plan has designated several large areas for that type of development. Larson predicts it will be several years before the industrial areas will be developed.

Larson feels that from one-third to one-half of the village's tax base should come from industrial and commercial development. Increasing the tax base in this way will take some of the burden off homeowners.

Tops for area grade schools

Schools set Gill salary at $37,000

Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill is the highest-paid elementary school administrator in the Northwest suburbs, having just received a new, three-year contract setting his annual salary at $37,000.

The contract, approved last week by the school board, reflects an 11 per cent increase over the $33,390 paid to the superintendent for the 1973-74 academic year. It goes into effect July 1.

Gill's contract also provides that he will receive four weeks' paid vacation and the usual benefits specified for all full-time employees of School Dist. 21, including life, health and accident insurance.

The $33,390 received by Gill for the current year is comparable to the salaries of other local elementary school superintendents. Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Supt. Donald Strong is making $36,000, Elk Grove Twp. Dist. 59 Supt. James Erviti receives $34,182 and Mount Prospect Dist. 28 Supt. John Fridlund's salary is $27,000. High School Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert is currently making $38,500.

LIKE SEVERAL other elementary school superintendents, Gill receives a car to use in addition to his regular salary and contract benefits. The car is replaced every two years and the vehicle Gill presently uses is to be traded next year.

Kenneth Gill

placed every two years and the vehicle Gill presently uses is to be traded next year.

Last year, Gill received a six per cent pay raise over his previous salary of $31,500. The superintendent's raise was comparable to a 6 per cent pay hike negotiated by Dist. 21 teachers.

Bargaining teams representing local teachers and the Dist. 21 school board are currently negotiating the 1974-75 teacher contract. There is no relationship between the salaries provided administrators and teacher salaries.

Lake County polling places

Residents in Lake County Buffalo Grove can vote in tomorrow's primary election at one of two village locations.

Anyone living in Precinct 8 can vote at Willow Grove School, at Ivy Hall and Penny lanes. Residents in Precinct 9 can cast their ballots at Willow Stream Park, at the east end of Farrington Drive.

The polls will be open between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.

School election becomes a race

Carol Karzen, 430 Regent Dr., Buffalo Grove, has made it a race by filing to participate in the April 13 Dist. 21 school board election. The election was previously uncontested.

Mrs. Karzen is the only candidate who has the support of the Dist. 21 General Caucus.

Incumbent school board members Jeremiah Crise and Jack Lane, both of Arlington Heights, are running without caucus support.

Two three-year seats on the board are available.

THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY to go when your coming to Dundee Road via Ill. Rte. 53. The relatively new signs replace the old wooden barricades that used to make an excellent cover for state policemen setting up speed traps. Police also report that less drivers have hit the new signs as compared with the old.

Fire district plans to be reviewed

The village board tonight will review an agreement with the Buffalo Grove Fire Department Inc. that, if approved, will put the village one step closer to being served by one fire department.

More than two months ago the board voted to support a referendum to put the entire village under the jurisdiction of the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District, which employs the Buffalo Grove Fire Department.

At that time, the village and fire department could not reach agreement on a number of procedures that would take place after the village decides to form a municipal department.

Since that time, however, Village Pres. Gary Armstrong and Fire Chief Wayne Winter have met and apparently resolved most of the differences. The village board now will review the agreement.

THE POINTS AT issue pertain to the transfer of fire equipment, firemen's salaries, personnel policies and fringe benefits after a municipal department is formed.

In addition to reaching agreement with the Buffalo Grove Fire Department Inc., the village also must arrive at a pact with the Wheeling district. After that is done, officials will begin organizing the referendum.

It is predicted a referendum transferring the entire village to the Wheeling district is several months away. A transfer to the Wheeling district would eliminate the present system under which the village is served by three fire districts.

IN OTHER business tonight the village will:

- Review and approve a contract for an architect for the proposed public works garage.
- Consider the appointment of five persons to the environmental control commission.
- Pass an ordinance conveying land adjacent to Twin Groves School to the park district for recreational use.
- Review and appoint the chairman of the electrical commission.
- Review a request for a fence variation at 531 Castlewood Ln.
- Review and accept a permit from the State of Illinois for a sanitary sewer under Buffalo Creek.

RTA: no party affiliation needed

The inside story

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kusper said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kusper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kusper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Where to vote Tuesday...

PAM AND PATTY MILLETT paired up to present a routine last week in a talent show at St. 21's Riley School. Students in the first through sixth grades participated in the show by singing, dancing, doing comedy skits and performing magic. The show was sponsored by the student council.

Industrial arts to debut at schools

Woodshop, drafting, electricity, metalworking, plastics and home mechanics will be included in the industrial arts program to be introduced in the three Dist. 21 junior high schools next fall.

Additions to Cooper, Holmes and London junior high schools are currently under construction to accommodate an extensive vocational education program which will also include home arts courses besides industrial arts offerings.

All classes in the vocational education program will be coeducational, open to any seventh or eighth grade student.

The industrial arts curriculum, released last week, was developed for Dist. 21 by Howland Werling, dean of students at Wheeling High School. The home arts program is to be completed and released later this week, according to Marjorie Beu, administrative assistant for curriculum.

ACTIVITIES INCLUDED in the industrial arts program are designed to allow students to develop the necessary skills to create useful projects of their own selection.

The content of the course is divided into phases, in which students in a particular class will be working with the same material and progressing at their own rate.

In studying methods of working with woods, the student will be instructed in the use of commonly used tools such as saws, planes, hammers, screwdrivers, square, level, vise, glueing clamps, miter box, wood chisels, files, rasps, and sanding tools.

Other instruction in this phase will include plan reading, measuring, using fastening and finishing materials and types of characteristics of various woods.

STUDENTS WILL be exposed to the basic fundamentals of mechanical drawing in the drafting section of the industrial arts program.

Students will be taught to make simple drawings and how to read complex drawings such as those used in industry, the building trades and in electronics and electricity.

Electrical wiring used in common home construction will be covered in the electricity phase of the program.

Demonstrations will be given, using a mock house with standard electrical fittings, wire and equipment. Students will be required to participate in wiring the mock house.

Students will also learn to replace plugs, sockets and wires on lamps and appliances. Safety will be stressed and the dangers of electricity will be discussed.

THE BASIC TECHNIQUES of sheet metal fabrication will be explored in this phase of the program. The students will have an opportunity to use simple cutting and forming tools and methods of fastening will be demonstrated.

Useful, uncomplicated projects are to be constructed by the students and perfection in craftsmanship will be stressed along with accuracy in measuring and layout. Instruction about plastics will include an explanation and discussion about some of the different types of plastics, how they are made and what they are used to make.

Demonstrations will be given to illustrate the construction of projects made of acrylic plastics such as Lucite and Plexiglas. The use, care and dangers of solvents necessary to join and laminate plastics will be explained in simple terms to students.

Demonstration in heating and forming plastics will be given and the student will be able to make a variety of projects including optical items such as a lens.

Speakers from industries and businesses in the area will be invited to speak to students and wherever possible, field trips will be arranged to allow pupils to observe industrial and business processes.

Wheeling High bands to perform Wednesday

The Wheeling High School concert and symphony bands will perform Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the school.

The combined bands will perform a piece by Bach and a suite in E flat for Military Band. The jazz ensemble will also perform selections they will perform at jazz festivals.

Developer tells plans for 480-unit project

A Chicago developer brought plans before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Friday to build 480 apartment and townhouse units on 43 acres near Schoenbeck and Palatine roads in unincorporated Wheeling Township near the village of Wheeling.

Consite Properties, Inc., requested a zoning change to enable the construction of the units to be sold as condominiums on a parcel north of Palatine Road and east of Schoenbeck Road, across the street from the proposed Harper College site.

Also included in the plans are commercial units for stores and businesses.

A representative of the firm told board members that the apartment units will be one-story townhouses and four-story structures consisting of 48 units in each building.

Plans for the development include McDonald Creek. "We'll have McDonald Creek run through the property," said the Consite representative, "and create large areas of retention."

HE ALSO ADDED that the residential area will be located on the eastern portion of the property and the commercial area on the western portion. The major access to the complex will be Schoenbeck Road.

The firm maintained that the development will generate 121 elementary school age children and 32 high school age children in its report. Members of the zoning board asked how many children there would be if the parcel consisted of single-family housing.

The developers said that 60 houses could be built on the 42 acres and that possibly as much as 150 children of both elementary and high school age could be living there.

A decision by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to grant or deny a zoning change could take several weeks, officials say. In the meantime, surrounding villages affected by the possible development may hold their own hearings.

Summer classes free this year with aid hike

Children in School Dist. 21 will be able to attend summer classes free this year, thanks to a recent increase in state aid to the district.

The school board last week abolished the $5 materials fee for students and increased the salaries of teachers for the 60-hour session from $400 to $450.

Commenting on the action, Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said, "One of the theories of state aid is to reduce the cost of education locally. Morally, we have the obligation to do that whenever possible."

The only fee charged for summer school this year will be a $25 assessment for children attending who live outside Dist. 21.

The board also has applied for a $3,029.49 federal grant to purchase materials for the new vocational education program to be implemented in the three junior high schools in the district next fall.

Additions are currently under construction at Holmes, Cooper and London junior high schools to accommodate the program that will include both industrial and home arts classes.

Teachers' union, board hold first contract talks

by LINDA PUNCH

Representatives of the East Maine Elementary Board of Education and teachers' union met for the first negotiations session of the year in what both sides termed a "congenial" meeting.

Ken Howenstine, vice president of the East Maine Education Assn., said both sides had agreed not to discuss specifics with the public. He said, however, that teachers are asking for a "substantial" raise.

A contract agreement approved by the board and EMEA last fall stipulates that involuntary transfers and teacher assignments and responsibilities will also be negotiated for the 1974-75 school year.

Howenstine said the meeting with board member Arlene Nidetz, assistant Supt. Donald Stettina and board attorney Fred Lilton was "quite congenial."

"We went through our package explaining what's new and where the changes were," he said. "The board will review it and come back in three weeks with their proposal."

MRS. NIDETZ said the session "went just fine." "I have no hostility and I felt the meeting was congenial enough," she said. "I'm hoping negotiations will go better than last year."

The Dist. 63 board and the EMEA reached a settlement in the 1973-74 contract dispute last October, narrowly averting a teachers' strike. A major stumbling block in the 13-month dispute was the board's refusal to negotiate non-salary items, including class size and grievance procedures. The board later agreed to include some non-salary items in future negotiations.

In the aftermath of the contract dispute, the Dist. 63 board issued letters of warning to teacher union officials for committing acts "of unprofessional conduct and breaching teacher contracts." Charges filed against the teachers included organizing an illegal withholding of services in the form of a sick-in on Oct. 25.

LAST MONTH, an EMEA officer filed suit against the board in federal court. He contends the board violated his civil rights by placing a letter of warning in his personnel file for allegedly threatening two custodians during the contract dispute. The case is pending.

The EMEA also plans to file suit against the board for actions taken against teachers last fall, including a board policy prohibiting teachers from wearing buttons referring to negotiations during class hours.

The next bargaining session is scheduled for April 3.

Schools have no formal staff cutback plans

The Dist. 63 School Board has made no formal plans for staff reduction for the 1974-75 year, according to board member Arlene Nidetz.

Mrs. Nidetz and the administration officials met last Thursday with representatives of the Dist. 63 teachers' union to discuss possible staff reductions. She said the board "hasn't met to consider" teacher cutbacks, and that "there are no decisions made yet along these lines."

Ken Howenstine, vice-president of the East Maine Education Assn., said the "big hang-up is the board's contention that they have no plan for reducing staff."

"If they plan to have one teacher for 25 students, then if a school loses 25 kids there's a possibility of reduction of one position," he said.

"They say they have no plans but if there's suddenly fewer teachers, people are going to be up in arms again. People are going to think they were sold down the river," he said.

MRS. NIDETZ said the board "definitely knows that enrollment will drop. What the exact projection is for next year, we haven't seen."

A teacher cutback depends on "so many factors," Mrs. Nidetz said, including "where the decline occurs and by how many."

"It's all tied into the budget and the money available," she said.

The EMEA asked for the meeting to submit their proposals for staffing for the 1974-75 school year. The EMEA plan calls for additional special services teachers at the two junior high schools, including two resource teachers and a physical education teacher.

The teachers' association also suggested adding seven art teachers at the elementary school level so each school would have a full time art instructor.

The EMEA proposal asks that teacher cutbacks at the elementary school level be limited to 8.5 positions.

THE 1950s SERVED as inspiration for Maine West upcoming production of "Guys and Dolls." A former teacher, George Blanas, designer of costumes for the fashion designer, Blanas heads the art department.

Can a doll be a moll...?

How do you turn a 17-year-old high school girl into a sly, sexy moll?

That's one of the challenges faced by Maine West teacher George Blanas, who has designed costumes for school musicals the past 12 years.

A former fashion designer, Blanas earned a degree in fashion design at the University of Illinois. He privately created costumes, formal gowns and wedding dresses before entering the armed forces. He has been with the Maine Township high schools for 16 years and has spent the past few years creating costumes for school productions ranging from "The King And I" and "Kiss Me Kate" to "Mame" and "Guys and Dolls."

Costumes can be the ingredient needed to turn a self-conscious, awkward student into a self-assured actor, Blanas said.

"Costumes help put the actors into the mood of the musical — kids this age like to think they're sophisticated and worldly but they're not," he said.

A "BLARING RED dress" or a skirt with a side slit is often all that's necessary to help a wholesome high school girl get the feel of a chorus girl, according to Blanas.

"A lot of the kids think they're sexy until they get up there, then all of a sudden they're all hands and feet," he said. "The right kind of costume can get them into the part."

Blanas said he has had some complaints about costumes being "too sexy or suggestive."

"We try to keep in mind that we are teachers and we're handling kids," he said. "Sometimes we have to modify a

Police probing series of forgeries, bad checks

by JOHN MAES

Police and postal authorities are investigating a series of apparently related forgery and bad check schemes at banks in Des Plaines and Arlington Heights over the last few months.

No arrests have been made in connection with the incidents, but police are trying to develop leads that may help bring about the capture of some suspects.

Des Plaines Police Det. Herb Volberding was unable to cite a specific dollar amount taken in the frauds, but said it was probably several thousand dollars.

There was some speculation that the suspects are working together in a satellite or spinoff organization of a check-passing ring active in the area during 1972 and 1973.

THE RING BILKED area banks and businesses out of thousands of dollars by passing bad checks. Key figures of the old ring are serving prison sentences now and one, Willie Engram of Chicago, is facing a grand jury indictment charging him with mail theft and forgery.

But lower-level members may have started their own group of bogus check artists using the methods of the old organization, police said.

Police believe the group is responsible for at least six fraudulent transactions victimizing account holders at the Des Plaines Bank, 1223 Oakton St., and one at the First National Bank of Des Plaines, 733 Lee St.

ANOTHER TWO apparently related incidents, involving at least $2,000 at the Tollway Arlington Bank in Arlington Heights last January and earlier this month, are also under investigation.

According to police accounts, the frauds are pulled off by ring members entering the banks and forging signatures and account numbers on deposit and withdrawal slips. The swindle includes making a split deposit, pretending to put some of the money in the account and receiving $100 or more cash in return.

Police said the investigation is centering around reported mail thefts at office buildings in Des Plaines and Park Ridge where most of the victims work.

THE RING MEMBERS have apparently been obtaining bills, checks, and other documents by stealing them from mail sacks at the office plazas. Checks, handwriting samples and account numbers are obtained this way and the swindlers go to the bank where the victim holds his account to transact the fraud.

The victim finds out a few weeks later that his bills never reached their destinations and that someone else has drawn on his bank account.

Police have been stymied in getting descriptions of suspects, however, because most of the swindles have occurred at drive-up windows of the banks.

House fire causes $11,500 damage

Fire caused $11,500 damage to the home of a Des Plaines resident Friday night, according to fire department reports.

Firemen battled the blaze for more than three hours at the home of Harold Looney, 684 Oakton St. There were no reported injuries and a cause of the blaze had not been determined Sunday.

According to reports, the flames broke out in the basement of the five-room house while Looney and some of his family members were in a garage working on an automobile. No one was in the house at the time of the blaze.

The fire was detected by a passing motorist who stopped and honked his horn to alert Looney, who notified the fire department.

Firemen said extensive damage was caused by fire and smoke to the basement and first floor areas.

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kusper said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kusper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kusper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Can a doll be a moll...?

Costume designing requires a lot of research to catch the flavor of setting of a musical, according to Blanas.

"FOR 'GUYS AND DOLLS,' we decided to costume for the 1950s. We've been looking through Life magazines and fashion books of the period," he said. "We read the script, take each character and analyze it."

Blanas said one of the most difficult costumes he ever made was a goddess costume for "Flower Drum Song."

"It was a very elaborate costume and headpiece — I made it myself to get the right effect," he said. "It was to be used in a dream sequence and I wanted to get that effect."

Because high school budgets are limited, Blanas said he must design colorful but low cost costumes.

"I try to create costume changes by accessorizing — you can change the whole effect of a costume by just adding capes or bows," he said. "We put together costumes not from a seamstress' standpoint but from the audience viewpoint."

$475,207 budget for township decided March 26

Elk Grove Township residents' last chance to suggest changes or additions to the proposed $475,207 budget is March 26 during the 8 p.m. public budget hearing preceding adoption of the budget.

Township officials have approved the preliminary budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year, an 8 per cent increase over last year's budget of $439,000.

The budget is on public display at the township offices at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Biggest budget fund jump is in the committee on youth appropriation. In contrast to last year's budgeted $22,000 figure, the auditors earmarked $58,220 for the committee on youth fund.

Youth committee director Paul Paprocki will receive a 26 per cent pay raise from $9,500 to $12,000 a year. A further provision in the budget allows for another 10 per cent increase after six months which would put his salary at $13,200 yearly.

During the preliminary budget meeting Supervisor Richard Hall said the director's salary was being substantially raised to bring it up to par with other youth directors.

THE TOWNSHIP has earmarked an almost 100 per cent increase in funding to the Elk Grove — Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center. However these funds will be taken from the township's federal revenue sharing allocation. The auditors budgeted $83,000 total to the center in contrast to last year's $45,000.

The town fund budget estimate went up from last year's $185,000 to a proposed $237,348 total. This fund lists expenses for officials salaries, additional personnel, employees and officials hospitalization and life insurance fees, and all township office expenses.

The budget for the general assistance fund is set at $79,400 and the Road and Bridge Fund at $176,000, both the same as last year.

Township officials expect to receive about $300,000 in federal revenue sharing money during the next fiscal year.

In addition to the $85,000 appropriated for the mental health center they have earmarked $10,000 for public safety; $70,000 for environmental protection for sewer and flood control; and $8,000 for recreation.

OTHER FEDERAL revenue-sharing expenses budgeted for are a $21,687 allocation to the Clearbrook Center, $1,178 to the Crossroads Clinic, and $5,000 for administrative costs.

Social services for the aged and poor are part of the federal revenue sharing fund budget with $15,000 set aside for printing and distribution of a senior citizens newsletter, $20,000 for a bus and $30,000 allocated for a day care center.

Other expenses budgeted for out of federal revenue sharing funds are $13,000 for transportation, $6,000 for office equipment and $15,000 for building and grounds.

Program benefits firemen, doctors and nurses

Paramedics learn in emergency room

by JERRY THOMAS

Tommie's eyes opened saucer wide as he peeked out from beneath his tear wet chubby fingers. "Are you a real fireman?" he asked the blue-clad man who was tending his wound.

Elk Grove fireman Jim Kemp grinned and assured 4-year-old Tommie, a patient at Alexian Brothers Medical Center emergency room, he was "really a fireman."

"But, where's the fire?" was Tommie's next question.

Kemp explained to Tommie and his mother that his presence in the Alexian Brothers emergency room was a learning experience for him and other men in the department who man the mobile intensive care ambulances operated by the Elk Grove Village Fire Department.

TOMMIE DIDN'T quite understand but he held on to Kemp's hand tightly, while the nurse cleaned the cut on his head. "Firemen don't cry and I'm not going to either," said Tommie with bravado.

Patricia Borowy, R. N., education coordinator of ambulatory services who is responsible for orienting the paramedic program at Alexian, said the fireman's presence in the emergency room isn't usually commented on by youngsters.

"Tommie reacted well to fireman Kemp. He was so thrilled to be with him, he barely noticed the doctor stitching his wound," she said.

Kemp, a paramedic, and Harvey Speiden, an emergency medical technician, were winding up a day's work in the emergency room. They and others like them are working with hospital personnel on a rotating basis to improve and refresh their emergency and mobile intensive care skills.

MISS BOROWY said the training program was first designed to develop skills, such as starting intravenous treatment, taking vital signs, wound and splint dressing and other emergency treatment.

"We knew we would learn about each others problems, but we found an extra benefit we hadn't counted on," said Miss Borowy.

Having the men in the emergency room has been almost like having a student. Seeing their enthusiasm and curiosity has made our work more stimulating and interesting," she added.

Working together, firemen, doctors and nurses are learning a lot about each other.

Speiden said "we had the training to handle house emergencies before but being here in the emergency room now gives us an insight into what happens to that patient we used to drop at the door."

MISS BOROWY said the hospital proposed the program so paramedics and EMTs can continue to learn and get comfortable with their skills and the hospital personnel.

Eventually the hospital will be a satellite of the mobile intensive care station at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights. Under the program doctors at Northwest give instructions to the Elk Grove Village paramedic teams on a two-way radio but patients are taken to the closest hospital.

Paramedic care started in Elk Grove last year.

Village officials recently signed an agreement with Alexian Brothers authorizing firemen to work with the hospital personnel but are also still continuing the program with Northwest Community.

A Herald editorial

Write-in hopeful Holmes could spark local Dems

The Herald endorses write-in candidate William W. Holmes Jr. for election Tuesday as Democratic Committeeman in Schaumburg Township.

We have chosen Holmes because we believe he best represents a hope the local Democratic organization will become vital year round and ready at election time to get maximum votes for the party's candidates.

Holmes, 42, has lived in Hoffman Estates for 14 years during which time he has been a precinct captain for 13 years and president of the Regular Democratic Organization for three years. He has paid his dues to the local organization in terms of service and should be able to draw support from its ranks.

He also has been widely active in athletic and church programs in the community, a resource on which he should be able to capitalize in attracting Democrats to the organization who have not before been inclined to join.

Holmes plans to maintain his membership to properly prepare for elections. He also plans a periodic newsletter, office hours and expects to have precinct captains readily available to help the community make the most of the rights they have coming from the government.

Holmes became a write-in candidate after he was thrown off the ballot on a legal technicality stating he had too many valid signatures on his nominating petitions. But, The Herald does not view this incident as an indication it would interfere with his ability to do the job.

We encourage Democrats in Schaumburg Township to take the time and have election judges explain the proper way to place a write-in vote, the write in the name William W. Holmes Jr. for Democratic Committeeman.

Police probing series of forgeries, bad checks

by JOHN MAES

Police and postal authorities are investigating a series of apparently related forgery and bad check schemes at banks in Des Plaines and Arlington Heights over the last few months.

No arrests have been made in connection with the incidents, but police are trying to develop leads that may help bring about the capture of some suspects.

Des Plaines Police Det. Herb Volberding was unable to cite a specific dollar amount taken in the frauds, but said it was probably several thousand dollars.

There was some speculation that the suspects are working together in a satellite or spinoff organization of a check-passing ring active in the area during 1972 and 1973.

THE RING BILKED area banks and businesses out of thousands of dollars by passing bad checks. Key figures of the old ring are serving prison sentences now and one, Willie Engram of Chicago, is facing a grand jury indictment charging him with mail theft and forgery.

But lower-level members may have started their own group of bogus check artists using the methods of the old organization, police said.

Police believe the group is responsible for at least six fraudulent transactions victimizing account holders at the Des Plaines Bank, 1223 Oakton St., and one at the First National Bank of Des Plaines, 733 Lee St.

ANOTHER TWO apparently related incidents, involving at least $2,000 at the Tollway Arlington Bank in Arlington Heights last January and earlier this month, are also under investigation.

According to police accounts, the frauds are pulled off by ring members entering the banks and forging signatures and account numbers on deposit

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kusper said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kusper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kusper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Man, 18, charged with exposure

James Butler, 18, of 124 Fairmont St., Hoffman Estates, was arrested for public indecency. Elk Grove Village police made the arrest Friday.

Butler, released on bond, must appear in Elk Grove Village court April 24 to answer the charge.

Police arrested the man on an anonymous tip. Butler, according to police is implicated in several exposure incidents involving school girls. He was identified by several victims after his arrest.

Police probing bad check, forgery series

and withdrawal slips. The swindle includes making a split deposit, pretending to put some of the money in the account and receiving $100 or more cash in return.

Police said the investigation is centering around reported mail thefts at office buildings in Des Plaines and Park Ridge where most of the victims work.

THE RING MEMBERS have apparently been obtaining bills, checks, and other documents by stealing them from mail sacks at the office plazas. Checks, handwriting samples and account numbers are obtained this way and the swindlers go to the bank where the victim holds his account to transact the fraud.

The victim finds out a few weeks later that his bills never reached their destinations and that someone else has drawn on his bank account.

Police have been stymied in getting descriptions of suspects, however, because most of the swindles have occurred at drive-up windows of the banks.

Dist. 211 wrapup

Student discipline policy review set

Revisions in the student discipline policy for High School Dist. 211 will be discussed in open meetings of the board of education in the next few months.

Board members agreed to the discussions during their meeting Thursday night and member Robert Seger suggested that the board meet in special sessions as a committee-of-the-whole to discuss the policy. Board Pres. Robert Creek said the board will probably seek the views of parents, students and school personnel as it reviews student discipline practices.

The discipline policy has been criticized by some students, parents and board members in recent months because it allows for the expulsion of students for poor school attendance. One board member, Jean Fidler, has said she is opposed to the policy and has repeatedly abstained from voting to expel students for absenteeism.

The board voted Thursday to divide the policy into two parts, one on administrative details such as student registration and the other on student discipline and attendance rules. Creek said the section on administration should be taken care of quickly but the board will probably need "three or four rounds" of meetings to iron out revisions of the discipline policy.

Creek then asked the board to reaffirm its present policy while it considers changes "in order to provide some continuity in the school system." Mrs. Fidler objected. "I don't see any reason for a motion to reaffirm anything," she said. "It would be similar to voting on the policies that are going to be up for discussion. If we reaffirm the present policy that is like saying we're in favor of it."

Creek said a split vote on expulsion cases is disheartening to the school's discipline officers who "have to deal with this day to day." He said the board should show its support of the administration by saying to them "until we change it you keep doing what you've been doing."

Board member Edward Perry said he is not upset by a split vote on an expulsion. "Nothing is black and white, it's all shades of gray. I have been disturbed by some unanimous votes," he said.

Some board members said that the board's motion should not be worded "reaffirm" but should say that the present policy will prevail while it is being revised. Creek changed the wording and six board members voted in favor of the motion. Mrs. Fidler abstained.

Conant High expanding

Construction on a $200,000 addition to Conant High School for special education facilities is scheduled to begin in June after students have been dismissed for summer vacation.

The board approved a contract with Perkins and Will Architects, who will oversee construction and make improvements on the rest of the Conant building in accordance with the state life safety code.

The addition will add about 4,000 square feet to the building and will contain three special education classrooms and offices for the school psychologist, social worker, speech therapist and learning disabilities teacher. The addition will be about twice the size of a similar addition built on Fremd High School a few years ago.

Three new jobs created

Three new administrative jobs have been created by the board for next year.

One assistant principal will be added to the district staff. Four of the Dist. 211 schools each have two assistants to the principals. The district's newest school, Hoffman Estates High School, which opened in September has only one assistant principal, but a second will be added next year. An assistant principal's salary ranges from $16,200 to $21,100.

The board also provided for a full-time administrative assistant to the superintendent. This year the administrative assistant has been a part-time position staffed by an intern studying for his doctoral degree. The salary range for the new job will be $16,200 to $21,100.

The board also approved the position of assistant business manager. The salary for that job ranges from $14,400 to $21,100.

Business Mgr. James Slater has also been granted a sabbatical leave beginning in September. Slater will work part-time for the district for a year while he works toward a doctoral degree in school business management.

Park board wrapup

No official stand taken on RTA

With the vote on the Regional Transportation Authority scheduled at the polls tomorrow, the Elk Grove Park Board failed to take a stand on the controversial issue at its meeting last week.

Some park board members expressed concern that the bill gives the RTA board the power to condemn park land, but when RTA came up on the board's agenda, a recommendation died for lack of a motion.

Tennis court fences

The board approved a bid to provide fencing for the 13 new tennis courts scheduled for construction this summer in various Elk Grove parks.

Low bidder for the project was Guard Fencing Co. of Schaumburg with a bid of $22,146.

Money for the project will come from a $310,000 referendum for park improvement, which was passed by village voters a year ago.

Arbor day date set

The board has set April 29 for its annual recognition of Arbor Day.

On that day, the park district plants trees in village parks. Donations for trees are solicited from village organizations with the park district matching the contributions dollar for dollar.

Not until late summer or fall

Hicks Road widening delay of several months expected

Several months' delay is expected before state construction will begin to widen Hicks Road from Baldwin Road to Rand Road.

Illinois Highway Department spokesman Les Swieca said Friday that he was uncertain what was delaying the federal go-ahead for the project, but construction would probably not start until late summer or fall.

Possible problems with the project are federal requirements for noise level tests, and some confusion about public land along the right-of-way, according to Palatine Acting Village Mgr. James Bennett.

PLANS TO WIDEN that section of Hicks Road from two to four lanes have been in the works for several years. This year, state officials had planned to get bids on the construction project by June or July, but the delays will stall the project for most of the summer.

"If we hadn't been involved with any park district lands, we probably could have gotten it through a lot sooner," Swieca said.

The Palatine Trail bicycle and hiking path was constructed last year on land leased by the park district from Commonwealth Edison. The trail crosses Hicks Road at the northern edge of the Old Madrid apartment property, and an underpass under the highway is planned for the trail.

According to Swieca, federal requirements for noise levels and other conditions are much more stringent when public land is involved. Some road projects which had a design submitted prior to a certain date could waive the federal noise requirements, but Swieca said the Hicks Road widening may have been submitted too recently to avoid the testing.

THE CURRENT delay involves only a part of the total widening project, which takes in approximately 5½ miles of Hicks Road from Euclid Avenue to Rand Road. The total project is expected to take more than five years to complete.

Future plans call for widening Hicks Road from two to four lanes from Euclid Avenue to the Chicago and Northwestern Ry. tracks, construction of an underpass at the tracks, widening of the Northwest Highway-Hicks Road combined section through Palatine from four to six lanes.

The first section set for widening — from Baldwin to Rand — is expected to cost $1.9 million, with 70 per cent paid by the federal government and the remainder by the state. The road will have a 16-foot median dividing the four lanes, with curbs, left-turn lanes and a closed drainage system.

Keep history, uniqueness, Jones implores planners

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell Jones asked planners for the downtown redevelopment project to "retain the history and uniqueness of our downtown as you think of redevelopment."

The New Palatine Committee, a coalition of 11 downtown businessmen and bankers, and village trustee James Shaw, are working on a major redevelopment of the central business district and surrounding area.

Early plans call for high-rise apartments in one section, restaurant and entertainment facilities north of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks, a pedestrian mall with specialty shops in the central area, and multi-story parking garages and auto-oriented businesses (grocery store, train station) on the perimeter of the shopping area.

Village officials may construct three public parking garages by selling revenue bonds and retiring them with parking fees received from drivers using the garage.

WHILE THE redevelopment is still in the early planning stages, Jones wrote the committee, saying that "Perhaps more than any of our Northwest suburban communities Palatine has a unique history . . . I urge the committee and the planners to retain as much of this character as possible."

First demolition for the redevelopment began earlier this month when the Left Bank building and the debris from the burned-out Ben Franklin store in downtown Palatine were torn down.

The total redevelopment is estimated to cost between $50 million and $75 million.

Public meetings to inspect the plans are set for April 6 at village hall and at a village board meeting to be set sometime in the next month. Presentations are also planned for the Downtown Merchants' group, Palatine Rotary and Palatine Chamber of Commerce.

Stalled C&NW train ties up local traffic

A Chicago and North Western Ry. freight train stalled with a broken air hose Friday morning and caused a major traffic tie-up in downtown Palatine.

Palatine police said the train was stopped for 15 minutes until repairs brought a replacement hose.

Auto traffic along Palatine, Brockway and Plum Grove roads and other major crossings was halted during the breakdown.

Taxpayers can check assessments soon

Final Palatine Township assessment books will be open for inspection at the Cook County assessor's office in the County Building March 20-22.

Township residents may check the books for accuracy of assessment, and possible changes from appeal to the assessor.

Totals in the assessment books can be appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals, a spokesman for Assessor P. J. Cullerton said. The tax appeals board will receive the assessment books after March 22.

Hoffman Estates man hurt in auto accident

An early morning one-car accident in Inverness yesterday resulted in minor injuries for a 19-year-old Hoffman Estates man.

Eric H. Johnson Jr., of 265 Lakeview Ln., Hoffman Estates, reportedly lost control of his car and ran off the road as he was passing another auto on northbound Roselle Road, north of Palatine Road.

No tickets were issued in the accident. Johnson was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, with injuries to his left arm and face. The accident occurred at 2:03 a.m. yesterday.

Village will repave less this year

Repaving is scheduled for 35 sections of Palatine streets this summer. Cost of the asphalt is budgeted at $160,000, the same amount spent last year, but higher costs will mean that less total distance will be resurfaced this year than last.

According to Acting Village Mgr. James Bennett, asphalt prices have gone up $4 per ton in the past year. Roads scheduled for the resurfacing are:

Meals on Wheels starts today

Meals on Wheels, a program to deliver lunch and dinner to elderly invalids in Palatine Township, starts today.

Joyce Lennox, coordinator for the Palatine Township Council on the Aged, is organizing the program. A hot lunch and sack dinner will be delivered each day by volunteers to elderly senior citizens who request the meals. Food will be prepared by dietitians at St. Joseph's Home for the Elderly in Palatine.

Applicants for the program must have a doctor's signature and recommended diet to participate. Assistance in obtaining and in completing the application is available by calling Mrs. Lennox at 991-1112. Volunteers to deliver the meals are also being asked to call that number.

Meals will cost a total of $2 per day, and include a main dish, starch, salad and dessert for lunch, and a sandwich, fruit and dessert for the evening meal.

Senior citizens who have recently been released from a hospital, are homebound or unable to prepare their own meals may sign up for the program for not less than one week. Meals will be delivered between 12 and 1 p.m., Mrs. Lennox said.

SPECIAL REFERENDUM ELECTION, MARCH 19, 1974

PROPOSED REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

	NO

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kuser said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

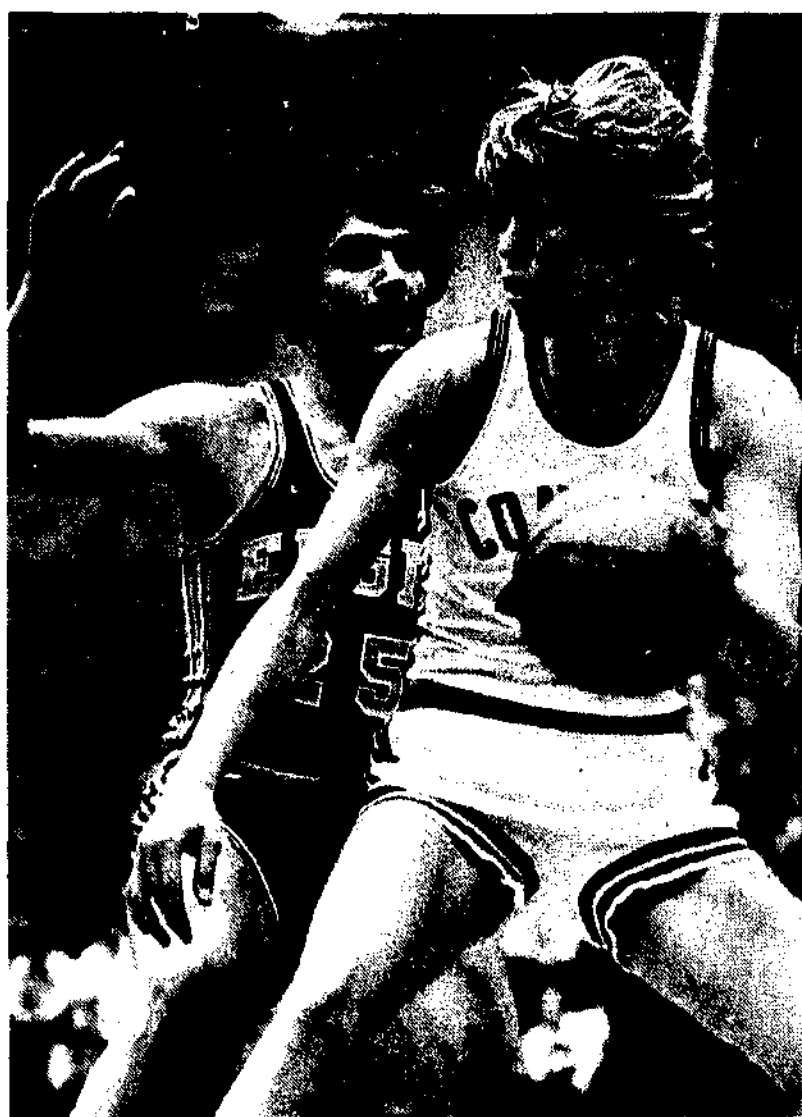

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kuser predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kuser said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Salt Creek parks offer baton, Bulls

Several special events are being planned by the Salt Creek Park District beginning this week.

Free mini-tennis lessons will be offered to residents throughout this week, baton classes will begin next week and an outing to a Chicago Bulls basketball game is planned.

The mini-tennis lessons will be given today from 11 a.m. to noon and from 10 to 11 p.m., on Wednesday from 10 to 11 p.m. and on Friday from noon to 1 p.m.

The free one-hour lessons will be offered at the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, 545 S. Consumer St., Palatine. Basic strokes and beginning skills will be taught.

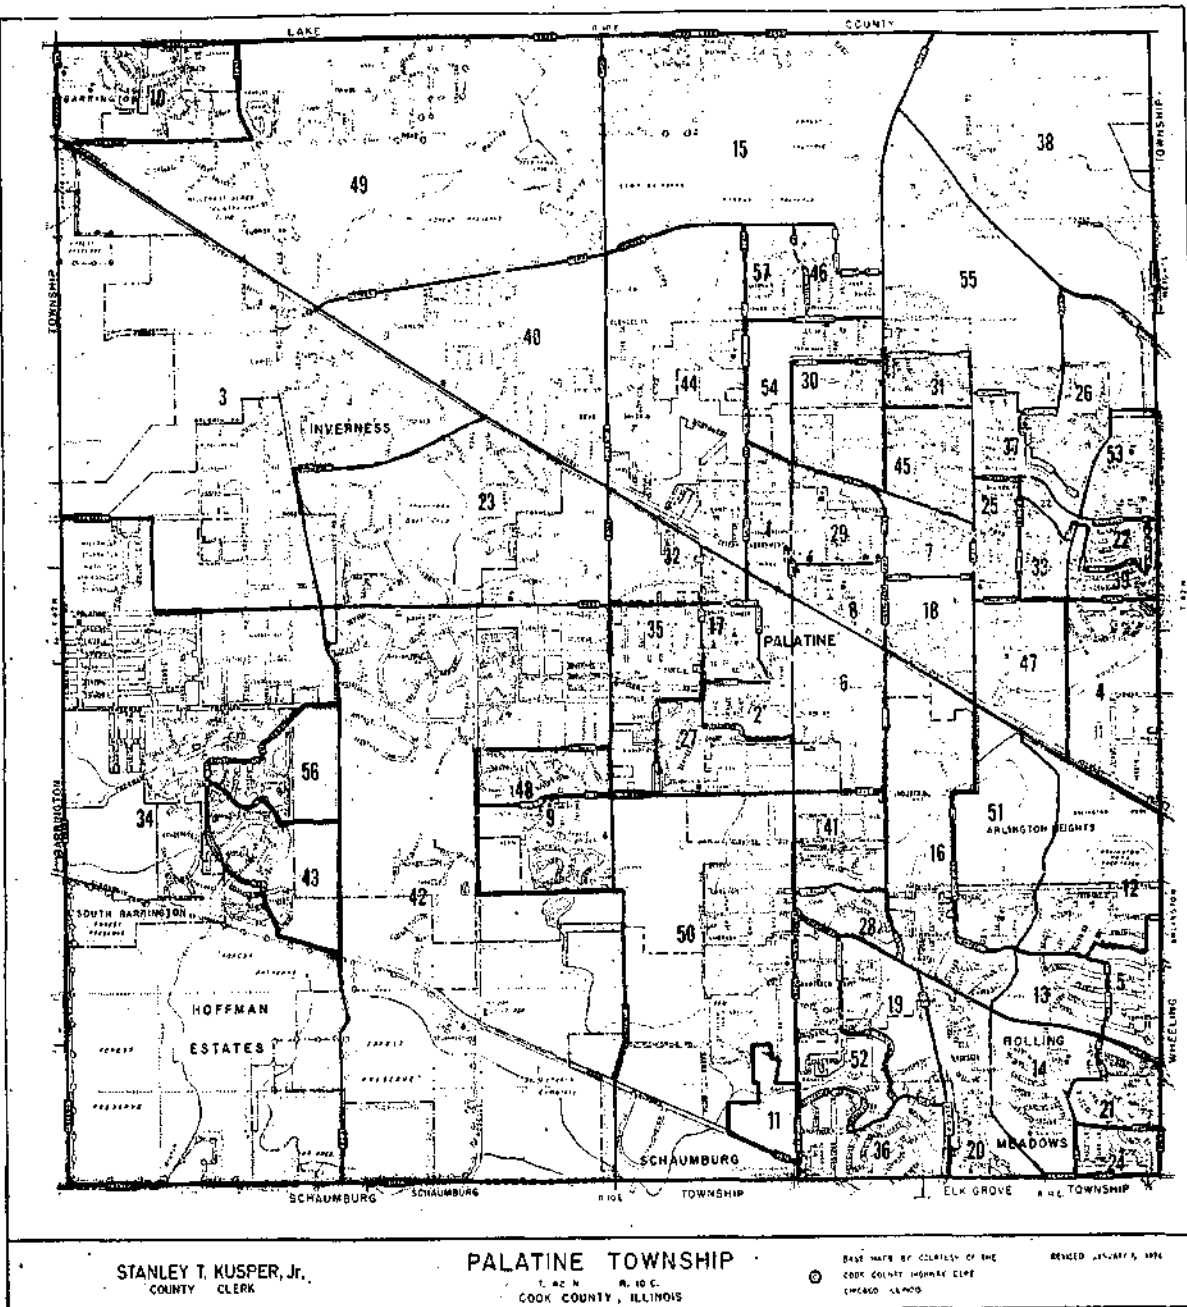

Persons in the same age group are also being sought by the district to start a regular class at the club. Eight-week lessons are available Monday through Thursday at 3 p.m. and Fridays at 3, 4 and 5 p.m. Six-week lessons are available Monday through Friday at 9 a.m. and on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays at 2 p.m.

Six-week lessons in beginning and advanced baton will begin March 30.

A SPECIAL outing will take 15 persons to the Chicago Stadium March 26 to see the Bulls play the Cleveland Cavaliers. The trip will cost $4.25, covering the cost of admission and transportation.

The district is also making available to groups and organizations rental of the Arlington Park Towers swimming pool. Rental fees are $15 for four hours and $5 for each additional hour. The cost covers up to 15 persons, with a 50-cent charge for each additional person up to 30.

For information on registration on any or all of the programs, contact the district by calling 259-6890 or by appearing at the district office, 530 S. Williams Dr., Palatine.

Plans outlined for 480-unit project

A Chicago developer brought plans before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Friday to build 480 apartment and townhouse units on 43 acres near Schoenbeck and Palatine roads in unincorporated Wheeling Township near the village of Wheeling.

Comsite Properties, Inc., requested a zoning change to enable the construction of the units to be sold as condominiums on a parcel north of Palatine Road and east of Schoenbeck Road, across the street from the proposed Harper College site.

Also included in the plans are commercial units for stores and businesses. A representative of the firm told board members that the apartment units will be one-story townhouses and four-story structures consisting of 48 units in each building.

Plans for the development include

McDonald Creek. "We'll have McDonald Creek run through the property," said the Comsite representative, "and create large areas of retention."

HE ALSO ADDED that the residential area will be located on the eastern portion of the property and the commercial area on the western portion. The major access to the complex will be Schoenbeck Road.

The firm maintained that the development will generate 121 elementary school age children and 32 high school age children in its report. Members of the zoning board asked how many children there would be if the parcel consisted of single-family housing.

The developers said that 60 houses could be built on the 42 acres and that possibly as much as 150 children of both elementary and high school age could be living there.

STRENGTH IN LOCAL POLITICS? WHO CARES?

Bernie Pedersen does. As committeeman, he's made Palatine Township's G.O.P. a winning team. A job that doesn't have pay OR LIMIT TO THE HOURS.

His record: Palatine Township has carried all national, state and local G.O.P. election bids. Township-wide participation in Republican organization is now a reality.

Bernie brings experience, dedication and a proven willingness to devote the time to the job.

Bernie's leadership hasn't gone unnoticed. Nearly all locally elected Republicans endorse his candidacy. He'd like your support, too.

Dist. 211 wrapup

Student discipline policy review set

Revisions in the student discipline policy for High School Dist. 211 will be discussed in open meetings of the board of education in the next few months.

Board members agreed to the discussions during their meeting Thursday night and member Robert Seger suggested that the board meet in special sessions as a committee-of-the-whole to discuss the policy. Board Pres. Robert Creek said the board will probably seek the views of parents, students and school personnel as it reviews student discipline practices.

The discipline policy has been criticized by some students, parents and board members in recent months because it allows for the expulsion of students for poor school attendance. One board member, Jean Fiesler, has said she is opposed to the policy and has repeatedly abstained from voting to expel students for absenteeism.

The board voted Thursday to divide the policy into two parts, one on administrative details such as student registration and the other on student discipline and attendance rules. Creek said the section on administration should be taken care of quickly but the board will probably need "three or four rounds" of meetings to iron out revisions of the discipline policy.

Creek then asked the board to reaffirm its present policy while it considers changes "in order to provide some continuity in the school system." Mrs. Fiesler objected. "I don't see any reason for a motion to reaffirm anything," she said. "It would be similar to voting on the policies that are going to be up for discussion. If we reaffirm the present policy that is like saying we're in favor of it."

Creek said a split vote on expulsion cases is disheartening to the school's discipline officers who "have to deal with this day to day." He said the board should show its support of the administration by saying to them "until we change it you keep doing what you've been doing."

Board member Edward Perry said he is not upset by a split vote on an expulsion. "Nothing is black and white, it's all shades of gray. I have been disturbed by some unanimous votes," he said.

Some board members said that the board's motion should not be worded "reaffirm" but should say that the present policy will prevail while it is being revised. Creek changed the wording and six board members voted in favor of the motion. Mrs. Fiesler abstained.

Conant High expanding

Construction on a $200,000 addition to Conant High School for special education facilities is scheduled to begin in June after students have been dismissed for summer vacation.

The board approved a contract with Perkins and Will Architects, who will oversee construction and make improvements on the rest of the Conant building in accordance with the state life safety code.

The addition will add about 4,000 square feet to the building and will contain three special education classrooms and offices for the school psychologist, social worker, speech therapist and learning disabilities teacher. The addition will be about twice the size of a similar addition built on Fremd High School a few years ago.

Second to resign in four months

Struggles quits park board; cites 'lack of free time'

Robert Struggles, a Rolling Meadows Park Board commissioner since 1971, resigned last week, saying he no longer had enough free time to donate to the board.

The former park board vice president said Friday that because of increased responsibilities at a new job he accepted eight months ago, he is having difficulty keeping up with his park district duties.

"I hate to let the people down that supported me (in the 1971 elections)," Struggles said of his resignation. He added that he would be letting the people down just as badly if he didn't have the time to devote to the park district.

STRUGGLES IS THE second park board commissioner to resign with in the last four months. Comr. William Billings resigned last December when he and his family were moving to Barrington.

"It's something I very much hated to do," Struggles said. "There's so many things I'd like to see done."

Struggles ran for the park board in 1971, saying that he "didn't care" for a lot of things being done in the park district and "would like to do something about them."

Specifically he mentioned better use of existing park facilities.

"I think there have been some changes in the right direction," Struggles said Friday. "But there's still room for improvement and I think it will come in time."

STRUGGLES SAID he thought the park facilities were used more now than in the past, primarily because facilities such as the sports complex, are open for longer hours.

He added that to improve the use of facilities, the park district needed the support of the people, which "I don't think we've had in the past." By support, he said he meant additional numbers of people signing up for programs and making suggestions for new programs that would interest them.

Another point Struggles made in 1971 was that the park district should gain additional land in the north side of the district. "We're starting to," he said Friday. "But there's not that much park land available." Struggles said there were no wide open spaces where the park district could obtain enough land to put in things like a baseball diamond and perhaps a park district building.

STRUGGLES' RESIGNATION makes board president Ray Nauckranz the senior member of the board. Both Nauckranz and Struggles were elected in 1971.

Anyone interested in applying for the now vacant position is asked to send a resume to Nauckranz, care of the park district office, 1 Park Meadows Pl., Rolling Meadows, 60008.

The position comes up for election in April of 1974. Two other board seats will also be up for election at that time.

Hoffman Estates man hurt in auto accident

An early morning one-car accident in Inverness yesterday resulted in minor injuries for a 19-year-old Hoffman Estates man.

Eric H. Johnson Jr., of 285 Lakeview Ln., Hoffman Estates, reportedly lost control of his car and ran off the road as he was passing another auto on northbound Roselle Road, north of Palatine Road.

$475,207 Elk Grove Township budget vote March 26

Elk Grove Township residents' last chance to suggest changes or additions to the proposed $475,207 budget is March 26 during the 8 p.m. public budget hearing preceding adoption of the budget.

Township officials have approved the preliminary budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year, an 8 per cent increase over last year's budget of $439,000.

The budget is on public display at the township offices at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Biggest budget fund jump is in the committee on youth appropriation. In contrast to last year's budgeted $22,000 figure, the auditors earmarked $58,220 for the committee on youth fund.

Youth committee director Paul Paprocki will receive a 26 per cent pay raise from $9,500 to $12,000 a year. A further provision in the budget allows for another 10 per cent increase after six months which would put his salary at $13,200 yearly.

During the preliminary budget meeting Supervisor Richard Hall said the director's salary was being substantially raised to bring it up to par with other youth directors.

THE TOWNSHIP has earmarked an almost 100 per cent increase in funding to the Elk Grove—Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center. However these funds will be taken from the township's federal revenue sharing allocation.

The auditors budgeted $83,000 total to the center in contrast to last year's $45,000.

SIXTH GRADERS aren't too old to play with blocks, particularly when they teach a difficult mathematical idea. Dist. 15 student Carol Nelson learns to transpose a number into different counting systems.

City to have booth in Flower Show

A Rolling Meadows booth will be on display at the annual Chicago Flower and Garden Show, which opens Saturday for nine days at McCormick Place.

The booth, sponsored by the city Recycling, Ecology and Beautification Committee, is being set up through an $1,800 funding appropriation from the city council.

The city booth will be located in Horticultural Hall at the show. It will include exhibits designed by local school children and literature on recycling and ecology tips.

Admission to the show is $3 for adults, and $1.50 for children under 12. The show will be open weekdays from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Sunday, March 24 from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday March 31 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Persons carrying cameras to the show March 24, Camera Day, will be admitted at 8 a.m.

THE BOOTH HAS been designed by Diantha Greenwood, elementary arts supervisor in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15. Roland Stein, outdoor education coordinator for the district, has supervised construction of a model of the Gateway to Rolling Meadows park by students at Central Road School.

Students from Willow Bend School have made a model for the display of a wildlife preserve they would like between the school and Salt Creek Kimball Hill School students have prepared a storyboard for the display describing recycling programs. Rolling Meadows High School students in the horticultural class have prepared a park scene.

Students from Cardinal Drive and Salk school have also contributed to preparation of the booth.

Volunteers from the REB committee will man the booth during the nine-day show.

Youth hockey teams featured on television

Rolling Meadows ice hockey teams hit the big time—television—last week.

Film from games that gave the Rolling Meadows Squirt and PeeWee teams the state championships were shown between periods of the Chicago Blackhawks' game last Thursday.

The Squirt team, coached by Dick Sweeney, consists of 19 nine- and ten-year-olds. The PeeWees, coached by Tim Mueller, is composed of 17 11- and 12-year-olds.

Participating with the Squirt team are Bob Krautgsak, Chris Martin, Dan Meyers, Dan Harrington, Dan Perrillo, Bob Hendry, Bob Anderson and Al Ericson.

Others are Mike Sweeney, David Lotzer, Kevin Allison, Scott Eakins, John Pescek, Dino Guiren, Eric Ortinau, Greg Kowalewski and Jim Brunke.

Included in the Pee Wee team are Chase Maggio, Tony Pusateri, Tom Anderson, Jeff Myers, Glen Picard, John Woloshyn, Al Ericson and Ed Peszek.

Others are Ted Tuzkowski, Bill Ceas, Bob Scott, Pat Smith, Ray Mueller, Glen Fredrickson, John Zels, Dave Janney and Tom Rogers.

Two policemen finish driving course

Two Rolling Meadows policemen, Capt. Ralph Evans and Traffic Supervisor Andrew Herbert, have completed a course given by Des Plaines police qualifying them as defensive driving instructors.

The two will be instructors in a course soon to be started for city employees on defensive driving. Two more men in the department will later be trained as instructors for the 8-hour course.

The course will eventually be offered to city residents.

Youths charged with arson in Woodfield Theatre fires

Two area youths were charged Friday with arson and criminal damage to property in connection with recent explosions and fires at Woodfield Theatre.

William R. Childers, 17, 822 Houlton Ct., Schaumburg, and James Lewis, 18, 388 Hawthorne Ln., Hoffman Estates, were each released on $5,000 bond by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Jerome T. Burke, who ordered a psychiatric examination for Childers.

Both will appear at 1:30 p.m. March 20 in Schaumburg Branch of Cook County Court to answer charges.

Childers has admitted responsibility for setting a Feb. 27 fire in the men's room of the theater where paper towels were ignited after being lodged in the ceiling, according to Chief Martin J. Conroy. The youth had worked as an usher in the theater.

Conroy said the youth also admitted his role in a March 4 blaze at the theater where a lighted cigaret was left near a gas meter after meter caps had been loosened.

Chief Conroy praised Schaumburg Det. William Ostermann "who broke the case." Conroy said Ostermann headed an investigation where efforts concentrated on locating purchase records of two lighter fluid cans found at the fire scene.

Conroy said Childers was picked up "for an interview" Thursday night and "broke down after about seven minutes of questioning."

Childers testimony, Conroy said, implicated Lewis who was later picked up on a warrant authorized by Judge Burke early Friday.

However, he emphasized that the investigation has not linked either youth to suspected arson in a Balboa Court fire last week.

Policeman's suspension reversed

A Hoffman Estates police officer had a five-day suspension against him reversed Friday by the village police and fire commission.

David Burrows, a four-year veteran on the force, had appealed the suspension levied against him by Chief John O'Connell in February.

He was found not guilty of what he was charged with, Bill Catlin, police and fire commission chairman, said.

Catlin explained that O'Connell had charged Burrows with neglect of duty and that Village Atty. Ed Hofert advised the commission it was the wrong charge for the offense.

The punishment was levied after an incident where Burrows, driving a department squad car, began crossing Roselle Road from Arizona Boulevard and changed his mind because of oncoming south-bound traffic.

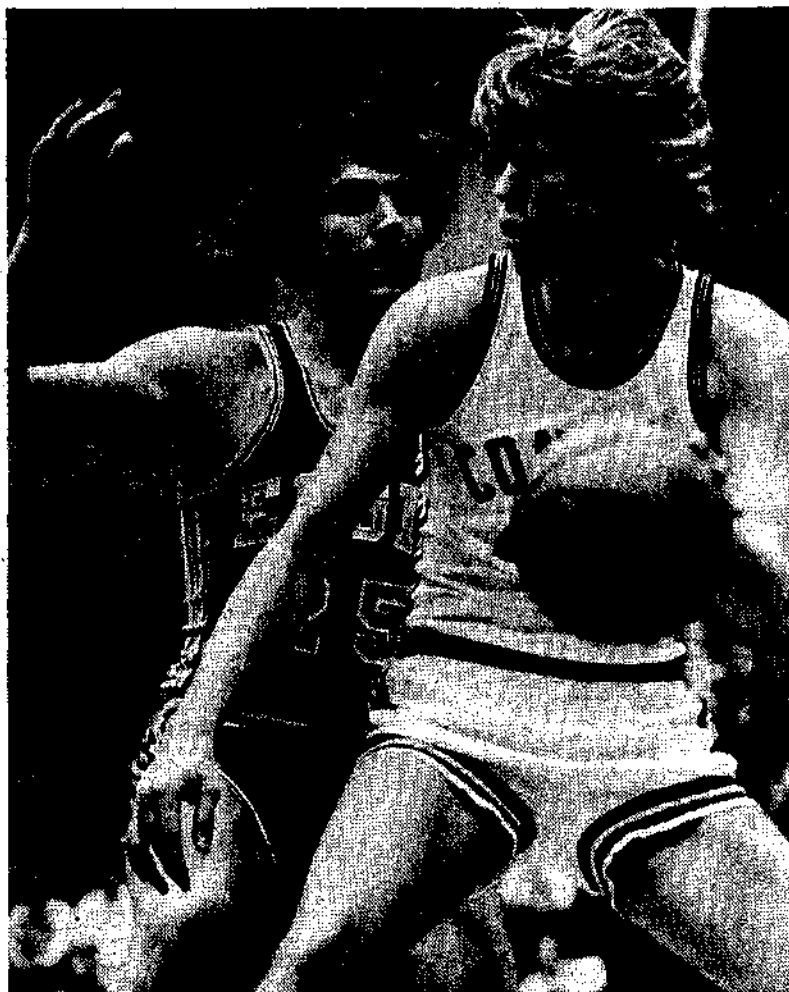

HE WAS ABOUT eight feet into the intersection and began backing up when he hit the car behind him, damaging its directional signal.

Burrows was absolutely guilty of two state offenses and he admitted it, Catlin said. Officer Raymond Cox, who handled the accident reported, said Burrows could have been ticketed for entering a roadway without it being clear of traffic and backing up without due regard.

But, police do not generally issue traffic citations to officers because disciplinary action is handled by the chief.

In Burrows' case, he would have lost approximately $250 pay with the suspension.

He more or less got off on a technicality, Catlin said, adding Burrows was not represented by council and Hofert bent over backwards to be fair.

"EVERYWHERE WE MOVED they were right there," Conant coach Dick Redlinger said, and the picture tells the story. The Cougars' Dave Sutherland is shadowed by Elgin's Tom Huggins during the Maroons' 52-42 win in the finals of the Elgin sectional tourney Friday. Sutherland shook free for 16 points, but Elgin's defense made the difference. Details in Sports.

Indictments for kickbacks expected

A Cook County Grand Jury is expected to return true bills today against two Schaumburg village employees and one park district worker in connection with alleged kickbacks from municipal chemical purchases.

Indictments of as many as 24 public officials in at least 10 communities are expected no later than Thursday, according to sources in Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey's office.

They will result from a four-month probe of elected and appointed suburban officials alleged to have accepted merchandise certificates, cash or U. S. Savings Bonds as a result of chemical supply orders.

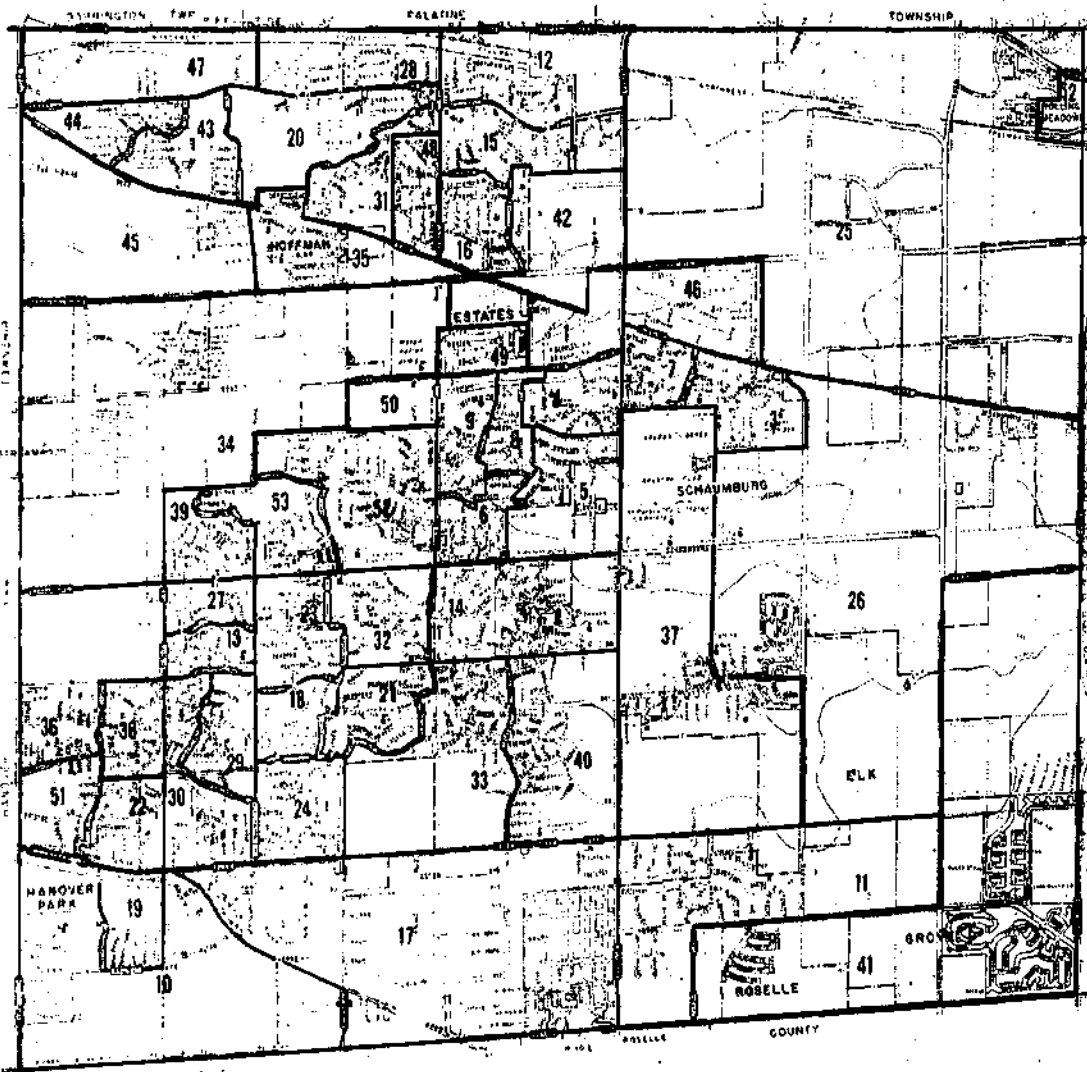

Village and park purchases from United Laboratories, Addison, Madison Chemicals, Franklin Park, and Precision Laboratories, Northbrook, have been confirmed by The Herald.

Records of these firms and a number of other chemical companies have been subpoenaed though neither the village nor park district has been directly contacted by the states attorney's office.

However, the village was asked several months ago to submit a list of vendors used over the past few years to Carey's office.

Both Mayor Robert O. Atcher and Paul Derda, director of parks and recreation, have refused to comment on advice of counsel.

But park board members approved a resolution Thursday night establishing policy which calls for immediate suspension of any employee charged with a felony during the period of indictment.

Prostitution arraignment set April 29

Penny Rouse, 24, of 2120 Hassell Rd., Hoffman Estates, will be arraigned on charges of prostitution and keeping a house of prostitution at 9:30 a.m. April 29 in Niles Branch of Cook County Circuit Court, 8970 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Mrs. Rouse was arrested last week when Cook County Sheriff's Police raided her Barrington Lakes apartment suspected to be the headquarters for the past three years of a suburban ring of $200-per-hour prostitutes.

Police said they seized "meticulously kept" files containing names of hundreds of apparent clients, reported to include prominent Chicago area figures as well as pornographic photographs found in albums, envelopes and a safe in the apartment.

Mrs. Rouse's husband, Richard, is reportedly aware of the ring but has not yet been definitely linked to its management, police said.

SPECIMEN BALLOT

PROPOSED REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

	NO

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by a paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kusper said.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kasper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kasper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Peskin bribery trial begins today

Trial is to begin today for Bernard M. Peskin, accused of paying $50,000 to six former Hoffman Estates officials in exchange for high-density zoning for Kaufman and Broad Homes Inc.

Attorneys completed selection of a 12-member jury plus two alternate jurors

Friday afternoon. They are to start this morning's court session with opening arguments. Assistant U.S. Attorneys Anton Valukas and Tyrone Fahner will then call the first prosecution witnesses.

Peskin faces 11 charges of bribery, two of income tax evasion and one of conspiracy to commit bribery. He was indicted last October along with former Mayors Roy Jenkins and Edward Pinger and former trustees Howard Noble, James Sloan, Gerard Meyer and Herbert Gibson Kaufman and Broad also was charged.

ALL THE FORMER officials pleaded guilty and were sentenced to terms in federal prisons. They all have agreed to testify against Peskin, according to statements by their defense attorneys when they were sentenced.

Kaufman and Broad constructed the Barrington Square condominium-townhouse development, and Barrington Lakes apartment complex, all east of Barrington Road and near Hassell Road in Hoffman Estates. Zoning was granted in late 1968 and early 1969, and Peskin is alleged to have paid the former officials in several installments during the time period. Although Pinger was no longer mayor or a member of the village board, he was a member of the former planning and zoning commission when the zoning was granted.

During jury selection Friday morning, U.S. Atty James Thompson appeared briefly in the courtroom of presiding U.S.

District Court Judge Frank McGarr. But it is not anticipated Thompson will play an active role in the trial.

Plan board shuns stand on donations

The Hoffman Estates Plans Commission backed off last week from a request to suggest guidelines for builder donations to Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54.

"It is not the purview of the plans commission or the village, nor is it their responsibility, to set the guidelines. The school district knows full well what is required of them, and should say so," said commission chairman Richard Regan.

The commission agreed "the school board is charged with responsibility of what the guidelines should be," and at least one member thought the Dist. 54 request was "a cop out," reported Regan.

"If they have to review the guidelines, they should do so, but they know what it costs to educate each child, and what land is needed," Regan commented.

The commission's opinion will be reported to the village board Monday in minutes of the meeting, said Regan.

Whether the village board discusses the question will be up to trustees, suggested Regan, who indicated he does not intend to "make an issue" of the matter. Regan also emphasized village trustees may take a different view of the school board request.

Dist. 54 Board of Education members agreed at their meeting March 7 to invite area villages to propose guidelines for the amount of cash and funds to be solicited for donations from builders. Since guidelines adopted by the school board have not been enforced by all villages, the village representatives should state what guidelines, if any, they will enforce, suggested school board members.

Dist. 211 wrapup

Student discipline policy review set

Revisions in the student discipline policy for High School Dist. 211 will be discussed in open meetings of the board of education in the next few months.

Board members agreed to the discussions during their meeting Thursday night and member Robert Seger suggested that the board meet in special sessions as a committee-of-the-whole to discuss the policy. Board Pres. Robert Creek said the board will probably seek the views of parents, students and school personnel as it reviews student discipline practices.

The discipline policy has been criticized by some students, parents and board members in recent months because it allows for the expulsion of students for poor school attendance. One board member, Jean Fisler, has said she is opposed to the policy and has repeatedly abstained from voting to expel students for absenteeism.

The board voted Thursday to divide the policy into two parts, one on administrative details such as student registration and the other on student discipline and attendance rules. Creek said the section on administration should be taken care of quickly but the board will probably need "three or four rounds" of meetings to iron out revisions of the discipline policy.

Creek then asked the board to reaffirm its present policy while it considers changes "in order to provide some continuity in the school system." Mrs. Fisler objected. "I don't see any reason for a motion to reaffirm anything," she said. "It would be similar to voting on the policies that are going to be up for discussion. If we reaffirm the present policy that is like saying we're in favor of it."

Creek said a split vote on expulsion cases is disheartening to the school's discipline officers who "have to deal with this day to day." He said the board should show its support of the administration by saying to them "until we change it you keep doing what you've been doing."

Board member Edward Perry said he is not upset by a split vote on an expulsion. "Nothing is black and white, it's all shades of gray. I have been disturbed by some unanimous votes," he said.

Some board members said that the board's motion should not be worded "reaffirm" but should say that the present policy will prevail while it is being revised. Creek changed the wording and six board members voted in favor of the motion. Mrs. Fisler abstained.

Conant High expanding

Construction on a $200,000 addition to Conant High School for special education facilities is scheduled to begin in June after students have been dismissed for summer vacation.

The board approved a contract with Perkins and Will Architects, who will oversee construction and make improvements on the rest of the Conant building in accordance with the state life safety code.

The addition will add about 4,000 square feet to the building and will contain three special education classrooms and offices for the school psychologist, social worker, speech therapist and learning disabilities teacher. The addition will be about twice the size of a similar addition built on Fremd High School a few years ago.

Meals on Wheels starts today

Meals on Wheels, a program to deliver lunch and dinner to elderly invalids in Palatine Township, starts today.

Joyce Lennox, coordinator for the Palatine Township Council on the Aged, is organizing the program. A hot lunch and sack dinner will be delivered each day by volunteers to elderly senior citizens who request the meals. Food will be prepared by dietitians at St. Joseph's Home for the Elderly in Palatine.

Applicants for the program must have a doctor's signature and recommended diet to participate. Assistance in obtaining and in completing the application is available by calling Mrs. Lennox at 991-1112. Volunteers to deliver the meals are also being asked to call that number.

Meals will cost a total of $2 per day, and include a main dish, starch, salad and dessert for lunch, and a sandwich, fruit and dessert for the evening meal.

Senior citizens who have recently been released from a hospital, are homebound or unable to prepare their own meals may sign up for the program for not less than one week. Meals will be delivered between 12 and 1 p.m., Mrs. Lennox said.

Rift grows apparent between Hendricks, trustees

by MARCIA KRAMER

A news analysis
Is it for personal glory? Political gain? Genuine convictions perhaps?

Call it what you may, Mount Prospect Village Trustee Richard N. Hendricks has been noticeably breaking away from other members of the village board in recent weeks on a variety of issues. And in each case, other trustees have made their opposition to Hendricks' viewpoints publicly known.

In the process, a rift appears to be developing between Hendricks and other members of the village board. The friction is reportedly due to some trustees losing patience with Hendricks' insistence that certain approaches to problems that have been ruled out by the rest of the board are nevertheless feasible.

An example of the slipping relations occurred last week, when, one by one, trustees reportedly got up and left an executive session meeting while Hendricks was talking.

HERE ARE SOME of the recent public splits between Hendricks, a trustee for one year and other board members

- Vehicle stickers: Hendricks suggested the cost be reduced from $10 to $7.50 for motorists who purchase the stickers promptly. Other trustees and village administrators say that's not possible, because as much as $50,000 in revenues needed for road repairs would be forfeited.

- Rob Roy Golf Course: The full board is anxious to buy the course to preserve it as open space. However, all but Hendricks have given up hope of obtaining a federal or state grant to do so. The lone trustee has written 16 letters on his own and is attempting to pursue avenues of funding that have been ruled out by the rest of the board. In an additional dispute, Hendricks believes the estimated $6 million to $9 million price tag of the golf course to be out of line, because the Village of Buffalo Grove recently arranged to buy a 127-acre course for $11 million (Rob Roy is 200 acres).

- Downtown revitalization: Hendricks contends four local groups—the planning commission, downtown study group, village planner and Chamber of Commerce—could draw up a study of downtown Mount Prospect. Other board members as well as spokesmen for each of the four groups say they have neither the time nor expertise and say the study should be conducted by an outside agency.

At first glance, it may appear Hendricks is trying to pick up political points. After all, what taxpayer could oppose saving money on purchasing vehicle stickers, buying the golf course and studying the central business district?

TO HENDRICKS, though, it's not political at all. "Why am I doing all this?" he asked rhetorically. "Personal conviction. I may be criticized about personal or political gain by my colleagues, but I'm just fulfilling my own personal commitments." He indicated he has not made up his mind whether to run for reelection when his term expires next year.

Village board members questioned by The Herald also discounted political motives. "I don't think Dick is up to anything," said one member who asked not to be identified. "It's just plain personality." Another trustee agreed. "He has certain opinions that are difficult to dislodge in view of the facts put before him," he said. "I don't think he's up to something. I think it's just his nature."

A letter from a state official, for example, indicating it is "generally" not the policy of the state to buy golf courses was interpreted by most village board members as discouraging, a polite refusal to give state funds to buy Rob Roy. Hendricks, however, regarded it as encouraging, and has pitted his energies toward loosening state funds for the purchase. "I see it as a challenge to go out and see what we can get," he said.

IN THE VEHICLE sticker disagreement, Hendricks said Arlington Heights is able to offer its residents vehicle stickers at reduced rates so Mount Prospect should be able to as well. Other trustees argue that the vehicle sticker funds are needed for road improvements, and point to an apparent inconsistency in Hendricks' argument when he reportedly said at an executive session meeting last week that more money is needed for road repairs.

"It's very frustrating," said one board member, who does not envision an early end to the disputes between Hendricks and other trustees. "It's going to go on, I'm sure. And I'm afraid it will get a bit more nasty."

Village, developer may compromise in zoning dispute

by MARCIA KRAMER

A compromise reportedly is in the works over a developer's request to build condominiums at the northwest corner of River Road and Camp McDonald Road in Mount Prospect, and the village's opposition to the plans, The Herald has learned.

Neither the developer, J. M. Brickman Mid West Corp., Mount Prospect, nor village officials have disclosed specific terms but Village Atty. John J. Zimmermann confirmed "there may be a settlement in the offing."

Brickman's request to rezone the 3.3-acre parcel for 85, (later reduced to 60) condominium units was rejected by the village board Nov. 21, 1972, and again July 24, 1973.

School election may be uncontested

Unless another person files candidacy petitions before the Friday filing deadline voters in Elementary School Dist. 26 will face an uncontested race for two board seats.

Sylvia Lurie, an incumbent, and Frank Smith thus far are the only candidates to file for the April 13 election. Two three-year terms will be decided in the race.

Both Mrs. Lurie and Smith have been endorsed by the Dist. 26 caucus.

Voters in Dist. 27 will apparently be deciding among three candidates to fill two three-year terms up for election April 13.

Two incumbents, Edith Freund and Robert Novy and Arthur Vogelgesang filed their petitions with the school district office last week. All have been endorsed by the Dist. 27 caucus.

Officials in the district said no one else has taken out petitions. Candidates have until Friday, March 22 to file.

In both cases, the project was given a favorable vote, but not by a two-thirds majority, necessitating when Rainbow Ridge homeowners filed written objections to the rezoning request for "The Villas of Port-Au-Prince Condominiums and The River-Mill Shopping Mall" plans. The Rainbow Ridge subdivision is adjacent to the site.

FOLLOWING THE second vote, Brickman sued the village in Cook County Circuit Court, seeking zoning for one floor of commercial offices, and five floors containing 113 dwelling units. The village filed a response, but the case has not yet been heard pending possible out-of-court settlement.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert would say only that "a proposed consent decree" involving the property will be on the village board agenda for discussion at its April 2 meeting.

"Neither side wants the ultimate risk" of a court ruling, he said. "We have discussed a compromise between what they want and what we want."

Brickman, the developer, is reported out of town, and his attorney, Robert DiLeonardi, was unavailable for comment.

IN FILING THE suit against the village last September, DiLeonardi contended the property "was involuntarily annexed... without the knowledge or consent of (Brickman), and that if such annexation attempt was known to (Brickman), it would have opposed annexation."

Prior to the property's annexation to Mount Prospect in September, 1971, it had been zoned for commercial multifamily use in unincorporated Cook County.

In the original petition to the village seeking rezoning for 85 condominium units, 40 per cent of the property was to remain open space. The density works out to 25 units per acre, slightly over the village limit of 23 units per acre.

HERE'S WHAT developer J. M. Brickman has proposed to be built at the northwest corner of River Road and Camp McDonald Road in Mount Prospect. The first floor of the six-story Y-shaped building would be used commercially, and the upper five stories for condominiums. Brickman and the village are reportedly arriving at a compromise to settle the disagreement over zoning for the 3.3-acre site.

Gill hits top of pay ladder

Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill is the highest-paid elementary school administrator in the Northwest suburbs, having just received a new, three-year contract setting his annual salary at $37,000.

The contract, approved last week by the school board, reflects an 11 per cent increase over the $33,300 paid to the superintendent for the 1973-74 academic year. It goes into effect July 1.

Gill's contract also provides that he will receive four weeks' paid vacation and the usual benefits specified for all full-time employees of School Dist. 21, uncluding life, health and accident insurance.

The $33,300 received by Gill for the current year is comparable to the salaries of other local elementary school superintendents. Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Supt. Donald Strong is making $36,000, Elk Grove Twp. Dist. 59 Supt. James Erviti receives $34,182 and Mount Prospect Dist. 26 Supt. John Fridlund's salary is $27,000. High School Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert is currently making $38,500.

LIKE SEVERAL other elementary school superintendents, Gill receives a car to use in addition to his regular salary and contract benefits. The car is replaced every two years and the vehicle Gill presently uses is to be traded next year.

Last year, Gill received a six per cent pay raise over his previous salary of $31,500. The superintendent's raise was comparable to a 6 per cent pay hike negotiated by Dist. 21 teachers.

Bargaining teams representing local teachers and the Dist. 21 school board are currently negotiating the 1974-75 teacher contract. There is no relationship between the salaries provided administrators and teacher salaries.

Elk Grove Twp. budget vote date set

Elk Grove Township residents' last chance to suggest changes or additions to the proposed $475,207 budget is March 26 during the 8 p.m. public budget hearing preceding adoption of the budget.

Township officials have approved the preliminary budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year, an 8 per cent increase over last year's budget of $439,000.

The budget is on public display at the township offices at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Biggest budget fund jump is in the committee on youth appropriation. In contrast to last year's budgeted $22,000 figure, the auditors earmarked $58,220 for the committee on youth fund.

Youth committee director Paul Paprocki will receive a 26 per cent pay raise from $9,500 to $12,000 a year. A further provision in the budget allows for another 10 per cent increase after six months which would put his salary at $13,200 yearly.

During the preliminary budget meeting Supervisor Richard Hall said the director's salary was being substantially raised to bring it up to par with other youth directors.

THE TOWNSHIP has earmarked an almost 100 per cent increase in funding to the Elk Grove—Schaumburg Township Mental Health Center. However, these funds will be taken from the township's federal revenue sharing allocation.

The auditors budgeted $83,000 total to the center in contrast to last year's $45,000.

The town fund budget estimate went up from last year's $185,000 to a proposed $237,348 total. This fund lists expenses for officials' salaries, additional personnel, employees and officials' hospitalization and life insurance fees, and all township office expenses.

The budget for the general assistance fund is set at $78,400 and the Road and Bridge Fund at $176,000, both the same as last year.

Township officials expect to receive about $300,000 in federal revenue sharing.

SPECIMEN BALLOT

PROPOSED REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

	NO

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum—which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?"—will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kuper said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committeeman.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kuper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kuper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

money during the next fiscal year. In addition to the $65,000 appropriated for the mental health center they have earmarked $10,000 for public safety; $70,000 for environmental protection for sewer and flood control; and $8,000 for recreation.

OTHER FEDERAL revenue-sharing expenses budgeted for are a $21,587 allocation to the Clearbrook Center, $1,178 to the Crossroads Clinic, and $5,000 for administrative costs.

Social services for the aged and poor are part of the federal revenue sharing fund budget with $15,000 set aside for printing and distribution of a senior citizens newsletter, $20,000 for a bus and $30,000 allocated for a day care center.

Other expenses budgeted for out of federal revenue sharing funds are $13,000 for transportation, $6,000 for office equipment and $15,000 for building and grounds.

Summer school, NEC, EVE on board agenda

The Dist. 57 School Board will meet at 8 p.m. today at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St., Mount Prospect.

Among items to be discussed are guidelines for the summer school program, consideration of the Northwest Educational Cooperative budget and participation in Project EVE, elementary vocational education.

The NEC budget is a tentative cost breakdown which does not give cost figures for individual member school districts. The cost for each district will be computed based on next year's enrollment figures.

Parliamentarians to meet

Marjan's Suburban Parliamentary unit of the National Assn. of Parliamentarians will hold a seminar on how to conduct meetings Saturday at Moraine Valley Community College, 10900 S. 88th Ave. in Palos Hills.

The seminar is open to anyone interested in learning how to properly conduct an organizational meeting. It will be led by Henrietta Marjan of Palos Heights, Rosemary Chamberlain of Arlington Heights and Ardith Inman of Evergreen Park. All are registered parliamentarians with the National Assn. of Parliamentarians.

Registrations are currently accepted by mail. Fees are $6.50 which includes materials and a box lunch and may be mailed to Miss Inman at 9425 S. Avers, Evergreen Park 60424 by March 20.

For further information, please call Mrs. Marjan at 448-8881 or Miss Inman at 422-1059 after 5 p.m.

Hersey band 'up' for 'Doc'

The band kids at Hersey High School are supercharged up these days! "Doc" Severinsen of the NBC Tonight Show is coming to perform with the band on Saturday, April 13. He'll play at two concerts, one at 4 p.m. and the other at 9 p.m. at the school.

All credit for the appearance of "Doc" at Hersey in April should go to Donald Caneva, band director. The band performed with Severinsen at Moorhead, Minn. at the Northwest Band Clinic in February. Caneva has worked relentlessly since then to arrange for Doc to come here for the band's sixth annual Pops Concert.

General admission tickets for the concerts are available for $3 at the school, 259-8500, or 259-1314.

By the way, autograph bounds may be interested in knowing that Doc Severinsen is spending the night after the concerts at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel in Arlington Heights.

RALPH WILDER, band director at Prospect High School, arranged a dandy field trip for 100 of the school's band members and music students. They attended an afternoon performance of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at Orchestra Hall last Wednesday.

ALICE SCHROEDER, chairman of the "Discotheque 74" at St. Raymond last Saturday night, has some good words about our local youth.

"There were 427 high school young people at the discotheque. They were from all of the churches and schools in the area and we had absolutely no problems," said Alice. "Everybody enjoyed themselves and it was a wonderful success."

"Discotheque 74" was the celebration of the church's 25th anniversary set up specifically for the high school crowd. Mrs. Schroeder had 21 other adults helping her with supervision and details.

SOUTH CHURCH-Community Baptist is having a mother-and-daughter banquet tomorrow evening. The program for the event will be "Puppets and Magic," by the Allen Carlson family from Palatine.

ST. MARK Lutheran Church women will have a garden party brunch Wednesday. The church's Fellowship Hall will be transformed into a "garden" with flowers and decorations.

Dolores Haugh, writer, mother and Mount Prospect Garden Club member, will display her collection of crosses and will speak on "The History of the Cross." All are invited, at 9:30 a.m., 200 S. Wille St. A nursery will be available.

ST. PAUL School's Parent-Teacher-League is planning a fund-raising "Old World" Italian dinner Friday, March 29. ## Push for housing on St. Viator land slated again

by KURT BAER

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. will try again to overcome objections to its proposed low-and moderate-income housing project next to St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

MHDC's board of directors voted unanimously Friday to appeal a recent decision by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Thomas R. McMillen which upheld the village board's refusal to rezone the Viatorian property for the project.

Formal notice will be filed in federal appeals court this week, according to Salvatore Ferrera, MHDC's executive director.

The appeal will be based on McMillen's interpretation of the laws and the legal precedents cited in MHDC's lawsuit against the Arlington Heights board of trustees.

Ferrera said MHDC has "more than adequate financial resources to carry this all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary."

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Village Pres. Jack Walsh has said on several occasions that the village will continue to defend its position in the case for as long as necessary.

Despite the ruling against MHDC, Ferrera said the board of directors was encouraged by many points in McMillen's decision.

"On many points the judge found our facts to be correct, but had a different opinion on interpretation of the law — interpretations which we feel can be strongly supported in our favor," he said.

MHDC is asking court-ordered rezoning of 15 acres in the southeast corner of the Viatorian property in order to permit construction of 190 townhouses where rents would be subsidized for low-income, minority families.

THE NONPROFIT development corporation is charging that the village's refusal to change the property's single-family zoning is racially discriminatory.

McMillen, however, ruled in favor of the village, declaring that the trustees were motivated "by a legitimate desire to protect property values and the integrity of the village's zoning plan."

Ferrera said MHDC's appeal brief

Three receive injuries in two-car head-on

Three Arlington Heights women were treated and released Saturday from Northwest Community Hospital with injuries suffered in a two-car head-on collision.

The accident occurred on Dunton Street just north of Elm Street at 1:15 p.m. Saturday.

According to police reports, Cynthia L. Dahme, 16, of 1560 N. Evergreen Ave., drove across the center line of Dunton Street and ran head-on into an oncoming auto driven by Karen E. Hanson, 20, of 304 S. Ridge Ave. Miss Dahme suffered knee injuries and her passenger, Marilyn Nicol, 18, of 23 W. Canterbury Dr., received mouth injuries in the accident. Miss Hanson suffered mouth and knee injuries.

Police ticketed Miss Dahme for driving on the wrong side of the road. She is scheduled for an April 10 hearing in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Village legal, professional fees: $8,284.95

Legal and other professional services in the Viatorian housing case so far have cost the Village of Arlington Heights $8,284.95.

The bulk of the money has been paid to Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel for his defense of the village's position in the case and related court costs such as printing of transcripts.

Two professional witnesses who testified in behalf of Arlington Heights — planner Rolf C. Campbell and appraiser P. Gregory Opeka — also are paid for their services.

The decision by the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. to appeal U.S. Dist. Court Judge Thomas R. McMillen's recent ruling in the case will result in added expenses for both sides.

But it is highly unlikely that cost alone will force either party to give up its position.

"Quite frankly, we're getting a lot of financial help," says MHDC Executive Director Salvatore Ferrera. The nonprofit development corporation is financially able to carry the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, he says.

Likewise village officials have given no indication that justice in the case has a price ceiling.

would focus on a number of conclusions in McMillen's decision.

He disputed the judge's statement that MHDC had failed to cite any cases where the equal protection rights guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment had been applied to housing.

"We cited 16 cases where the Fourteenth Amendment had been used in housing cases," he said.

Ferrera said that the judge's acceptance of MHDC's standing to bring the lawsuit against the village was another important aspect of the decision.

"Our standing was a leading village objection. They brought it up in two separate motions to dismiss the lawsuit and wasted a lot of time on something we both knew they were wrong about," he said.

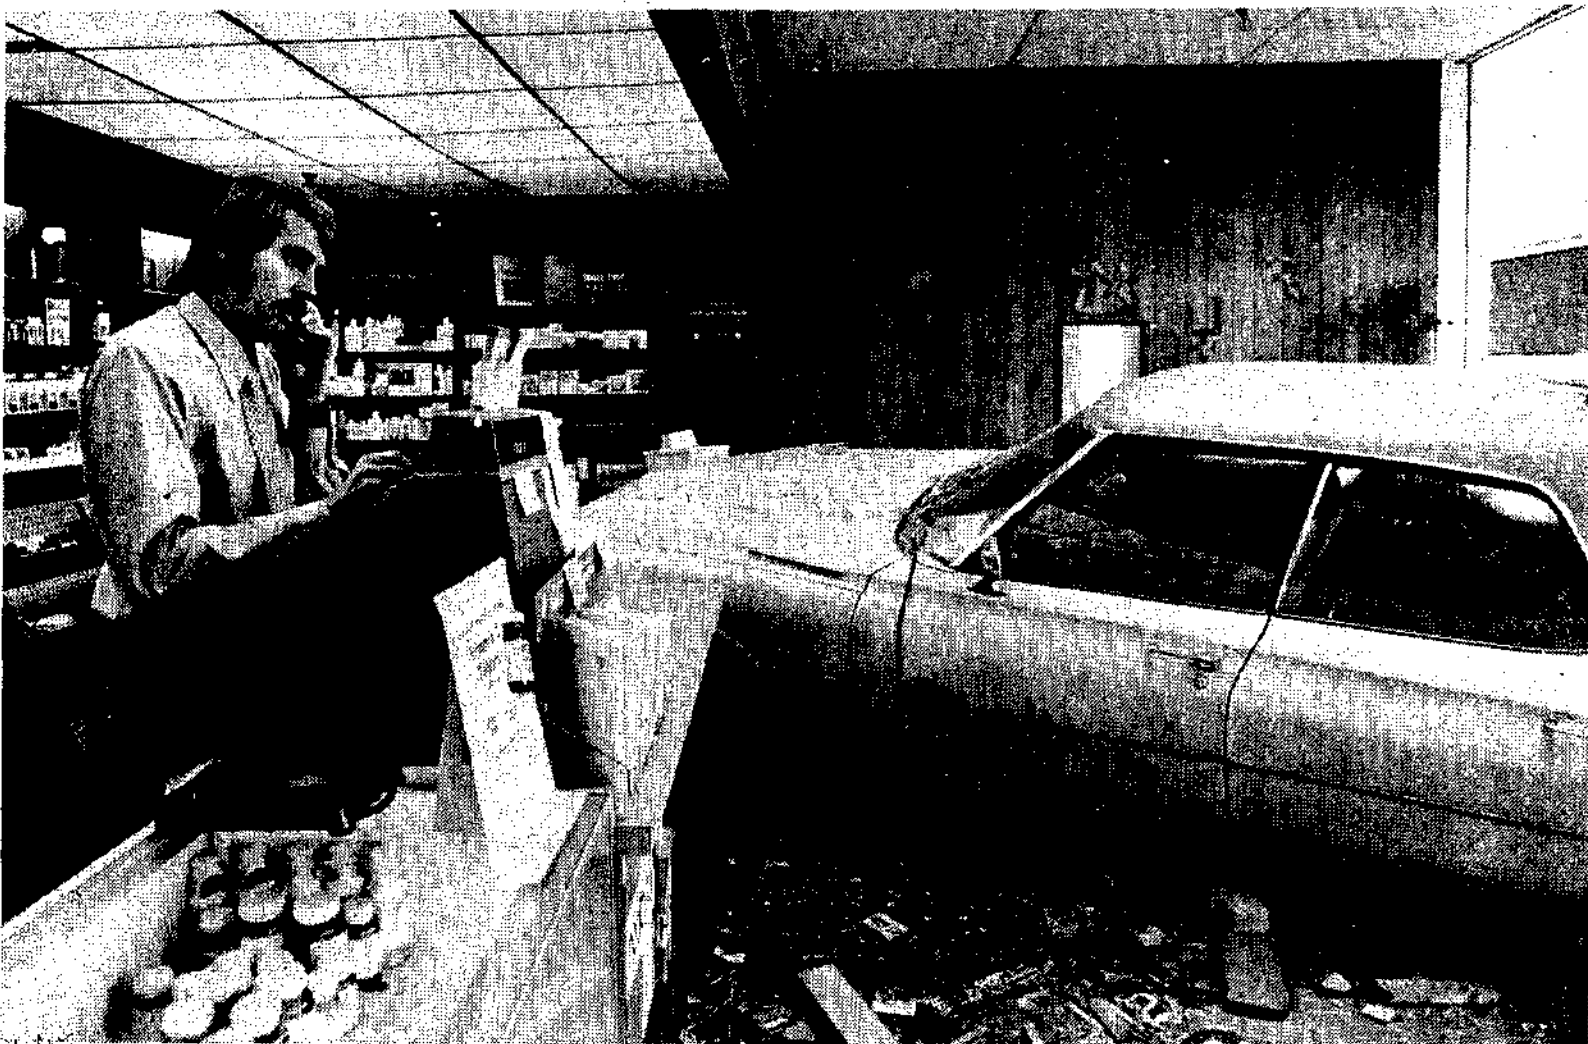

MHDC's original lawsuit was filed in June, 1972. But the case did not come to trial until January of this year.

IN HIS DECISION McMillen found that "there is no direct evidence by which to determine the motives or mental processes of the trustees, and plaintiffs depend on circumstantial evidence."

But Ferrera says MHDC attorneys were barred from questioning village trustees on their motives by the judge, and that this point too probably would be included in the appeal.

In another section of the decision, McMillen said MHDC had proved that housing for low-income families was scarce in Arlington Heights. But he said the scarcity affects all low wage earners, not just Blacks or Mexican-Americans.

"The association between economic and racial discrimination is extremely strong as any number of studies have shown. The overlap is between 75 and 90 per cent," Ferrera said.

Park district's hopes boosted

Army drops Nike site Reserve plan

The Army will not follow through on its plans to establish a Reserve training center at the Arlington Heights Nike Base, Wilke and Central Rds., according to the office of U. S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson.

The decision boosts hopes of the Arlington Heights Park District to establish a golf course on the site.

A spokesman said Friday the Army will not meet the time limit set by the General Services Administration for filing plans for the proposed training center on land formerly held by the Navy for use as housing.

The fate of the 52 Navy acres were clouded last week when it was learned the Army sent a letter to the GSA requesting the land not be declared surplus.

The Army and other branches of the armed forces had already turned down the land once, during the process of declaring the land surplus. The Army letter, described by Stevenson's office as "highly unusual," blocked the surplus declaration temporarily.

The GSA had said they would give the Army 10 days to come up with specific plans for the site. If none were forthcoming the GSA would proceed with its polling of other federal agencies to determine if there was any need for the land.

A SPOKESMAN FOR the Chicago office of the GSA said when the Army letter was first received, "If they don't come to us, we'll go to them. We won't let this land sit there."

The GSA must still complete its polling of the other federal agencies before the Nike Base said, "We really believe that we have received the kind of Congressional help we had asked for and expected of Adlai Stevenson."

A spokesman for Sen. Stevenson, said,

"Right now the chances for the park district are excellent."

KAY MULLER, park district vice president, said Friday, "It sounds super. It's somewhat like fighting city hall. You go into it thinking you can't win, and when you do win, it's a fantastic feeling."

She added, "A lot of credit has to go to the homeowners associations for their interest in this. They have shown a great concern and done a lot of work on our behalf."

Tom McDonnell, a member of the Citizens Committee for Utilization of the Nike Base said, "We really believe that we have received the kind of Congressional help we had asked for and expected of Adlai Stevenson."

JOHN TAMRAZ, a civilian employee of Ft. Sheridan public information office, said, "I can make no comment on the letter or the action by the GSA."

Tamraz said that although the request had originated from Ft. Sheridan, the details of any request would be handled "further up the chain of command."

Stevenson's office also said a report from the Army on possible uses of the remaining Army land at the base was due March 25. The base lost its mission earlier this year when funding for the Nike-Hercules missile system was cut from the federal budget.

If no uses are shown by the Army for the rest of the land, it too will enter the declaration of surplus procedure.

The park district plans to build a $1 million golf course on the Nike base. The board has already approved plans submitted by David Gill, Golf course architect, for the course to be named Lochland Links. A referendum would be needed to finance the project.

Plans outlined for 480-unit project

A Chicago developer brought plans before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Friday to build 480 apartment and townhouse units on 43 acres near Schoenbeck and Palatine roads in unincorporated Wheeling Township near the village of Wheeling.

Comsite Properties, Inc., requested a zoning change to enable the construction of the units to be sold as condominiums on a parcel north of Palatine Road and east of Schoenbeck Road, across the street from the proposed Harper College site.

Also included in the plans are commercial units for stores and businesses.

A representative of the firm told board members that the apartment units will be one-story townhouses and four-story buildings consisting of 48 units in each building.

Plans for the development include McDonald Creek. "We'll have McDonald Creek run through the property," said the Comsite representative, "and create large areas of retention."

HE ALSO ADDED that the residential area will be located on the eastern portion of the property and the commercial area on the western portion. The major access to the complex will be Schoenbeck Road.

The firm maintained that the development will generate 121 elementary school age children and 32 high school age children in its report. Members of the zoning board asked how many children there would be if the parcel consisted of single-family housing.

The developers said that 60 houses could be built on the 42 acres and that possibly as much as 150 children of both elementary and high school age could be living there.

A decision by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to grant or deny a zoning change could take several weeks, officials say. In the meantime, surrounding villages affected by the possible development may hold their own hearings.

SPECIMEN BALLOT

PROPOSED REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY

RTA: no party affiliation needed

Cook County residents can vote Tuesday on the RTA referendum without declaring party affiliation in the primary election.

Voters also can vote for nonpartisan members of the Cook County Board of School Trustees without declaring a party.

The school race will be listed on voting machines used county-wide. The RTA referendum — which asks for a "yes" or "no" choice on the question "shall a Regional Transportation Authority be created for Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties?" — will be determined by paper ballot.

A second paper ballot will be used for both Democratic and Republican judicial candidates, County Clerk Stanley Kuper said.

Precinct maps, polling place listings on Page 5.

The party primary ballots listed on voting machines will include Republican races for the county board, state treasurer and Palatine Township committee.

Democratic challenges include county assessor, Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Township committeemen and the 1st and 2nd districts for state representative.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. Kuper predicted a "light" vote, between 15 and 25 per cent of Cook County's 2.9 million voters. Absentee ballots "have been extremely light," Kuper said. Only 1,900 to 2,000 persons voted absentee by Friday.

Where to vote Tuesday...

Dist. 25 wrapup

Summer school to begin June 17

Summer school for elementary and junior high school students in Arlington Heights will be from June 17 to July 19, announced James Montgomery, director of instruction.

Brochures on classes and schedules will be mailed to students' homes around April 1 and registration will be conducted by mail. Additional forms will be available at each school. There will be no fees for courses.

Students presently enrolled in kindergarten through seventh grades may register for a variety of summer courses.

The school board Thursday night approved preliminary plans for the summer school and a budget of $98,000 for salaries, contractual service, materials and supplies.

The district expects to be totally reimbursed for the summer school program by state funds. Reimbursement depends on student attendance, Montgomery said.

Classes for elementary school students will be held at Berkeley, Olive, Windsor and Park Schools. Junior high classes will be held at the four junior high schools, Rand, Thomas, Miner and South.

$21,000 grant sought

School Dist. 25 will apply for a grant of more than $21,000 through the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Title II for purchasing library and audiovisual materials.

The district received notification of the estimated grant for the 1973-4 school year and must submit an application by the end of the month.

The district also plans to file an application to receive a maximum reimbursement of more than $10,000 through the National Defense Education Act, Title III, for purchases on audiovisual and science equipment and materials.

The reimbursement rate is 50 per cent and in order to receive the maximum reimbursement, the district must spend at least more than $21,000.

In the past when Dist. 25 applied for the grants, the amount of money received was less than the estimates, said Supt. Donald V. Strong.

Towel fee increase

Junior high school students next year will pay $5 a year for towel service.

School officials estimated that 15,000 towels are used per week. Last year students paid $4.20 or the school year for similar services.

Candidates' night slated

Three candidates for election to the Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 board will appear Thursday at a candidates' meeting sponsored by the Arlington Heights Council of PTAs.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the boys' gymnasium of South Junior High School, 301 W. South St., Arlington Heights. The public is invited to attend.

The candidates for the two vacancies on the board are Joan Klusmann, 3 E. Canterbury; Robert Kazlauskis, 639 N. Kaspar, and Richard Hammerli, 931 N.

Chestnut.

Mrs. Klusmann and Kazlauskis are incumbents who received caucus endorsement and Hammerli will run as an independent in the April 13 election. All three were recommended by the Arlington Teachers Assn. and the Illinois Political Action Committee for Education.

The three candidates will discuss their qualifications and answer questions from the audience. Mrs. Clifton Lawson, chairman of the legislation committee for the PTA council, will be moderator.

Auto emission test proposal opposed here

Arlington Heights' Environmental Control Commission is urging the village board to protest a proposed Cook County ordinance that would make emission testing mandatory for all cars registered in the county.

In a report to the board of trustees, ECC Chairwoman Jean Hanlon says that testing the 1.5 million cars in the county would be costly and have only limited value in improving air quality.

The cost of a county-wide exhaust testing program, similar to the emission testing now required within the City of Chicago, is $3.5 million. The Chicago program is expected to cut pollution within the city's central business district by only 1.5 per cent, Mrs. Hanlon reports.

UNDER THE ORDINANCE now being considered by the Cook County Board of Commissioners, owners of cars that fail the pollution control test will have 30 days in which to tune up their car and return for reinspection.

Cars that fail the test for a second or third time will not be registered by the Secretary of State.

Enforcement problems and uncertainties about the accuracy of the tests are further defects in the proposed county ordinance, Mrs. Hanlon says.

A public hearing on the ordinance was conducted Monday, but the draft law still has not received formal approval by the board of commissioners.

County officials say they need the ordinance in order to meet clean air standards dictated by the federal government. So far, there has been no promise of federal funds to help pay the cost of the annual inspection.

The village board is scheduled to consider the ECC recommendation at its regular meeting Monday night.

ALSO ON THE board of trustees' agenda is a decision on how to finance an anticipated $200,000 deficit in the village's 1974-75 budget.

Several trustees have said they favor raising Arlington Heights' property tax by about 6 cents per $100 assessed valuation to come up with the additional money. Others advocate using federal revenue sharing.

The Village of Arlington Heights has half a million dollars in revenue sharing money. The funds, which have been accumulated since the cash grant program began in 1972, were earmarked by the board for land acquisition.

A close vote is expected on the tax increase question. The matter was postponed at the last board meeting March 4 because two trustees were absent from that meeting.
